Encyclopedia of the African Diaspora
Carole Boyce Davies, 2008-07-29

The authoritative source for information on the people, places and events of the African Diaspora spanning five continents and five centuries. The field of African Diaspora studies is rapidly growing. Until now there was no single authoritative source for information on this broad complex discipline. Drawing on the work of over 300 scholars, this encyclopedia fills that void. Now the researcher from high school level up can go to a single reference for information on the historical, political, economic and cultural relations between people of African descent and the rest of the world community. Five hundred years of relocation and dislocation, of assimilation and separation have produced a rich tapestry of history and culture into which are woven people, places and events. This authoritative, accessible work picks out the strands of the tapestry, telling the story of diverse peoples separated by time and distance but retaining a commonality of origin and experience. Organized in A-Z sections covering global topics, country of origin and destination, the work is designed for easy use by all.

Immigrant and Ethnic-Minority Writers since 1945, 2018-07-17

This study analyses how immigrant and ethnic minority writers have challenged the understanding of certain national literatures and have markedly changed them. In other national contexts, ideologies and institutions have contained the challenge these writers pose to national literatures. Case studies of the emergence and recognition of immigrant and ethnic minority writing come from fourteen national contexts. These include classical immigration countries such as Canada and the United States, countries where immigration accelerated and entered public debate after World War II such as the United Kingdom, France and Germany, as well as countries rarely discussed in this context such as Brazil and Japan. Finally, this study uses these individual analyses to discuss this writing as an international phenomenon.

Afro-Brazilians Niyi Afolabi, 2009

An interdisciplinary study on the myth of racial democracy in Brazil through the prism of producers of Afro-Brazilian culture. Brazil, the most racially diverse Latin American country, is also the most contradictory: for centuries it has maintained fantasy as reality through the myth of racial democracy. Enshrined in that mythology is the masking of exclusionism that strategically displaces and marginalizes Afro-Brazilians from political power In this absorbing new study Niyi Afolabi exposes the tensions between the official position on racial harmony and the reality of marginalization experienced by Afro Brazilians by exploring Afro Brazilian cultural production as a considered response to this exclusion The author examines major contributions in music history literature film and popular culture in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries to reveal how each performance by an Afro Brazilian artist addresses issues of identity and racism through a variety of veils that entertain ridicule invoke provoke protest and demand change at the same time Raising cogent questions such as the vital role of Afro Brazilians in the making of Brazilian national identity the representation of Brazilian women as hapless exploited and abandoned the erosion of the influence of black movements due to fragmentation and internal disharmony and the portrayal of Afro Brazilians on the national screen as domestics Afolabi provides insightful nuanced analyses that tease out the complexities of the dilemma in their appropriate historical political and social contexts Niyi Afolabi teaches Luso Brazilian Yoruba and African Diaspora studies in the Department of Spanish and Portuguese as well as the John L Warfield Center for African and African American Studies at the University of Texas at Austin

Black Writing, Culture, and the State in Latin America Jerome C. Branche, 2021-04-30 Imagine the tension that existed between the emerging nations and governments throughout the Latin American world and the cultural life of former enslaved Africans and their descendants A world of cultural production in the form of literature poetry art music and eventually film would often simultaneously contravene or cooperate with the newly established order of Latin American nations negotiating independence and a new political and cultural balance In Black Writing Culture and the State in Latin America Jerome Branche presents the reader with the complex landscape of art and literature among Afro Hispanic and Latin artists Branche and his contributors describe individuals such as Juan Francisco Manzano who wrote an autobiography on the slave experience in Cuba during the nineteenth century The reader finds a thriving Afro Hispanic theatrical presence throughout Latin America and even across the Atlantic The role of black women in poetry and literature comes to the forefront in the Caribbean presenting a powerful reminder of the diversity that defines the region All too often the disciplines of film studies literary criticism and art history ignore the opportunity to collaborate in a dialogue Branche and his contributors present a unified approach however suggesting that cultural production should not be viewed narrowly especially when studying the achievements of the Afro Latin world

