China's Evolving Surface Fleet Peter Dutton, Ryan D. Martinson, 2017 Over the past fifteen years the People's Liberation Army Navy's PLAN's missile fast attack craft and amphibious fleets have been significantly modernized While these two types of vessels have not increased in numbers their capabilities have increased exponentially This publication examines the People's Liberation Army's PLA's doctrine and training strategy in order to analyze present and predict future missions by these military vessels China's deterrence posture is improved greatly by these ships and boats which aid coastal water defense and threaten Taiwanese attempts to gain independence In addition these two fleets improve China's long range sealift capabilities and help with the PLA's traditional and new nontraditional security practices These fleets allow the PLAN to continue offshore operations and begin blue water or far seas operations helping the United States to predict the future nature of Chinese maritime missions Related items China collection of publications can be found here <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/catalog/china> Chinese Military Reforms in the Age of Xi Jinping Drivers Challenges and Implications can be found here <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/products/chinese-military-reforms-age-xi-jinping-drivers-challenges-and-implications> Indian and Chinese Engagement in Latin America and the Caribbean A Comparative Assessment can be found here <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/products/indian-and-chinese-engagement-latin-america-and-caribbean> U S Landpower in the South China Sea can be found here <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/products/us-landpower-south-china-sea>

China's Naval Power Yves-Heng Lim, 2016-05-23 The rapid modernization of the Chinese Navy is a well documented reality of the post Cold War world In two decades the People's Liberation Army Navy has evolved from a backward force composed of obsolete platforms into a reasonably modern fleet whose growth is significantly shaking the naval balance in East Asia The rationale behind China's contemporary rise at sea remains however difficult to grasp and few people have tried to see how the current structure of the international system has shaped Chinese choices This book makes sense of Chinese priorities in its naval modernization in a robust offensive realist framework Drawing on Barry Posen's works on sources of military doctrine it argues that the orientation of Beijing's choices concerning its naval forces can essentially be explained by China's position as a potential regional hegemon Yves Heng Lim highlights how a rising state develops naval power to fulfil its security objectives a theoretical perspective that goes farther than the sole Chinese case      History of Transportation in China

Zhi Dao, The book provides highlights on the key concepts and trends of evolution in the History of Transportation in China as one of the series of books of China Classified Histories      Chinese Naval Shipbuilding Andrew S. Erickson, 2017-02-15

China's shipbuilding industry has grown more rapidly than any other in modern history Commercial shipbuilding output jumped thirteen fold from 2002-12 ensuring that Beijing has largely reached its goal of becoming the world's leading shipbuilder Yet progress is uneven with military shipbuilding leading overall but with significant weakness in propulsion and electronics for military and civilian applications It has never been more important to assess what ships China can supply its navy and other maritime forces with today and in the future Chinese Naval Shipbuilding answers three pressing questions What are China's prospects for success in key areas of naval shipbuilding What are the likely results for China's navy What are the implications for the U.S. Navy To address these critical issues this volume assembles some of the world's leading experts and linguistic analysts often pairing them in research teams These sailors scholars industry professionals and government specialists have commanded ships at sea led shipbuilding programs ashore toured Chinese vessels and production facilities invested in Chinese shipyards and analyzed and presented important data to top level decision makers in times of crisis In synthesizing their collective insights this book fills a key gap in our understanding of China its shipbuilding industry its navy and what it all means      Maritime Power and China's Grand Strategy Anil Kumar Chawla, 2024-12-23

This book examines the role of maritime power in the Chinese Dream of becoming the pre-eminent global power by 2049 a century after the establishment of the People's Republic of China PRC The book argues that China seeks to use its maritime power as part of its quest to attain Great Power status by employing it to these areas provide deterrence in the maritime domain assure availability of resources protecting its sea lines of communication and in the economic domination of specific developing countries in Asia Africa Oceania and South America Based on a careful examination of primary sources especially China's defence white papers and essential works on the topic by prominent Chinese military analysts and institutions the author systematically unpacks interpretations and analysis of China's evolving concepts of maritime power The book traces China's development and use of maritime power over its long recorded history especially from the time it became the People's Republic of China 1950 to the present 2024 and links the country's maritime past with the present A comprehensive and detailed study of the evolution of Chinese concepts of maritime power and how it forms an important part of the rejuvenation of the nation and the projection of China as a global power by mid-century this book will be of interest to researchers studying Asian and Chinese Studies Military Studies and policy makers at think tanks and government agencies      China in

Ayala, 2019-07-30 China Surface Warships 2019-2020 Color photos of active Chinese PLA Navy Surface Warships Recently it was announced that China's PLA Navy now has more ships 300 than the U.S. Navy 287 This book covers the bulk of Beijing's

