Vedic scholars holds the very opposite opinion He declares that a metrical translation is the best commentary and that if he could ever think of a translation of the Rig veda he would throw the chief weight not on the notes but on the translation of the text A translation he writes must speak for itself As a rule it only requires a commentary where it is not directly convincing and where the translator does not feel secure Between opinions so diametrically opposed no compromise seems possible and yet I feel convinced that when we come to discuss any controverted passage Professor von Roth will have to adopt exactly the same principles of translation which I have followed
