Ship of Dolls Shirley Parenteau, 2014-08-05

Can a ship carrying Friendship Dolls to Japan be Lexie's ticket to see her fun-loving mother again? A heartwarming historical novel inspired by a little-known true event. It's 1926 and the one thing eleven-year-old Lexie Lewis wants more than anything is to leave Portland, Oregon, where she has been staying with her strict grandparents and rejoin her mother, a carefree singer in San Francisco's speakeasies. But Mama's new husband doesn't think a little girl should live with parents who work all night and sleep all day. Meanwhile, Lexie's class has been raising money to ship a doll to the children of Japan in a friendship exchange, and when Lexie learns that the girl who writes the best letter to accompany the doll will be sent to the farewell ceremony in San Francisco, she knows she just has to be the winner. But what if a jealous classmate and Lexie's own small lies to her grandmother manage to derail her plans? Inspired by a project organized by teacher missionary Sidney Gulick in which U.S. children sent more than 12,000 Friendship Dolls to Japan in hopes of avoiding a future war, Shirley Parenteau's engaging story has sure appeal for young readers who enjoy historical fiction and for doll lovers of all ages. Social Class on Campus Will Barratt, 2023-07-03 This is at once a playful text with a serious purpose to provide the reader with the theoretical lenses to analyze the dynamics of social class. It will appeal to students and indeed anyone interested in how class mediates relationships in higher education, both because of its engaging tone and because it uses the college campus as a microcosm for observing and analyzing the concept of class and does so in a way that will prompt the reader to reflect on her or his location in the continuum of class and understand how every member of the campus community helps co-construct social class. Will Barratt starts from the premise that there is more than one way to study any idea and that the more tools we use to examine a concept, the more fully we understand it in all its complexity and ambiguity. To illustrate salient features of class on campus, he introduces five fictional European American women: Whitney, Page, Louise, Misty, Ursula, and Eleanor, and also includes the real stories of students who represent a diversity of backgrounds. Social class is often neglected or ignored as an important issue in the lives of students. The book provides the reader with a language for analyzing class with theories of class that go beyond standard economic and sociological models and examples of the manifestation of class all toward the end of helping the reader have more agency in working with this difficult and challenging concept. This book is suitable for students going to college for the first time, for courses exploring multicultural issues in contemporary society, and for anyone professionally involved with students. Each chapter includes a suggested experience and reflection questions to prompt readers to explore their thinking and feeling about class, as well as class discussion questions. I'll Remember April Jean Murray Munden, 2019-09-09 I'll Remember April is a love story that spans seventy years and three generations of a family. Louise Ferris is an elderly woman whose adored granddaughter comes to her with a problem of the heart. The girl's story prompts Louise to reflect on her life and loves and those of her family, told from several perspectives beginning at the outset of the Great War. A Look into the Rear View Mirror Carolyn Sue Noah Graetz, 2011-09-29 There are elements of a way of life that likely will not come our way again in Carolyn Sue Noah Graetz's homespun, sometimes intense paperback memoir. A Look into the Rear View Mirror In writing her book Graetz repeats genealogical information linking the life and times of some ancestors to events of the wider world This is a good method that might invite borrowing from any number of amateur genealogists who take the plunge Graetz did and do some volumes "Craft, Community and the Material Culture of Place and Politics, 19th-20th Century " Janice Helland,2017-07-05 Craft practice has a rich history and remains vibrant sustaining communities while negotiating cultures within local or international contexts More than two centuries of industrialization have not extinguished handmade goods rather the broader force of industrialization has redefined and continues to define the context of creation deployment and use of craft objects With object study at the core this book brings together a collection of essays that address the past and present of craft production its use and meaning within a range of community settings from the Huron Wendat of colonial Quebec to the Girls Friendly Society of twentieth century England The making of handcrafted objects has and continues to flourish despite the powerful juggernaut of global industrialization whether inspired by a calculated refutation of industrial sameness an essential means to sustain a cultural community under threat or a rejection of the imposed definitions by a dominant culture The broader effects of urbanizing imperial and globalizing projects shape the multiple contexts of interaction and resistance that can define craft ventures through place and time By attending to the political histories of craft objects and their makers over the last few centuries these essays reveal the creative persistence of various hand mediums and the material debates they represented This Angel on My Chest Leslie Pietrzyk,2015-10-29 This Angel on My Chest is a collection of unconventionally linked stories each about a different young woman whose husband dies suddenly and unexpectedly Ranging from traditional stories to lists a quiz a YouTube link and even a lecture about creative writing the stories grasp to put into words the ways in which we all cope with unspeakable loss Based on the author's own experience of losing her husband at age thirty seven this book explores the resulting grief fury and bewilderment mirroring the obsessive nature of grieving The stories examine the universal issues we face at a time of loss as well as the specific concerns of a young widow support groups in laws insurance money dating and remarriage This Angel on My Chest ultimately asks how is it possible to move forward with life while till death do you part rings in your ears and how is it possible not to Against All Enemies Richard Herman,1999-07 Captain Bradley Jefferson of the U S Air Force who is black and a Muslim is charged with treason after the failure of an air strike against terrorists in Sudan But as the prosecuting lawyer discovers the officer is a scapegoat in a game of high politics involving a demagogue running for president By the author of Power Curve Elusion Constance McCutcheon,2008-01-03 After a long series of professional failures the last one costly Louise Christy's life is finally on track with the sudden success of her newly established business a very special perfume shop But within weeks her triumph is stubbed out by her brother who informs her that her spectacular turnover is due to something else Her favorite shop clerk the extraordinary Toko is exhibiting herself in the shop windows mornings when she has the shop to herself Unable to believe the outrageous news and incapable of spying on her favorite
