Gruesome Looking Objects Elijah Gaddis,2022-11-17 The 1898 lynching of Tom Johnson and Joe Kizer is retold in this groundbreaking book Unlike other histories of lynching that rely on conventional historical records this study focuses on the objects associated with the lynching including newspaper articles fragments of the victims clothing photographs and souvenirs such as sticks from the hanging tree This material culture approach uncovers how people tried to integrate the meaning of the lynching into their everyday lives through objects These seemingly ordinary items are repositories for the comprehension interpretation and commemoration of racial violence and white supremacy Elijah Gaddis showcases an approach to objects as materials of history and memory insisting that we live in a world suffused with the material traces of racial violence past and present The New Encyclopedia of Southern Culture James G. Thomas Jr.,Charles Reagan Wilson,2012-11-26 Science and medicine have been critical to southern history and the formation of southern culture For three centuries scientists in the South have documented the lush natural world around them and set a lasting tradition of inquiry The medical history of the region however has been at times tragic Disease death and generations of poor health have been the legacy of slavery the plantation economy rural life and poorly planned cities The essays in this volume explore this legacy as well as recent developments in technology research and medicine in the South Subjects include natural history slave health medicine in the Civil War public health eugenics HIV AIDS environmental health and the rise of research institutions and hospitals to name but a few With 38 thematic essays 44 topical entries and a comprehensive overview essay this volume offers an authoritative reference to science and medicine in the American South

A Family Practice William D. Lindsey,William L. Russell,Mary L. Ryan,2020-05-14 A Family Practice is the sweeping saga of four generations of doctors Russell men seeking innovative ways to sustain themselves as medical practitioners in the American South from the early nineteenth to the latter half of the twentieth century The thread that binds the stories in this saga is one of blood of medical vocations passed from fathers to sons and nephews This study of four generations of Russell doctors is an historical study with a biographical thread running through it The authors take a wide ranging look at the meaning of intergenerational vocations and the role of family the economy and social issues on the evolution of medical education and practice in the United States

UNC A to Z Nicholas Graham,Cecelia Moore,2025-04-04 In this revised and expanded

Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office,1978 Journal of Library History, Philosophy, and Comparative Librarianship ,1984 The 22nd Michigan Infantry and the Road to Chickamauga John Cohassey,2019-01-14 Called upon to take a hill at the 1863 Battle of Chickamauga the untested 22nd Michigan Infantry helped to save General George H Thomas right flank Formed in 1862 the regiment witnessed slavery and encountered runaways in the border state of Kentucky faced near starvation during the siege of Chattanooga and marched to Atlanta as General Thomas provost guard This history explores the 22nd s day to day experiences in Kentucky Tennessee and Georgia The author describes the challenges faced by volunteer farm boys shopkeepers school teachers and lawyers as they faced death disease and starvation on battlefields and in Confederate prisons Race, Place, and Memory Margaret M. Mulrooney,2022-03-15 A revealing work of public history that shows how communities remember their pasts in different ways to fit specific narratives Race Place and Memory charts the ebb and flow of racial violence in Wilmington North Carolina from the 1730s to the present day Margaret Mulrooney argues that white elites have employed public spaces memorials and celebrations to maintain the status quo The port city has long celebrated its white colonial revolutionary origins memorialized Decoration Day and hosted Klan parades Other events such as the Azalea Festival have attempted to present a false picture of racial harmony to attract tourists And yet the revolutionary acts of Wilmington s African American citizens who also demanded freedom first from slavery and later from Jim Crow discrimination have gone unrecognized As a result beneath the surface of daily life collective memories of violence and alienation linger among the city s black population Mulrooney describes her own experiences as a public historian involved in the centennial commemoration of the so called Wilmington Race Riot of 1898 which perpetuated racial conflicts in the city throughout the twentieth century She shows how despite organizers best efforts a white authored narrative of the riot s contested origins remains Mulrooney makes a case for public history projects that recognize the history making authority of all community members and prompts us to reconsider the memories we inherit A volume in the series Cultural Heritage Studies edited by Paul A Shackel Publication of the paperback edition made possible by a Sustaining the Humanities through the American Rescue Plan grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities Frank Porter Graham and the 1950 Senate Race in North Carolina Julian M. Pleasants, Augustus M. Burns III,2017-03-01 The tumultuous North Carolina Senate primaries of 1950 are still viewed as the most bitter chapter in the state's modern political history. The central figure in that frenzied race was the appointed incumbent Frank Porter Graham, former president of the University of North Carolina 1931-49 and liberal activist of national stature. As a Senate candidate, Graham was unrelentingly attacked for both his social activism and his racial views, and the vicious tactics used against him shocked his supporters and alarmed national observers. Peeling away the myths that have accumulated over the years, the authors present the first thoroughly researched account of Graham's eventual defeat by Raleigh attorney Willis Smith. The result, a balanced study of North Carolina politics at mid-century, is a convincing explanation of the 1950 election. Using the campaign as a prism, the authors assess the factional struggles within the state, showing that Graham was defeated by a massive loss of support among white voters in eastern North Carolina. The principal force behind this switch was the fear promulgated by the Smith campaign that a vote for Graham was a vote to end statutory segregation in North Carolina. The authors also offer the fullest portrait to date of Frank Porter Graham as political candidate and social reformer. They examine his career as an educator and public activist, the steps that led to his unorthodox appointment, and his strengths and weaknesses as a political candidate. Frank Porter Graham and the 1950 Senate Race in North Carolina is based on manuscript materials never before examined, on interviews with more than 50 campaign participants and associates of both Graham and Smith, and on a thorough analysis of newspaper coverage and campaign literature. This guide seeks to aid scholars and researchers to locate collections of primary and secondary documents on the Air Force. The first part deals with official Air Force depositories which are essential to the historian writing about its operations worldwide. The second part describes the equally important collections of the National Archives and its depositories, including the pertinent papers in the Presidential Libraries. The third part covers university and college collections of personal papers of various military and civilian leaders, as well as other documents which deal with the Air Force. Other governmental depositories, federal, state, and local, plus a number of private collections where Air Force material may be found, are listed in part four. Finally, the last section describes a variety of other collections where primary and secondary materials on military, naval, and civil aviation, which directly or indirectly have impinged on the development of the Air Force, may be found. The Man Who Punched Jefferson Davis Ben