Navy including destroyers frigates and corvettes These categories have seen more growth since 2005 than any other The rapid growth of ships in these categories is in keeping with the Military Strategy China released in 2015 which states the PLA Navy PLAN will gradually shift its focus from offshore waters defense to the combination of offshore waters defense with open seas protection and build a combined multi functional and efficient marine combat force structure The launching of new ships is in addition to retiring very old ships pre 1990 and modernizing ships build after that U S Navy ships are larger and the U S has more aircraft carriers China has one active one being fitted out and 2 or 3 being built We plan to go into China s aircraft carriers in depth in another book in the fall if there is enough interest This book does not go into the ships of the PLA Navy Reserve Force the People s Armed Police PAP or the China Militia Those could be another book if there is enough interest Let us know if we should print these by logging into our web site and sending a comment USGOVPUB COM

Taiwan potentially triggering combat with America's first responders in East Asia especially the U.S. Seventh Fleet and U.S. Fifth Air Force. He conducts a close exploration of how the PLA Navy fits into China's campaign plan aimed at keeping reinforcing U.S. forces at arm's length what the Pentagon calls anti access and area denial A2 AD if war has broken out over Taiwan or because of attacks on U.S. allies and friends that live in the shadow of China. McDevitt does not know how Xi defines world class but the evidence from the past 15 years of building a blue water force has already made the PLA Navy the second largest globally capable navy in the world. This book concludes with a forecast of what Xi's vision of a world class navy might look like in the next fifteen years when the 2035 deadline is reached.

Archaeology of East Asian Shipbuilding Jun Kimura, 2016-04-12 North American Society for Oceanic History John Lyman Book Award in Naval and Maritime Reference Works and Published Primary Sources Honorable Mention. In this innovative study Jun Kimura integrates historical data with archaeological findings to examine a wide array of eleventh through nineteenth century ships from China, Korea, and Japan. Chinese junks and Japanese sailing ships were known throughout the world and this work illustrates why their innovative designs have survived the centuries. Kimura presents an extensive dataset of excavated coastal and oceangoing ships that traveled the Yellow Sea, the East China Sea, and the South China Sea. Three detailed case studies include the Shinan and Quanzhou wrecks and the Takashima underwater site. Using travel documents, cargo manifests, iconographic paintings, and other descriptive resources as well as the archaeological evidence of hull components, wooden timbers, and iron remains, Kimura sheds new light on East Asian shipbuilding traditions.

China Fast Forward Bill Dodson, 2012-07-25 Will China Surpass the United States as an innovation nation? China is tirelessly working to overcome its technological deficiencies by driving R & D initiatives in government and business and adapting Western Internet platforms for domestic use. It is extending its technological reach through a major drive to rival India as a services outsourcing leader and projecting its high tech brands into the companies and homes of other countries. But whether China succeeds will depend on how it handles such issues as demography, energy dependency, and resource limitations. The environmental challenges posed by China's vast manufacturing sector are well documented but what isn't widely realized is that China is actually outstripping the West in all manner of green initiatives: renewable energy investments, research and development funding, and other areas essential to improving the health of the planet. However, omnipresent government intervention, environmental degradation, natural resource exhaustion, and other issues threaten to derail China's rise to superpower status. As the country meets global challenges on a scale that few nations can match, China Fast Forward takes a look at what lies ahead and why China's success is important to us all. In this book, Bill Dodson explores China's reincarnation from a closed agrarian nation into a modern high tech superpower bent on literally cleaning up its act. Presents an on the ground survey and analysis of China's renewable and clean energy sector that identifies the kinds of projects and technologies Chinese enterprises and local governments are hungry for. Includes a discussion on how successful Chinese companies are developing their brands to go head to head with the world's best known companies Discusses how central government conflicts of interest are actually foiling corporate and official drives to innovation across a range of sectors Taking a look inside China's march toward becoming a sustainable superpower through innovation China Fast Forward presents a balance sheet of the country's technological and social progress on its path to becoming a world leader China's Maritime Gray Zone Operations Andrew S. Erickson, Ryan D. Martinson, 2019-03-15 China's maritime gray zone operations represent a new challenge for the U.S. Navy and the sea services of our allies partners and friends in maritime East Asia There Beijing is waging what some Chinese sources term a war without gunsmoke Already winning in important areas China could gain far more if left unchecked One of China's greatest advantages thus far has been foreign difficulty in understanding the situation let alone determining an effective response With contributions from some of the world's leading subject matter experts this volume aims to close that gap by explaining the forces and doctrines driving China's paranaul expansion operating in the gray zone between war and peace The book covers China's major maritime forces beyond core gray hulled Navy units with particular focus on China's second and third sea forces the white hulled Coast Guard and blue hulled Maritime Militia Increasingly these paranaul forces and the gray zone in which they typically operate are on the frontlines of China's seaward expansion China As A