Literature and Ethics in Contemporary Brazil Vinicius Mariano De Carvalho, Nicola Gavioli, 2017-02-24 When Brazil was honored at the Frankfurt Book Fair in 2013 the Brazilian author Luiz Ruffato opened the event with a provocative speech claiming that literature through its pervasive depiction and discussion of otherness has the potential to provoke ethical transformation This book uses Ruffato's speech as a starting point for the discussion of contemporary Brazilian literature that stands in contrast to the repetition of social and cultural clichés By illuminating the relevance of humanities and literature as a catalyst for rethinking Brazil the book offers a resistance to the official discourses that have worked for so long to conceal social tensions injustices and secular inequities in

Brazilian society In doing so it situates Brazilian literature away from the exotic and peripheral spectrum and closer to a universal and more relevant ethical discussion for readers from all parts of the world The volume brings together fresh contributions on both canonical contemporary authors such as Graciliano Ramos Rubem Fonseca and Dalton Trevisan and traditionally silenced writing subjects such as Afro Brazilian female authors These essays deal with specific contemporary literary and social issues while engaging with historically constitutive phenomena in Brazil including authoritarianism violence and the systematic violation of human rights The exploration of diverse literary genres from novels to graphic novels from poetry to crônicas and engagement with postcolonial studies gender studies queer studies cultural studies Brazilian studies South American literature and world literature carves new space for the emergence of original Brazilian thought

Between the Lines Monique-Adelle Callahan, 2011-04-22 Between the Lines examines the role of three women poets of African descent Frances Harper Cristina Ayala and Auta de Souza in shaping the literary history of the Americas Despite their different geographic locations each shared common concerns and wrestled in their works with the sociopolitical predicaments of the late nineteenth century Their verse vigorously examined slavery and confronted the existential struggle against boundaries imposed by race nation and gender The writers each conceived of the poem as a dynamic forum where new concepts of individual and collective freedoms could be imagined In their work readers encounter the poem as a site of cross cultural exchange a literary space in which the boundaries of nation can be redefined Between the Lines places national poetics in a global economy of identities histories and languages It looks to poetry to demonstrate how people translate from one cultural or linguistic arena to another how literary expression writes identities and how language is used to conceptualize history The book is the first to juxtapose Cuba Brazil and the United States in a study of nineteenth century women's poetry and the first to include the Lusophone literary tradition in a comparative study of African descendants in Latin America the U S and the Caribbean With close readings and expertly rendered translations Monique Adelle Callahan situates the work of these three poets in a hemispheric context that opens up their writing to new interpretations and expands the definition of African American literature

Receptions of the Classics in the African Diaspora of the Hispanophone and Lusophone Worlds Madeleine M. Henry, Elisa Rizo, 2016-09-21 Atlantis Otherwise expands the study of the African diaspora by focusing on postcolonial literary expressions from Latin America and Africa The book studies the presence of classical references in texts written by writers black and non black who are committed to the articulation of the fragmented history of the African experience from the Middle Passage to the present outside of Eurocentric views Consequently this book addresses the silencing of the African Diaspora within the official discourses of Latin America and Hispanic Africa as well as the limitations that linguistic and geographic boundaries have imposed upon scholarship The contributors address questions related to the categories of race and cultural identity by analyzing a diverse body of Afro Latin American and Afro Hispanic receptions of classical literature and its imaginaries Literary texts in Spanish and

Portuguese written in countries such as Brazil Colombia and Equatorial Guinea provide the opportunity for a transnational and trans linguistic examination of the use of classical tropes and themes in twentieth century drama fiction folklore studies and narrative Writing Identity Emanuelle Oliveira, 2008 In the late 1970s Brazil was experiencing the return to democracy through a gradual political opening and the re birth of its civil society Writing Identity examines the intricate connections between artistic production and political action It centers on the politics of the black movement and the literary production of a Sao Paulo based group of Afro Brazilian writers the Quilombhoje Using Pierre Bourdieu s theory of the field of cultural production the manuscript explores the relationship between black writers and the Brazilian dominant canon studying the reception and criticism of contemporary Afro Brazilian literature After the 1940s the Brazilian literary field underwent several transformations Literary criticism s displacement from the newspapers to the universities placed a growing emphasis on aesthetics and style Academic critics denounced the focus on a political and racial agenda as major weaknesses of Afro Brazilian writing and stressed the need for aesthetic experimentation within the literary field Writing Identity investigates how Afro Brazilian writers maintained strong connections to the black movement in Brazil and yet sought to fuse a social and racial agenda with more sophisticated literary practices As active militants in the black movement Quilombhoje authors strove to strengthen a collective sense of black identity for Afro Brazilians Literatura
