Fit & Active Maureen K. LeBoeuf, Lawrence F. Butler, 2008 We all know the dilemma Kids are tuning in to TVs and video games and tuning out physical activity As a result kids are more overweight than ever More than half of the adult population in the United States are overweight and almost a third are clinically obese An obvious answer is to become and stay fit through regular physical activity The authors of Fit Active The West Point Physical Development Program know this and in response they developed a program at West Point the academy that s been educating U S military and political leaders for over 200 years Now you can use the West Point fitness program to meet the needs of your students Fit Active The West Point Physical Development Program is a practical ready to use resource that will help you inspire the kids under your charge to be more physically active It includes the following features The system that has worked for the authors in their West Point program along with detailed strategies for modifying their approach for various ages and environments Activities and ideas that have been reviewed by high school physical education teachers to ensure the suggestions are appropriate for high school students New ideas and information that will help you improve your program Assessment strategies to help you meet state and national physical education standards At West Point fitness is seen as a solid foundation for emotional and intellectual well being and as a way to help prepare students for a lifetime of health physical activity and success in the classroom and beyond With that in mind the authors focus on how to develop and assess your program in part I and in part II they provide core activity courses including basic movement swimming boxing self defense and obstacle courses that develop motor skills In part III they delve into wellness and personal fitness strategies workout designs assessments and related issues and in part IV they outline courses for lifetime activities such as tennis golf ice skating and rock climbing As a result you get a comprehensive resource that is easy to use well illustrated adapted for high school and appropriate for a variety of groups and one that will also help you meet state and national standards Along the way your students will learn leadership skills through sports and become motivated to make physical activity and fitness an integral part of their lives long after they leave school

Geothermal Heat Flux at the COST B-2 and B-3 Wells, U. S. Atlantic Continental Margin B. Della Vedova, 1987 Heat flow estimates at two sites on the U S Atlantic continental margin are presented An estimate of the heat flowing from the basement also has been obtained About 4 8 km of sediments penetrated at the COST B 2 and 4 0 km at the COST B 3 were deposited since the Upper Jurassic Well logs were used to evaluate thermal gradients and sedimentation rates whereas thermal conductivities and radiogenic heat productions were measured on drill cuttings samples A procedure to estimate in situ thermal conductivity from drill cuttings and well logs is described A substantial set of samples in the form of drill cuttings were sorted in four major lithologies sandstones siltstones shales and limestones Laboratory measurements of density porosity thermal conductivity quartz % potassium % uranium ppm and thorium ppm were performed on 128 reorganized and pulverized samples A significant correlation of the matrix thermal conductivity to quartz and potassium content was found In situ porosity and volume fraction of each lithology determined mainly from well logs were used to calculate in situ mean thermal conductivity Finally the mean in situ vertical component of the thermal conductivity as required for heat flow values has been estimated from a correction factor for the anisotropy of each lithology The in situ temperature and anisotropy effects substantially decrease estimates of thermal conductivity at depth Below the uppermost 1 km in both wells the best estimate of the thermal gradient is 26 3 C km⁻¹ at COST B 2 and 26 1 C km⁻¹ at COST B 3 whereas in situ mean thermal conductivities range between about 1 8 and 1 9 W m⁻¹ K⁻¹ 4 3 4 5 T C U The average heat flow is estimated as about 45 mW m⁻² 1 07 H F U at COST B 2 and 44 mW m⁻² 1 06 H F U at COST B 3 with an uncertainty of about 20 25% The mean radiogenic production in sediments at the two sites has been estimated as 1 83 COST B 2 and 1 44 COST B 3 10 6 W m⁻³ With a 12 14 km thick sedimentary sequence a radioactive contribution of 20 25 mW m⁻² can be expected The effects of sediment deposition compaction pore water advection and radiogenic heat production have been combined in a numerical model Hutchison 1985 to estimate the undisturbed basement heat flux Although the sedimentation depresses the basement heat flux by 15 20% this effect is more than compensated by radioactive heat production in the sediments so that the surface flux is estimated to be higher than that from the basement The latter is calculated at about 33 39 mW m⁻² 0 8 0 9 H F U a relatively low value The overall uncertainty is about 20 25% and other estimates on continental margins with thick sediments e g Reiter and Jessop 1985 probably have at least a similar uncertainty
