In addition, an emerging body of new writers is redefining both the geographic and metaphorical boundaries of Canadian literature. Coupled with the propagation of digital technologies, Canada's burgeoning publishing industry presents unique challenges for both the introductory and seasoned literary researcher. Literary Research and Canadian Literature: Strategies and Sources provides researchers with the tools to navigate Canada's multifaceted literary scene. This guide addresses the tools and best practices for selecting and evaluating print and electronic sources related to the extensive and varied literature of Canada. Beginning with an overview of the strategies needed to conduct online research, individual chapters examine general literary reference materials, relevant online library catalogs including national and union library catalogs, scholarly journals, archival collections, microform and digital collections, periodicals, literary magazines, newspapers, and reviews, and Web and electronic resources. Special topics discussed include little magazines, scholarly gateways, and cultural resources. The guide culminates in a chapter that illustrates the application of the strategies explored to solve a research problem. The strategies discussed within the guide are applicable to both canonical and lesser-known authors, therefore making this work relevant to anyone interested in researching Canadian literature.

Feminist Readings of Native American Literature Kathleen M. Donovan, 1998-02-01 Who in a society can speak and under what circumstances These questions are at the heart of both

Native American literature and feminist literary and cultural theory Despite the recent explosion of publication in each of these fields almost nothing has been written to date that explores the links between the two With Feminist Readings of Native American Literature Kathleen Donovan takes an important first step in examining how studies in these two fields inform and influence one another Focusing on the works of N Scott Momaday Joy Harjo Paula Gunn Allen and others Donovan analyzes the texts of these well known writers weaving a supporting web of feminist criticism throughout With careful and gracefully offered insights the book explores the reciprocally illuminating nature of culture and gender issues The author demonstrates how Canadian women of mixed blood ancestry achieve a voice through autobiographies and autobiographical novels Using a framework of feminist reader response theory she considers an underlying misogyny in the writings of N Scott Momaday And in examining commonalities between specific cultures she discusses how two women of color Paula Gunn Allen and Toni Morrison explore representations of femaleness in their respective cultures By synthesizing a broad spectrum of critical writing that overlaps women s voices and Native American literature Donovan expands on the frame of dialogue within feminist literary and cultural theory Drawing on the related fields of ethnography ethnopoetics ecofeminism and post colonialism Feminist Readings of Native American Literature offers the first systematic study of the intersection between two dynamic arenas in literary studies today

Image Technologies in Canadian Literature Carmen Concilio, Richard J. Lane, 2009 The eight essays in Image Technologies in Canadian Literature reveal the ongoing importance of film and photography in the production of Canadian literary narratives Covering modern to cutting edge postmodern and postcolonial authors the role of image texts and technologies is thoroughly investigated in relation to translation performance history memory point of view picture poetics and dialectical images authors covered include Michael Ondaatje Daphne Marlatt Ann Marie MacDonald Robert Kroetsch Joseph Dandurand and Stan Douglas The resulting engagement with some of the key theorists of film and photography such as Walter Benjamin Roland Barthes and Susan Sontag leads to a lively contribution to the study of hybrid forms of Canadian literature and its key theoretical image texts

Challenging Addiction in Canadian Literature and Classrooms Cara Fabre, 2016-11-14 In the richly interdisciplinary study Challenging Addiction in Canadian Literature and Classrooms Cara Fabre argues that popular culture in its many forms contributes to common assumptions about the causes and personal and social implications of addiction Recent fictional depictions of addiction significantly refute the idea that addiction is caused by poor individual choices or solely by disease through the connections the authors draw between substance use and poverty colonialism and gender based violence With particular interest in the pervasive myth of the Drunken Indian Fabre asserts that these novels reimagine addiction as social suffering rather than individual pathology or moral failure Fabre builds on the growing body of humanities research that brings literature into active engagement with other fields of study including biomedical and cognitive behavioural models of addiction medical and health policies of harm reduction and the practices of Alcoholics Anonymous The book further engages with critical pedagogical strategies to teach critical awareness of stereotypes of addiction and to encourage the potential of literary analysis as a form of social activism

The Native American Renaissance Alan R. Velie, A. Robert Lee, 2013-11-11

The outpouring of Native American literature that followed the publication of N Scott Momaday's Pulitzer Prize winning House Made of Dawn in 1968 continues unabated. Fiction and poetry, autobiography and discursive writing from such writers as James Welch, Gerald Vizenor, and Leslie Marmon Silko constitute what critic Kenneth Lincoln in 1983 termed the Native American Renaissance. This collection of essays takes the measure of that efflorescence. The contributors scrutinize writers from Momaday to Sherman Alexie, analyzing works by Native women, First Nations, Canadian writers, postmodernists, and such theorists as Robert Warrior, Jace Weaver, and Craig Womack. Weaver's own examination of the development of Native literary criticism since 1968 focuses on Native American literary nationalism. Alan R. Velie turns to the achievement of Momaday to examine the ways Native novelists have influenced one another. Post-renaissance and postmodern writers are discussed in company with newer writers such as Gordon Henry Jr and D. L. Birchfield. Critical essays discuss the poetry of Simon Ortiz, Kimberly Blaeser, Diane Glancy, Luci Tapahonso, and Ray A. Young Bear, as well as the life writings of Janet Campbell Hale, Carter Revard, and Jim Barnes. An essay on Native drama examines the work of Hanay Geiogamah, the Native American Theater Ensemble, and Spider Woman Theatre. In the volume's concluding essay, Kenneth Lincoln reflects on the history of the Native American Renaissance up to and beyond his seminal work and discusses Native literature's legacy and future. The essays collected here underscore the vitality of Native American literature and the need for debate on theory and ideology.
