Nathaniel Hawthorne And The Romance Of The Orient:

Nathaniel Hawthorne and the Romance of the Orient Luther S. Luedtke, 1989-09-22 This volume argues that by focusing on British and American backgrounds readers have underestimated the impact of Asia and the East on American novelist and short story writer Nathaniel Hawthorne's 1804-1864 writing. The central force in Hawthorne's intellectual development was New England Puritanism. It fascinated even when it sometimes repelled him. It exercised a pull on his imagination which a lifetime of varied experience did not loosen. The author recreates Hawthorne's heritage and examines his readings in material dealing with the East. He examines three of Hawthorne's early tales that were all written before 1830 and he looks at Hawthorne's The Story Teller, the two volume book of sketches and tales Hawthorne unsuccessfully tried to publish in 1834 and issued piecemeal thereafter in periodicals as annuals. The author also evaluates the role of the Eastern world in Hawthorne's view of Romance and studies some of Hawthorne's remarkable heroines Beatrice Rapaccini, Hester Zenobia and Miriam in particular. The author maintains that the Puritan element in Hawthorne's ancestry has been overstressed and that insufficient attention has been paid to the equally important travel adventure exploration aspect of Hawthorne's heritage and craft.

Fictions of America Judie Newman, 2007-12-04 The Internet has had a huge impact on channels of communication and information reaching across time and space to connect the world through globalisation. In this Internet led world story links to story windows open on new stories and no overall authority establishes priority. This sense of globalisation has raised many questions for contemporary American Novelists: primarily the usefulness or redundancy of narrative and its potentially adaptive function. What are the right stories for such a broadband world? How do contemporary American novelists respond to issues such as the influence of the multinational corporation and its predecessors, human rights, Imperialism, the literary work as a marketable commodity, translation as betrayal, data overload and the implosion of the virtual into the biosphere? Is globalisation inevitable or is it a fiction which fiction turns into reality? Fictions of America explores these questions and looks at the ways in which India, China and Africa can be said to have underwritten American culture: how literature has been marketed globally and how novelists have answered back to power with resistant fictions. Judie Newman examines a wide range of fiction from the mid nineteenth to the twenty first century including the transnational adoption narrative, short story, historical novel, slave narrative, international bestseller and Western to illustrate her argument. Looking closely at authors such as Bharati Mukherjee, John Updike, Emily Prager, Hannah Crafts, Zora Neale Hurston, David Bradley, Peter Heg and Cormac McCarthy, Fictions of America provides a bold response to the crucial questions raised by globalisation.

American Arabesque Jacob Rama Berman, 2012-06-11 Part of the American Literatures Initiative Series, American Arabesque examines representations of Arabs, Islam and the Near East in nineteenth century American culture, arguing that these representations play a significant role in the development of American national identity over the century, revealing largely unexplored exchanges between these two cultural traditions that will alter how we understand them today Moving from the period of America's engagement in the Barbary Wars through the Holy Land travel mania in the years of Jacksonian expansion and into the writings of romantics such as Edgar Allan Poe the book argues that not only were Arabs and Muslims prominently featured in nineteenth century literature but that the differences writers established between figures such as Moors Bedouins Turks and Orientals provide proof of the transnational scope of domestic racial politics Drawing on both English and Arabic language sources Berman contends that the fluidity and instability of the term Arab as it appears in captivity narratives travel narratives imaginative literature and ethnic literature simultaneously instantiate and undermine definitions of the American nation and American citizenship Freedom's Empire Laura Doyle, 2008-01-11 A sweeping argument that from the mid seventeenth century until the mid twentieth the English language novel encoded ideas equating race with liberty Islam and Romanticism Jeffrey Einboden, 2014-11-06 Revealing Islam's formative influence on literary Romanticism this book recounts a lively narrative of religious and aesthetic exchange mapping the impact of Muslim sources on the West's most seminal authors Spanning continents and centuries the book surveys Islamic receptions that bridge Romantic periods and personalities unfolding from Europe to Britain to America embracing iconic figures from Goethe to Byron to Emerson as well as authors less widely recognized such as Joseph Hammer Purgstall Broad in historical scope Islam and Romanticism is also particular in personal detail exposing Islam's role as a creative catalyst but also as a spiritual resource with the Qur'an and Sufi poetry infusing the literary publications but also the private lives of Romantic writers Highlighting cultural encounter rather than political exploitation the book differs from previous treatments by accenting Western receptions that transcend mere Orientalism finding the genesis of a global literary culture first emerging in the Romantics early appeal to Islamic traditions The Ongoing End: On the Limits of Apocalyptic Narrative Michael Titlestad, David Watson, 2018-11-08 The world keeps turning to apocalypticism Time is imagined as proceeding ineluctably to a catastrophic perhaps revelatory conclusion Even when evacuated of distinctly religious content a broadly ecclesial structure persists in conceptions of our precarious life and our collective journey to an inevitable fate the extinction of the human species It is commonly believed that we are propelled along this course by human turpitude myopia hubris or ignorance and by the irreparable damage we have wrought to the world we inhabit Yet this apprehension is insidious Such teleological convictions and crises laden narratives lead us to undervalue contingent hesitant and provisional forms of experience and knowledge The essays comprising this volume concern a range of writers' engagements with apocalyptic reasoning Extending from a reading of Percy Bysshe Shelley's Triumph of Life to critiques of contemporary American novels they examine the ways in which end times reasoning can inhibit imaginative reflection blunt political advocacy or more positively provide a repertoire for the critique of complacency By gathering essays concerning a wide range of periods and literary dispositions this volume makes an important contribution to thinking about apocalypticism in literature but also as a social and political discourse This book was originally published as a special issue of Studia

