Brennor, 2014-06-17 Y S Brenner is an economist whose main concern is with development and this attitude is reflected in his approach to economic history He begins this seminal study in the era of the Reformation in Europe and bases it on the hypothesis that once started economic progress will spread over ever increasing parts of the earth wherever and whenever conditions become suitable From this point of view he examines the nature of the impediments which prevent the more rapid and general progress of mankind towards greater material affluence while at the same time considering the positive growth promoting factors in the various economies Thus he provides an analysis of economic progress in the developed countries showing which natural social political and cultural forces promoted such progress and which delayed or hindered it He attempts to explain why European nations took several decades to emulate the achievements of Britain and why nations in other parts of the world such as Japan and Russia were unable for a considerable time to match the advances made in parts of Western Europe and the United States Finally he attempts to explain why the developing countries are still finding it so difficult to catch up with the economic progress of the more advanced nations Y S Brenner was Head of the Department of Understanding a Changing World Donald R. Kelley, 2021-01-14 The world is becoming more complex fraught with increasing possibilities for conflict over national rivalries economic competition and cultural and ideological fault lines This clear eyed text offers a structured and theoretically grounded way to think about the forces that animate change and the alternative futures they may create Donald Kelley views both contemporary reality and the future we face through the perspective of four different paradigms that shape our way of thinking about the world The nation state paradigm built on the assumption that the traditional Westphalian nation state remains the key building block of the present and the future which leads us to predict the future in terms of the nature and alignment of nation states The economic paradigm built on the assumption that economic factors are increasingly important which leads us to see the future in terms of factors such as interdependence globalization and trade as well as the growing opposition to these developments and the prioritization of national economic needs The identity and culture paradigm built on the distinct identities and cultures of nations and regions which leads us to view the future in terms of conflicting culture based communities transcending formal national or economic interests The ideology paradigm based on a post cold war reemergence of ideological conflict within and among nations which leads us to view a world based on ideology based conflict From these paradigms and their interactions Kelley builds a series of possible alternative futures of the international system His framework provides a unique way of looking at how and why the world is changing and the many different futures some peaceful and productive some warlike and destructive and others simply dysfunctional in which we might live

The Economic journal ,1925      The State and Justice Milton Fisk, 1989
Offering a new political theory combining elements from the Marxist and liberal traditions this book presents a disturbing view of the contemporary state at war with itself This internal conflict stems from the state's having the double task of spurring on the economy and protecting the welfare and rights of all its citizens Such conflict does not end at national boundaries but extends through the system of any imperial state This perspective illuminates the fractures and instability within the imperial system
