Shipping Economics:

An Introduction to Shipping Economics Ignacy Chrzanowski, 1985 Shipping Economics Kevin

Cullinane, 2005-06-15 Shipping is by far the most significant mode of transportation for the carriage of freight. In terms of volume alone, no other mode comes close. Its dominance is even more overwhelming when distances are accounted for. This book is concerned with the economics of this pivotal mode of transportation. It reveals that the influences on the development and current state of shipping economics research are extremely eclectic. The various chapters in the book represent areas that are of central concern to ongoing research in the field. As such, the book is useful to students, researchers, industrialists, policy makers, and consultants. The authors of the contributed chapters are some of the leading names in the world of shipping economics, addressing a number of diverse areas: The econometric modeling of shipping markets; Shipping finance, a critical issue in such a capital intensive industry; Fiscal policy and its impact on an international industry with great asset mobility; and Safety and security aspects that have risen to prominence with increasing concerns over the environment and international terrorism. Ultimately, while shipping as a business depends upon trade, it is absolutely certain that the business of trade depends upon shipping. The final two chapters therefore incorporate aspects of network economics, welfare economics, and international trade theory to analyze where and how shipping sits within the wider perspective of industrial supply chains. Professor Kevin Cullinane, BA BSc MSc PhD FCILT CNIP, Professor Kevin Cullinane is Chair in Marine Transport and Management at the University of Newcastle in the U.K. He was previously Professor and Head of the Department of Shipping and Transport Logistics at the Hong Kong Polytechnic University, Head of the Centre for International Shipping and Transport at Plymouth University, Senior Partner in his own transport consultancy company, and Research Fellow at the University of Oxford Transport Studies Unit. He is a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Logistics and Transport and has been a transport adviser to the governments of Hong Kong, Egypt, Chile, and the U.K. He holds visiting Professorships at a number of institutions and an Honorary Professorship at the University of Hong Kong. Shipping Economics S.G.

Sturmey, 1975-06-18 Liner Shipping Economics Jan Jansson, 2012-12-06 The importance of international liner shipping needs little emphasizing. A large majority of international trade moves by sea, and the liner shipping share in total freight revenue exceeds one half. Notwithstanding, people in general know surprisingly little about the basic facts of the liner shipping industry, and in particular about the economics of liner shipping. Perhaps because it is an international industry where shipping lines flying many different flags participate, it has tended to fall in between national accounts of domestic industries. Even transport economists have generally speaking treated liner shipping rather stepmotherly. Besides the work of Bennathan and Walters (1969), a relatively small group of specialized maritime economists including A. Stromme, Svendsen, T. Thorburn, S. Sturmey, R. Goss, and B. M. Deakin have in the post-war period made important contributions to the subject, but so far no coherent and reasonably comprehensive treatise of liner shipping economics has appeared. The first purpose of the present volume is therefore obvious to provide just that The book is divided in three parts Part I The liner shipping industry Part II Liner service optimization Part III Economic evaluation of the conference system Needless to say all three parts concur to fulfill the first purpose of providing a complete book of liner shipping economics In Part II a more or less separate second purpose has been to develop analytical tools for liner service optimization Thereby we use different approaches

Shipping Conferences under EC Antitrust Law Luis Ortiz Blanco,2007-06-26 Liner conferences are among the oldest surviving cartels in the world Created in the 1870s they have existed since on all the world s shipping routes With the approval or tacit acquiescence of governments everywhere they fix freight rates control capacity and share markets The United Nations Code of Conduct for Liner Conferences 1974 granted them global recognition and prompted the European Community to recommend Member States to join the Convention on the Liner Code 1979 and to grant them the most generous and extraordinary block exemption from EC antitrust rules ever 1986 The European Commission s administration of the block exemption has clarified some of its aspects and to a certain extent limited its scope but until very recently it has not questioned the appropriateness of the exceptionally lenient treatment of liner shipping cartels in the European Union After a report by the OECD Secretariat 2002 recommending abolition of antitrust immunity for shipping cartels in member countries the European Commission launched a review of the block exemption 2003 which has led to its repeal 2006 This book studies first the origins the early history and the regulation of liner conferences in the world and in the European Community focusing in particular on the Regulation which granted a block exemption to liner conferences Then it examines one by one the four conditions for a block exemption to be granted under EC law and concludes that none of them is fulfilled by shipping cartels Finally it proposes some alternative scenarios and solutions for the adequate enforcement of antitrust law in the maritime sector once the block exemption has been repealed
