Regenerating Oregon's Forests Brian D. Cleary, Robert D. Greaves, Richard K. Hermann, 1986 Regenerating Oregon's Forests Brian D. Cleary, Robert D. Greaves, Richard K. Hermann, 1978 Regenerating British Columbia's Forests R. Parish, C. M. Johnson, G. Montgomery, A. Vyse, R. A. Willis, D. Winston, D.P. Lavender, 2011-11-01 Reforestation is a subject vital to the economy of British Columbia which depends heavily on its forests a valuable but expendable resource This book provides silviculturalists with a broad reference to the science and technology of reforestation in the Canadian province that forms the single most diverse forest region in North America The work combines for the first time both experiences recorded from practical reforestation projects and the results of scientific investigations The chapters of Regenerating British Columbia's Forests were compiled and reviewed by experts in each field of discussion Topics include the physiological bases for seedling vigour and the interaction of reforestation with seedling physiology the ecology of British Columbia's bioclimatic zones and the role of ecological site classification the application of financial analyses to reforestation decisions current technology in manual mechanical and chemical site preparation and in the use of fire to prepare planting sites recent progress in tree genetics and breeding and its relevance to the production of tree propagules nursery technology methodology in planting evaluation techniques of plantation release and the role of insects disease and small mammals and birds in the reforestation process Regenerating British Columbia's Forests will assist those responsible for planning reforestation projects to reach informed decisions and will challenge them to consider primarily the biological factors basic to reforestation success rather than short term costs and production technology Although its main audience is practising foresters and forestry students of British Columbia the text will be of considerable interest to foresters in other parts of Canada the United States and Europe who manage reforestation Mulches Aid in Regenerating California and Oregon Forests Philip M. McDonald, 1990 The use of mulches as a reforestation tool in Oregon and California began primarily in the late 1950's Many types of mulches were tried including sheets of plastic newspaper and plywood various thicknesses of bark sawdust sand and straw sprayed on petroleum resin and even large plastic buckets Most proved to be ineffective costly or both Early trials tended to use small short lived materials that aided conifer seedling survival but not growth Compared to other weed control techniques available at the time mulches were rather expensive Current trends are to apply longer lived somewhat larger mulches of mostly sheet materials made of reinforced paper polyester or polypropylene When the various costs of mulching material installation and maintenance are totalled the overall cost of the technique continues to be high Recently new mulch materials of polyester polypropylene or combinations of both have allowed silviculturists to consider large durable mulches 10 by 10 feet or 3 by 3 m for enhancement of growth not just survival and to control plants with stiffer stems Making Forestry Decisions, 2002 Regeneration of Douglas-fir in the Klamath Mountains Region, California and Oregon R. O. Strothmann, 1984 Regenerating Coastal Forests in Oregon, 1996 This annotated bibliography was

compiled to provide a comprehensive list of sources on the ecological factors that affect forest regeneration Abstracts from 494 publications are indexed by author species and subject and are arranged into 4 major sections Topics include the effects of biotic factors abiotic factors and stand and site history on vegetation effects of vegetation on aerial and soil resources effects of vegetation on stand development vegetation management plant succession and response of vegetation to silvicultural activities and disturbances The citations are predominately for coastal Douglas fir occurring west of the Cascade Range in Oregon and Washington however applicable citations for associated conifers hardwoods shrubs and herbs and for Alaska California and British Columbia are also included Citations on forest genetics seeds seedling physiology and insects are not included in the bibliography Harvest and Regeneration in Oregon's Commercial Forests ,1999

O. Strothmann,1979 A survey of 61 cutblocks planted since 1964 evaluated stocking of conifers trees 1 foot tall or taller on 2 milacre quadrats Overall stocking percentage averaged 42 2 and ranged from 15 to 8 1 Overall number of trees per acre averaged 396 In the regression model based on 36 cutblocks better stocking was associated with high site class northerly aspect elevation below 3000 feet and tractor rather than cable logging Stocking tended to increase with increasing age of plantation but decreased with increasing size of cutblocks A Bibliography on Seed-eating Mammals and Birds that Affect Forest Regeneration Larry F. Pank,1974 Birds and mammals that feed on tree seed can seriously delay or prevent forest regeneration Suitable methods to control these losses usually dictate whether reforestation by artificial seeding or natural seed fall is feasible Emphasis was placed on references covering the protection of conifer seed although pertinent material on the protection of rangeland and deciduous tree seed was included Citations are arranged alphabetically by author and follow the form outlined in Literature citations in publications of the Fish and
