Reducing the Carcinogenic Risks in Industry Paul F. Deisler, 1984 Study of the evaluation of cancer hazard and its prevention as an occupational disease as attempted in the USA and Western Europe discusses the role of occupational health services and labour legislation in reducing exposure to risk outlines the need for toxicology and epidemiology research in identifying carcinogens References statistical tables Cancer Control World Health Organization, 2007 In 2005 7.6 million people died of cancer More than 70% of those deaths occurred in low and middle income countries WHO has developed a series of six modules that provides practical advice for programme managers and policy makers on how to advocate plan and implement effective cancer control programmes particularly in low and middle income countries The WHO guide is a response to the World Health Assembly resolution on cancer prevention and control WHA58.22 adopted in May 2005 which calls on Member States to intensify action against cancer by developing and reinforcing cancer control programmes The

Social Contours of Risk: Risk analysis, corporations and the globalization of risk Jeanne X. Kasperson, Roger E. Kasperson, 2005 The Social Contours of Risk Volume I Publics Risk Communication and the Social Amplification of Risk We live in a risk society where the identification distribution and management of risks from new technology environmental factors or other sources are crucial to our individual and social existence In The Social Contours of Risk Volumes I and II two of the world's leading and most influential analysts of the social dimensions of risk bring together their most important contributions to this fundamental and wide ranging field Volume I collects their fundamental work on how risks are communicated among different publics and stakeholders including local communities corporations and the larger society It analyses the problems of lack of transparency and trust and explores how even minor effects can be amplified and distorted through media and social responses preventing effective management The final section investigates the difficult ethical issues raised by the unequal distribution of risk depending on factors such as wealth location and genetic inheritance with examples from worker and public protection facility siting conflicts transporting hazardous waste and widespread impacts such as climate change Reducing Animal Use in Carcinogenicity Testing Joseph Manuppello, Jan Willem Van Der Laan, Federica Madia, 2024-12-31 Carcinogenicity to rats and mice is evaluated for substances to which humans are exposed including pharmaceuticals agrochemicals and industrial chemicals For pharmaceuticals recent efforts to reduce animal use in long term studies include an addendum to the International Council for Harmonisation ICH guideline S1B R1 that prioritizes short term studies in transgenic mice and recommends assessing the weight of evidence available to first determine whether a long term study in rats would add value For other sectors an expert group of the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development OECD is developing an Integrated Approach to the Testing and Assessment IATA of non genotoxic carcinogens based on common hallmarks of cancers and on key characteristics of carcinogens Within current regulations animal use could be reduced by evaluating toxicokinetics in main study animals with microsampling methods by including only one negative control group and by genotyping transgenic mice instead of using positive control groups in each study

Social Contours of Risk Roger E Kasperson, 2014-07-30 We live in a risk society where the identification distribution and management of risks from new technology environmental factors or other sources are crucial to our individual and social existence In The Social Contours of Risk Volumes I and II two of the world's leading and most influential analysts of the social dimensions of risk bring together their most important contributions to this fundamental and wide ranging field Volume II centres on the analysis and management of risk in society in international business and multinationals and globally The acceptability of risk to an individual depends on the context whether the larger society or in for example a corporate framework Their work clarifies the structures and processes for managing risks in the private sector and the factors that produce or impede effective decisions The authors demonstrate that corporate culture is crucial in determining risk management They analyse the transfer of corporate risk management systems from industrial to developing countries and how globalization is spreading and creating new kinds of risk the combination of traditional and modern hazards presented by climate change technology transfer and economic growth They describe the new priorities and capacities needed to deal with these enhanced vulnerabilities around the globe

Human and Ecological Risk Assessment Dennis J. Paustenbach, 2024-04-15 Understand the fundamentals of human risk assessment with this introduction and reference Human risk assessments are a precondition for virtually all industrial action or environmental regulation all the more essential in a world where chemical and environmental hazards are becoming more abundant These documents catalog potential environmental toxicological ecological or other harms resulting from a particular hazard from chemical spills to construction projects to dangerous workplaces They turn on a number of variables of which the most significant is the degree of human exposure to the hazardous agent or process Human and Ecological Risk Assessment combines the virtues of a textbook and reference work to introduce and analyze these vital documents Beginning with the foundational theory of human health risk assessment it then supplies case studies and detailed analysis illustrating the practice of producing risk assessment documents Fully updated and authored by leading authorities in the field the result is an indispensable work Readers of the second edition of Human and Ecological Risk Assessment will also find Over 40 entirely new case studies reflecting the latest in risk assessment practice Detailed discussion of hazards including air emissions contaminated food and soil hazardous waste sites and many more Case studies from multiple countries to reflect diverse international standards Human and Ecological Risk Assessment is ideal for professionals and advanced graduate students in toxicology industrial hygiene occupational medicine environmental science and all related subjects
