Lower,Frederick J. de Serres,William A. Suk,Raymond R. Tice,2013-03-08 The study of the relationship between environmental pollution and human health is in its infancy The number of substances and mixtures that have been identified in uncontrolled hazardous waste sites or that have been in advertently released into the environment is large and data on how thes substances are modified as they interact with one another as they migrate through soil air and water are limited There are also limits on our un derstanding of how these substances may be ingested inhaled or absorbed by people The complexity of possible interactions between biological chemical and physical components in a given environment makes it virtually impossible to evaluate the potential for adverse biological effects ade quately in the laboratory Other more comprehensive methods which provide realistic and interpretable results must be used Many scientists believe that humans represent the ultimate sentinel species of a toxic exposure re sUlting from environmental pollution however such exposures may also se verely impact environmental health There exists a wide variety of organ isms in the natural environment that could be used to provide an early warning for potential human health effects as well as to indicate adverse ecological effects The issue of effective utilization of sentinel species for environment al monitoring is a rapidly developing area of research which has grown in importance during the last decade Water Pollution Control Legislation United States. ,1996 The Climate Solutions Consensus National Council for Science and the Environment,2012-06-22 In 2007 the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change shared the 2007 Nobel Peace Prize with former Vice President Al Gore for its reporting on the human causes of climate change In 2008 the National Council for Science and the Environment reported that the acceleration of climate change is already faster than the IPCC projected only a year earlier How we deal with the rapid environmental changes and the human forces that are driving these changes will be among the defining issues of our generation Climate Solutions Consensus presents an agenda for America It is the first major consensus statement by the nation s leading scientists and it provides specific recommendations for federal policies for state and local governments for businesses and for colleges and universities that are preparing future generations who will be dealing with a radically changed climate The book draws upon the recommendations developed by more than 1200 scientists educators and decision makers who participated in the National Council for Science and the Environment s 8th National Conference on Science Policy and the Environment After presenting a lucid narrative of the science behind climate change and its solutions Climate Solutions Consensus presents 35 practical results oriented approaches for minimizing climate change and its impacts It clearly spells out options for technological societal and policy actions And it deals head on with controversial topics including nuclear energy ocean fertilization and atmospheric geo engineering One of the book s key conclusions is that climate solutions are about much more than energy sources They involve re examining everything people do with an eye toward minimizing climate impacts This includes our eating habits consumption patterns transportation building and housing forestry land use education and more According to these scientists the time to act is now With clarity and urgency they tell us exactly what needs to be done to start reversing the driving factors behind climate change minimizing their consequences and adapting to what is beyond our power to stop

Opportunities and Uses of the Ocean David A. Ross,2012-12-06 The oceans cover about 72 percent of our planet which is named for the remaining 28 percent These oceans have fascinated and challenged the human race for centuries In the past the ocean had been used first as a source of food and later as a means of transportation However the oceans have recently become very important they may offer a solution to many of our modern problems For example refuse from land is to be dumped into the ocean never to be seen again fish and other biological resources are to be caught and used to meet the protein deficiency of the world oil and gas from the continental shelf and perhaps deeper areas will eventually solve our energy problems None of these examples is completely possible and the at source off food and later as a means of transportation However the oceans social and ecological problems in the marine environment Countries are already planning how the oceans can be divided up so that they will get their fair share Economists politicians and others are producing almost daily optimistic or pessimistic views depending upon your own viewpoint about the ocean and its resources Equally loud reports come from environmentalists conservationists government sources and oil companies concerning the pollution and potential destruction of the ocean