Wynne, 2018-11-07. Regarded as one of the most vocal, well-traveled, and controversial statesmen of the nineteenth century, antebellum politician Henry Stuart Foote played a central role in a vast array of pivotal events. Despite Foote's unique mark on history, until now no comprehensive biography existed. Ben Wynne fills this gap in his examination of the life of this gifted and volatile public figure in The Man Who Punched Jefferson Davis: The Political Life of Henry S. Foote. Southern Unionist. An eyewitness to many of the historical events of his lifetime Foote an opinionated native Virginian helped to raise money for the Texas Revolution provided political counsel for the Lone Star Republic s leadership before annexation and published a 400 page history of the region In 1847 Mississippi elected him to the Senate where he promoted cooperation with the North during the Compromise of 1850 One of the South s most outspoken Unionists he infuriated many of his southern colleagues with his explosive temperament and unorthodox ideas that quickly established him as a political outsider His temper sometimes led to physical altercations including at least five duels pulling a gun on fellow senator Thomas Hart Benton during a legislative session and engaging in run ins with other politicians notably a fistfight with his worst political enemy Jefferson Davis He left the Senate in 1851 to run for governor of Mississippi on a pro Union platform and defeated Davis by a small margin Several years later Foote moved to Nashville was elected to the Confederate Congress after Tennessee seceded and continued his political sparring with the Confederate president From Foote s failed attempt to broker an unauthorized peace agreement with the Lincoln government and his exile to Europe to the publication of his personal memoir and his appointment as director of the United States mint in New Orleans Wynne constructs an entertaining and nuanced portrait of a singular man who constantly challenged the conventions of southern and national politics Record of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill: The School of Pharmacy University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill,1925 Record University of North Carolina (1793-1962),1925 The "Immortal Six Hundred" and the Failure of the Civil War POW Exchange Process John F. Schmutz,2024-11-22 Compounding the devastating tragedy of the Civil War was the failure of the warring parties to maintain a system for exchange of prisoners of war rather than imprisoning combatants for the duration This failure added at least 56 000 deaths to those accumulating on the battlefield and caused the untold suffering of many thousands more This book focuses on 600 Confederate officers made prisoners of war who were dispatched to Charleston Harbor to act as human shields and were subsequently imprisoned elsewhere and deliberately starved nearly to death These actions were the result of the breakdown of the exchange cartel as well as the retaliation policies promoted by the Secretary of War and the Lincoln administration Seeking Eden Staci L. Catron,Mary Ann Eaddy,2018-04-15 Seeking Eden promotes an awareness of and appreciation for Georgia s rich garden heritage Updated and expanded here are the stories of nearly thirty designed landscapes first identified in the early twentieth century publication Garden History of Georgia 1733 1933 Seeking Eden records each garden s evolution and history as well as each garden s current early twenty first century appearance as beautifully documented in photographs Dating from the mid eighteenth to the early twentieth centuries these publicly and privately owned gardens include nineteenth century parterres Colonial Revival gardens Country Place era landscapes rock gardens historic town squares college campuses and an urban conservation garden Seeking Eden explores the significant impact of the women who envisioned and nurtured many of these special places the role of professional designers including J Neel Reid Philip Trammel Shutze William C Pauley Robert B Cridland the Olmsted Brothers Hubert
