colonies hundreds of miles away a society that made the desert bloom by designing complex irrigation networks brilliant architects who built fairy castles in sandstone cliffs and artists who produced beautiful and moving petroglyphs and pictographs that reflect their deep thinking about history the sacred the land and the sky Native America is not about peoples of the past but vibrant living ones with an epic history of genius and tenacity a history that everyone should know

Preceramic Occupations Along the North Shore of Lake Ontario Arthur C. B. Roberts, 1985-01-01 A preceramic cultural chronology for the north shore of Lake Ontario is synthesized with eastern North American archaeological and paleoenvironmental research Analysis include projectile point identifications lithic metric attributes raw material sources and site characteristics Published in English How Deep is the Ocean? James E. Candow, Carol Corbin, 1997 The collapse of the North Atlantic cod fishery in 1992 was one of the world's worst ecological disasters and in 1995 Spanish and Canadian trawlers faced off over the dwindling supply of turbot Where there used to be plenty there is now virtually nothing fishing communities that once survived or even prospered now face ruin The twenty essays in How Deep is the Ocean take a detailed look at the evolution of the Canadian east coast fishery The book begins with aboriginal fishers before European contact then it follows the European fishery through the days of sail when boats could scarcely make headway through the teeming cod to the diesel age when electronic aids can find almost no cod How Deep is the Ocean covers the sociology of early fishing communities the impact and significance of the credit system and the techniques and technologies of aboriginal European and Canadian fisheries The essays on the twentieth century include old time fishing patterns of living memory and the changed state of the North Atlantic's ecology Aberdeen Site, Keewatin District, Northwest Territories James Vallière Wright, 1972-01-01 Examination of a multi component caribou crossing site on the Thelon River Keewatin District reveals a series of sequential occupations by different cultural and linguistic groups consisting of Algonkian speakers Shield Archaic tradition followed by Eskimo speakers Arctic Small Tool tradition followed by Athabaskan speakers Taltheilei Shale tradition followed by Eskimo speakers historic Caribou Eskimos Published in English The Atlantic Region to Confederation Phillip Buckner, John G. Reid, 1994-12-15 Nearly thirty years ago W S MacNutt published the first general history of the Atlantic provinces before Confederation An outstanding scholarly achievement that history inspired much of the enormous growth of research and writing on Atlantic Canada in the succeeding decades Now a new effort is required to convey the state of our knowledge in the 1990s Many of the themes important to today's historians notably those relating to social class gender and ethnicity have been fully developed only since 1970 Important advances have been made in our understanding of regional economic developments and their implications for social cultural and political life This book is intended to fill the need for an up to date overview of emerging regional themes and issues Each of the sixteen chapters written by a distinguished scholar covers a specific chronological period and has been carefully integrated into the whole The history begins with the evolution of Native cultures and the impact of the arrival of Europeans on those cultures and continues to the formation of Confederation The goal has been to provide a synthesis that not only incorporates the most recent scholarship but is accessible to the general reader The book re assesses many old themes from a new perspective and seeks to broaden the focus of regional history to include those groups whom the traditional historiography ignored or marginalized
