Dr. Seuss Philip Nel, 2005-01-01 Philip Nel takes a fascinating look into the key aspects of Seuss's career his poetry politics art marketing and place in the popular imagination Nel argues convincingly that Dr Seuss is one of the most influential poets in America His nonsense verse like that of Lewis Carroll and Edward Lear has changed language itself giving us new words like nerd And Seuss's famously loopy artistic style what Nel terms an energetic cartoon surrealism has been equally important inspiring artists like filmmaker Tim Burton and illustrator Lane Smith from back cover

The Cinema of Norman Mailer Justin Bozung, 2017-09-07 The Cinema of Norman Mailer Film is Like Death not only examines the enfant terrible writer's thoughts on cinema but also features interviews with Norman Mailer himself The Cinema of Norman Mailer also explores Mailer's cinema through previously published and newly commissioned essays written by an array of film and literary scholars enthusiasts and those with a personal philosophical connection to Mailer This volume discusses the National Book Award and Pulitzer Prize winning author and filmmaker's six films created during the years of 1947 and 1987 and contends to show how Mailer's films can be best read as cinematic delineations that visually represent many of the writer's metaphysical and ontological concerns and ideas that appear in his texts from the 1950s until his passing in 2007 By re-examining Mailer's cinema through these new perspectives one may be awarded not just a deeper understanding of Mailer's desire to make films but also find a new alternative vision of Mailer himself Norman Mailer was not just a writer but more he was one of the most influential Postmodern artists of the twentieth century with deep roots in the cinema He allowed the cinema to not only influence his aesthetic approach but sanctioned it as his easiest crafted analogy for exploring sociological imagination in his writing Mailer once suggested Film is legitimately more interesting than books and with that in mind readers of Norman Mailer might begin to rethink his oeuvre through the viewfinder of the film medium as he was equally as passionate about working within cinema as he was about literature itself Power

Competition in the Red Sea Federico Donelli, 2025-09-18 The Red Sea is rapidly becoming a highly contested zone where traditional and emerging global powers are vying for influence and control In this book Federico Donelli explores the dynamics of this new scramble for Africa analyzing the interests agendas and threats of extra regional players with a particular focus on China and the United States Using a range of International Relations theories the book delves into the economic geopolitical and security issues driving this competition including the strategic importance of shipping routes and the threat of terrorism and transnational crime By examining the alliances and military presence of great powers in the region Donelli seeks to predict the outcomes of this engagement and the impact it will have on the current and future global

Modernization and Postmodernization Ronald Inglehart, 2020-06-30 Ronald Inglehart argues that economic development cultural change and political change go together in coherent and even to some extent predictable patterns This is a controversial claim It implies that some trajectories of socioeconomic change are more likely than others and consequently that certain changes are foreseeable Once a society has embarked on industrialization for example a whole syndrome of related changes from mass mobilization to diminishing differences in gender roles is likely to appear These changes in worldviews seem to reflect changes in the economic and political environment but they take place with a generational time lag and have considerable autonomy and momentum of their own But industrialization is not the end of history Advanced industrial society leads to a basic shift in values de-emphasizing the instrumental rationality that characterized industrial society Postmodern values then bring new societal changes including democratic political institutions and the decline of state socialist regimes To demonstrate the powerful links between belief systems and political and socioeconomic variables this book draws on a unique database the World Values Surveys This database covers a broader range than ever before available for looking at the impact of mass publics on political and social life It provides information from societies representing 70 percent of the world's population from societies with per capita incomes as low as 300 per year to those with per capita incomes one hundred times greater and from long established democracies with market economies to authoritarian states Trübner's American and Oriental Literary Record ,1865
