Pre Industrial Urban System France 1740 184:

The Pre-industrial Urban System Bernard Lepetit, 1994-07-21 This is a landmark publication in the urban study of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries which appears here for the first time in English Highly acclaimed in the original French edition it provides a synoptic view of the evolution of the French urban system before the Industrial Revolution by examining not only the major cities but the wider urban hierarchy The innovations of this study lie in Lepetit's methodology his use of models of urban interaction and the unravelling of the complex spatial dimensions to urbanization He also sets up a detailed analysis of French urbanization and regionalism and the different aspects of urban society finance building trade images and innovation Lepetit's ideas will be of major interest to scholars of urbanization and the industrial revolution in Europe

Cities, Railways, Modernities Carlos López Galviz, 2019-01-10 Cities Railways Modernities chronicles the transformation that London and Paris experienced during the nineteenth century through the lens of the London Underground and the Paris Métro By highlighting the multiple ways in which the future of the two cities was imagined and the role that railways played in that process it challenges and refines two of the most dominant myths of urban modernity A planned Paris and an unplanned London The book recovers a significant body of work around the ideas the plans the context and the building of metropolitan railways in the two cities to provide new insights into the relationship of transport technologies and urban change during the nineteenth century

Confiscating the common good Edward J. Woell, 2022-08-02 Comprising five microhistories this book proposes that the French Revolution's religious politics in small towns weakened democratic society to such an extent that it precluded political democracy It details two revolutionary dynamics that damaged the civic life of small towns social polarisation and the loss of local institutions that had been a source of social capital as well as a common good Detailed narratives about Pont Mousson Gournay en Bray Vienne Haguenau and Is sur Tille also reveal that contrary to the view upheld by many scholars small town religious politics extended far beyond the pivotal Ecclesiastical Oath of 1791 Other developments the nationalisation of Church property the dissolution of religious orders and the elimination of bishoprics chapters parishes and collegial churches also adversely affected the wellbeing of these small urban communities not only in the Revolution but also in the two centuries that followed

European Cities, 1890-1930s Helen Elizabeth Meller, 2001 1890-1930 was a formative period in the evolution of the modern town planning movement It was a time when the relationship between social development and the physical environment in all its complexities was being explored and when the prospect of future change could run ahead of the problems of implementation This study highlights the richness and variety of European responses to modernisation by offering a comparative approach to exploring these themes in cities in Britain France Germany Spain and Central Europe Of key importance in the development of European cities during this period was the first world war which accelerated technological changes at the same time as inspiring both nostalgia for the past and a desire to create new ways of urban living For large provincial cities that had grown in the 19th century imagining

a new future was the greatest challenge What kind of understanding was necessary to promote effective new developments How could these be implemented in the face of economic social and political change Who made the decisions Answers to these questions must be drawn from a number of directions from the political and administrative structures of nation states from the economic and social history of Europe from the growth of new professional expertise in dealing with urban problems and the international exchange of ideas from the specific histories of cities and from the actions of individuals who were ultimately responsible for creating new possibilities
