Reframing Difference

Reframing Difference:

Reframing Difference Carrie Tarr, 2005-09-17 This is the first major study of two overlapping strands of contemporary French cinema: cinema ma beur films by young directors of Maghrebi immigrant origin and cinema ma de banlieue films set in France's disadvantaged outer city estates. Carrie Tarr's insightful account draws on a wide range of films from directors such as Mehdi Charef, Mathieu Kassowitz, and Djamel Bensalah. Foregrounding such issues as the quest for identity, the negotiation of space, and the recourse to memory and history, she argues that these films challenge and reframe the symbolic spaces of French culture, addressing issues of ethnicity and difference which are central to today's debates about what it means to be French.

Re-hybridizing Transnational Domesticity and Femininity Stacey Weber-Fève, 2010-01-05 Re-hybridizing Transnational Domesticity and Femininity examines the problems of voicing the personal when considering the role and place of women in the home. Analyzing a collection of first-person cinematic and literary narratives by Assia Djebar, Annie Ernaux, Simone de Beauvoir, Raja Amari, Coline Serreau, Leïla Sebbar, and Yamina Benguigui, Weber-Fève explores the transnational processes of identity formation, gender performance, and construction of culture and society. Through a closer look at contemporary representations of French Algerian and Tunisian women on the page and on the screen, this study discusses the ways in which homemaking, nation, and gender are intricately bound to one another and situated in personal history. Working within as well as beyond so-called national systems of visual and written representation, these women artists challenge inherited and monolithic performances, definitions, and discourses of femininity. In doing so, they create re-hybridized subjects that begin to recognize and embrace the differences within themselves. The authors and filmmakers in this study, through their female protagonists, the protagonists' homes, and homemaking acts, and the investigative lens of the interrogation of the personal, are interested in exploring how the process of uncovering or articulating new and other identities and subjectivities ushers in new and re-hybridized ways of seeing, knowing, and being female.

Bridging Differences: Understanding Cultural Interaction in Our Globalized World Newtona (Tina) Johnson, Shawn Simpson, 2019-01-04 This volume was first published by Interdisciplinary Press in 2016. Cultural interaction in our worlds today is essential to building 21st-century bridges between communities. The experiences and lessons learned from the authors of the articles herein are shared with empathy and humility across many disciplines. The creation and re-creation of individual identities and group identities due to migrations throughout history is an ongoing story. Never does one cultural profile remain constant. On the contrary, as boundaries change, so do people and therefore cultures. Interculturalism is the one valid approach to understanding these changes but should be used with great sensitivity And sensitivity is the over riding emotion emanating from the different studies in this volume the search for one s identity when the latter has been lost or has become difficult to recognize the attempts to erase identities so as to conform to national unity the will to create new identities to fit in with new environments the need to re evaluate oneself so as to remain true to oneself These endeavors are subtly described in this vibrant compendium of intercultural monographies The SAGE Handbook of Organizational Communication Linda L. Changing Organizations from Within Robin C. Stevens, 2016-04-08 Organizational change is often insider led and supported by internal consultants and change agents Most of what is written about change comes from the perspective of external consultants or from academics researching the activities of those with insider change roles Changing Organizations from Within is unusual in providing a range of authentic insider accounts The editors define insiders as employees who lead and support change efforts within their own organizations and those psychoanalytically aware external consultants external insiders who work closely with organizations and use the dynamics of transference and projection in their relationships with clients to illuminate organizational issues Each chapter is written by an author with experience of different kinds of insider relationships with their client organizations Some work inside as employees Some are external consultants whose work involves developing insightful insider perspectives The book's editors and several of the authors are graduates or have been faculty members of London's Tavistock Institute Advanced Organizational Consultation programme with experience of running development programmes for consultants and of coaching insiders Changing Organizations from Within examines the pulls on role and identity that can easily undermine competence and practice Understanding the system psychodynamics present in organizations helps consultants and change agents to make use of an insider perspective without becoming enmeshed in the client organization's regressive and inertial dynamics The authors provide practical advice to help insiders navigate organizational space make sense of tricky situations and work more mindfully to help organizations change
