Ships and Memories Eric W. Sager, 1993 Eric Sager draws on interviews with master mariners engineers able seamen cooks stewards and many others who worked aboard steamships from 1920 to 1950 Among those interviewed is Molly Kool of Alma New Brunswick the first woman in Canada to earn a master s certificate Charley Carr of Victoria pastry chef and cook in ocean liners Captain George King of West Vancouver who remembers the day in 1925 when the Canadian Navigator blew up in Barbados and Niels Jannasch founder of the Maritime Museum of the Atlantic in Halifax In language charged with passion nostalgia and at times bitterness they recall the dangers of seafaring the loneliness aboard ship and the difficulty of supporting families ashore but they also remember with earthy humour the rowdy adventures in port The Slave Ship,

Memory and the Origin of Modernity Martyn Hudson, 2017-05-15 Traces slave names the islands and cities into which we are born our musics and rhythms our genetic compositions our stories of our lost utopias and the atrocities inflicted upon our ancestors by our ancestors the social structure of our cities the nature of our diasporas the scars inflicted by history These are all the remnants of the middle passage of the slave ship for those in the multiple diasporas of the globe today whose complex histories were shaped by that journey Whatever remnants that once existed in the subjectivities and collectivities upon which slavery was inflicted has long passed But there are hints in material culture genetic and cultural transmissions and objects that shape certain kinds of narratives this is how we know ourselves and how we tell our stories This path breaking book uncovers the significance of the memory of the slave ship for modernity as well as its role in the cultural production of modernity By so doing it examines methods of ethnography for historical events and experiences and offers a sociology and a history from below of the slave experience The arguments in this book show the way for using memory studies to undermine contemporary slavery Memory Ships Arnold Grauer, 2002-03 Disabled Chicago police officer trips across major international terror plot procedes to investigate