Neophilologica     The Esoteric Origins of the American Renaissance Arthur Versluis, 2001-03-08 The term Western esotericism refers to a wide range of spiritual currents including alchemy Hermeticism Kabbala Rosicrucianism and Christian theosophy as well as several practical forms of esotericism like cartomancy geomancy necromancy alchemy astrology herbalism and magic The early presence of esotericism in North America has not been much studied and even less so the indebtedness to esotericism of some major American literary figures In this book Arthur Versluis breaks new ground showing that many writers of the so called American Renaissance drew extensively on and were inspired by Western esoteric currents

Hawthorne's Narrative Strategies Dunne, Michael, 1995 For more than 150 years readers have interpreted Nathaniel Hawthorne's fiction in a dazzling variety of ways Instead of arguing in favor of or against what these readers conceive the fiction to mean this examination of Hawthorne's narrative strategies demonstrates how he leads readers to reason as they do

Transoceanic America Michelle Burnham, 2019-05-23 Transoceanic America offers a new approach to American literature by emphasizing the material and conceptual interconnectedness of the Atlantic and Pacific worlds These oceans were tied together economically textually and politically through such genres as maritime travel writing mathematical and navigational schoolbooks and the relatively new genre of the novel Especially during the age of revolutions in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries long distance transoceanic travel required calculating and managing risk in the interest of profit The result was the emergence of a newly suspenseful form of narrative that came to characterize capitalist investment political revolution and novelistic plot The calculus of risk that drove this expectationist narrative also concealed violence against vulnerable bodies on ships and shorelines around the world A transoceanic American literary and cultural history requires new non linear narratives to tell the story of this global context and to recognize its often forgotten textual archive

Western Representations of the Muslim Woman Mohja Kahf, 2010-01-01 Veiled secluded submissive oppressed the odalisque image has held sway over Western representations of Muslim women since the Enlightenment of the eighteenth century Yet during medieval and Renaissance times European writers portrayed Muslim women in exactly the opposite way as forceful queens of wanton and intimidating sexuality In this illuminating study Mohja Kahf traces the process through which the termagant became an odalisque in Western representations of Muslim women Drawing examples from medieval chanson de geste and romance Renaissance drama Enlightenment prose and Romantic poetry she links the changing images of Muslim women to changes in European relations with the Islamic world as well as to changing gender dynamics within Western societies     Postcolonial Theory and the United States Amritjit Singh, Peter Schmidt, 2009-11-12 At the beginning of the twenty first century we may be in a transnational moment increasingly aware of the ways in which local and national narratives in literature and elsewhere cannot be conceived apart from a radically new sense of shared human histories and global interdependence To think transnationally about literature history and culture requires a study of the evolution of hybrid identities within nation states and diasporic identities across national boundaries Studies addressing issues of race

The Arabian Nights Robert Irwin, 2003-10-24 This literary companion guides the reader into the labyrinth of storytelling within The Arabian Nights The Arabian Nights has become a synonym for the fabulous and the exotic Every child is familiar with the stories of Aladdin Sinbad the Sailor and Ali Baba Yet very few people even specialists in oriental literature have a clear idea of when the book was written or what exactly it is Far from being a batch of stories for children The Arabian Nights contains hundreds of narratives of all kinds fables epics erotica debates fairy tales political allegories mystical anecdotes and comedies It is a labyrinth of stories within stories Widely held in contempt in the Middle East for its frivolity and occasional obscenity the work has nevertheless had a major influence on European and American culture to the extent that the story collection must be considered as a key work in Western literature A full understanding of the writings of Voltaire Dickens Melville Proust and Borges or indeed of the origins of science fiction is impossible without some familiarity with the stories of the Nights This guide traces the development of the stories from prehistoric India and Pharaonic Egypt to modern times and explores the history of translation and imitation Above all the book uses the stories as a guide to the social history and counter culture of the medieval Near East and the world of the storyteller the snake charmer the burglar the sorcerer the drug addict the treasure hunter and the adulterer

The Garden Politic Mary Kuhn, 2023-02-07 How worldwide plant circulation and new botanical ideas enabled Americans to radically re envision politics and society The Garden Politic argues that botanical practices and discourses helped nineteenth century Americans engage pressing questions of race gender settler colonialism and liberal subjectivity In the early republic ideas of biotic distinctiveness helped fuel narratives of American exceptionalism By the nineteenth century however these ideas and narratives were unsettled by the unprecedented scale at which the United States and European empires prospected for valuable plants and exchanged them across the globe Drawing on ecocriticism New Materialism environmental history and the history of science and crossing disciplinary and national boundaries The Garden Politic shows how new ideas about cultivation and plant life could be mobilized to divergent political and social ends Reading the work of influential nineteenth century authors from a botanical perspective Mary Kuhn recovers how domestic political issues were entangled with the global circulation and science of plants The diversity of Harriet Beecher Stowe's own gardens contributed to the evolution of her racial politics and abolitionist strategies Nathaniel Hawthorne's struggles in his garden inspired him to write stories in which plants defy human efforts to impose order Radical scientific ideas about plant intelligence and sociality prompted Emily Dickinson to imagine a human polity that embraces kinship with the natural world Yet other writers including Frederick Douglass cautioned that the most prominent political context for plants remained plantation slavery The Garden Politic reveals how the nineteenth century's extractive political economy of plants contains both the roots of our contemporary environmental crisis and the seeds of alternative political visions The Continuum Encyclopedia of American
