United Republic of Tanzania - Evaluation for action Mtui-Malamsha, N., Fasina, F., Aguanno, R., 2022-05-06 In response to a request from Members FAO developed the surveillance evaluation tool SET in 2017 to assess animal disease surveillance systems and provide country specific recommendations for improvement SET has been largely used in Africa under funding by the United States Agency for International Development USAID to guide capacity building activities related to animal disease surveillance Following its successful implementation in project countries the tool was made available to other countries and region under specific funding A re evaluation mission to the United Republic of Tanzania was conducted in November 2020 in close partnership with the country's veterinary services This was the first SET re evaluation done and the country was the first to pilot the tool in 2017 Findings from the missions and recommendations were compiled in a report that can be used by governments and partners to identify priority areas to improve animal disease surveillance in the United Republic of Tanzania

Climate Change and Coastal Resources in Tanzania Pius Zebhe Yanda, Ian Bryceson, Haji Mwevura, Claude Gasper Mung'ong'o, 2019-03-06 This volume synthesizes research from a five year program supported by the Norwegian Agency for Development to assess how coastal communities in Tanzania can adapt to climate change impacts such as sea level rise and better assert their rights to implement decisions regarding coastal resource management in the context of global climate change Throughout ten chapters the book deploys a holistic approach to adopt a conceptual model of socio ecological systems and characterize human nature interactions in an integrative way to understand anthropogenic pressures on ecosystems to guide conservation and management The book will be of interest to researchers students studying environmental management and climate change planners and policy makers The book begins by describing the biophysical and socio economic characteristics of the Tanzanian coastal environment then discusses the impacts of climate change on coastal resource governance community vulnerability and livelihood security Then intervention strategies are offered as a means for local communities to not only adapt to climate change impacts but also to engage in decision making processes to assess vulnerabilities and address challenges and limitations through educated measures The final chapters discuss the vulnerability and adaptation of coastal communities to climate change impacts to assess how livelihoods are constructed in response to impacts and summarize the key findings to determine the best adaptation strategies to improve adaptive capacity and reduce socio economic vulnerability United Republic of Tanzania International Monetary Fund. African

Dept.,2024-06-25 Context and outlook Economic growth is recovering from the impact of the unfavorable global economic environment and domestic factors Growth is expected to continue strengthening supported by improvements in the business environment and subsiding global commodity prices Inflation is projected to remain within the central bank s target range Growth friendly fiscal consolidation is underway anchored by the ECF arrangement and the current account deficit is narrowing reflecting fiscal consolidation easing commodity prices and tight external financing conditions The medium term outlook is positive contingent on implementation of the authorities reform agenda anchored by the ECF arrangement Climate change poses a major threat as Tanzania is highly vulnerable but not well prepared to address the effects of climate change
