contemporary economic analysis and presents a view of the state of economics Crises and Cycles in Economic Dictionaries and Encyclopaedias Daniele Besomi,2013-03-01 This book aims at investigating from the perspective of the major economic dictionaries the notions of economic crisis and cycle The project consists in giving an extensive summary of a number of significant entries on this subject with an introductory essay to each entry placing them and the dictionary to which they belong in their context giving some details on the author of the dictionary entry and assessing the entry and its author's contribution. The broad picture including the history of these encyclopedic tools will be examined in the introductory essays.

EBOOK: Economics Paul Samuelson, William Nordhaus, 2009-07-16 Samuelson's text was first published in 1948 and it immediately became the authority for the principles of economics courses. The book continues to be the standard bearer for principles courses and this revision continues to be a clear, accurate, and interesting introduction to modern economics principles. Bill Nordhaus is now the primary author of this text and he has revised the book to be as current and relevant as ever.

International Economics Hendrik Van den Berg, 2016-11-17 Now in its third edition, Hendrik Van den Berg's International Economics: A Heterodox Approach covers all of the standard topics taught in undergraduate international economics courses. Written in a friendly and approachable style, this new edition is unique in that it presents the key orthodox neoclassical models of international trade and investment while supplementing them with a variety of heterodox approaches. This pluralist approach is intended to give economics students a more realistic understanding of the international economy than standard textbooks can provide. Changes to the new edition include updates throughout to reflect recent world events including coverage of trade negotiations and the Greek crisis, expanded discussion of pluralist approaches with more coverage of alternative schools of thought, discussions of the growing financialization of global economic activity, additional real-world examples, increased coverage of environmental issues, transnational corporations and their behavior in the international economy, the difference between international investment and international finance, and monetary history. A consolidated and updated chapter on international banking. This book also maintains a broad perspective that links economic activity to the social and natural spheres of human activity with emphasis on the distributional and environmental effects of international trade, investment, finance, and migration. Chapter summaries, key terms, and concepts, problems, and questions, and a glossary are included in the book. A Student Study Guide and an Instructor's Manual are available online.

Changing Structure of Mexico Laura Randall, 2015-01-28 Mexico is reinventing itself. It is moving toward a more tolerant, global market-oriented, and democratic society. This new edition of Changing Structure of Mexico is a comprehensive and up-to-date presentation of Mexico's political, social, and economic issues. All chapters have been rewritten by noted Mexican scholars and practitioners to provide a lucid and informative introductory reader on Mexico. The book covers such topics as Mexico's foreign economic policy and NAFTA, maquiladoras, technology policy, and Asian competition, as well as domestic economics such as banking, tax reform, and oil/energy policy, the environment, population, and migration policy, the changing structure of political parties, and values and changes affecting women.

Marginal Cost in the New Economy: A Proposal for a Uniform Approach to Policy Evaluations Roger L. Conkling, 2015-04-29 This volume presents an approach for resolving a variety of public policy debates. It proposes that a single standard marginal cost methodology be adopted to replace the haphazard arrays of methods and techniques currently employed to measure the costs and benefits of disputed policy issues.

Angel

Investing In China Su Chen, Mannie Manhong Liu, Jenny Jiani Wang, 2016-08-04 The Chinese economy is growing at an unprecedented speed and one of the emerging trends is angel investment. It is an area with tremendous potential for growth. Compared with the more mature markets in Western countries, however, angel investing in China is still at an early stage due to a lack of incentives and insufficient policy support. By delving into existing literature on China's angel investment and conducting interviews with leading angel investors for China and abroad, Prof. Liu Manhong and Dr. Wang Jiani, both scholars and practitioners in the angel investment market, try to provide readers with a detailed picture of China's angel market. What is going on in the market? How should the government formulate relevant policies? And perhaps more pertinently, what should investors know if they have invested in or are going to enter this market? This book will be very useful for scholars and researchers on China's angel market as well as those angels who would like to tap its full potential. Research Handbook on Climate Governance Karin Bäckstrand, Eva Lövbrand, 2015-11-27 The 2009 United Nations climate conference in Copenhagen is often represented as a watershed in global climate politics when the diplomatic efforts to negotiate a successor agreement to the Kyoto Protocol failed and was replaced by a fragmented and decentralized climate governance order. In the post-Copenhagen landscape, the top-down universal approach to climate governance has gradually given way to a more complex hybrid and dispersed political landscape involving multiple actors, arenas, and sites. The Handbook contains contributions from more than 50 internationally leading scholars and explores the latest trends and theoretical developments of the climate governance scholarship. Between Politics and Markets Yi-min Lin, 2001-12-17 Between Politics and Markets examines how the decline of central planning in post-Mao China was related to the rise of two markets: an economic market for the exchange of products and factors, and a political market for the diversion to private interests of state assets and authorities. Lin reveals their concurrent development through an account of how industrial firms competed their way out of the plan through exchange relations with one another and with state agents. He argues that the two markets were mutually accommodating; that the political market grew also from a decay of the state's self-monitoring capacity; and that economic actors' competition for special favors from state agents constituted a major driving force of economic institutional change.

Economics for Environmental Professionals Frank R. Spellman, 2015-04-13 Environmental professionals are often called upon to find solutions to environmental degradation problems or to lead the way in planning to prevent them. Because they come mainly from the environmental and science disciplines, most environmental professionals have limited training in the fundamentals of economics. This book is designed to provide them with the basics of economics. Forestry Economics John E. Wagner, 2023-12-22 Forestry Economics introduces students and practitioners to the economics of managing forests and forest enterprises. The book adopts the approach of managerial economics textbooks and applies this to the unique problems and production processes faced by managers of forests and forest enterprises. What many future forest and natural resource managers need is to understand what economic information is and how to use it to make better business and management decisions. John E.

Wagner draws on his 30 years of experience teaching and working in the field of forest resource economics to present students with an accessible understanding of the unique production processes and problems faced by forest and other natural resource managers. The second edition has been updated to include Expanded discussion of compounding discounting and capital budgeting as well as an expanded discussion of when to replace a capital asset that has i costs but no direct revenue stream such as a machine ii costs and a direct annual revenue stream such as a solar array or iii costs and a periodic revenue stream illustrated by the forest rotation problem. New practical examples to provide students with applications of the concepts being discussed in the text most notably on New Zealand and a Radiata Pine Pinus radiata Plantation. A brand new chapter that develops business plans for for profit businesses to illustrate how a business plan is derived from the economic information contained within the Architectural Plan for Profit and how it can be used to make business decisions about continuing to operate a business or to start a new business. This textbook is an invaluable source of clear and accessible information on forestry economics and management not only for economics students but also for students of other disciplines and those already working in forestry and natural resources.

The Economics of Household Consumption Sanghee Sohn Cha, Young Sook Chung, Frances Magrabi, Se Jeong Yang, 1991-11-30. This text provides an overview of concepts theories and methods related to the study of household consumption. It summarizes the most recent data on consumption patterns and trends together with factors that influence consumption population trends prices and distribution of resources and examines how consumption data are used by business government and other organizations. The work will give the student a knowledge of household consumption patterns and an understanding of how to use such knowledge. Its three general purposes which correspond to the three parts of the book are to provide the tools students need in order to use information about household consumption including major concepts and theories used in the study of consumption empirical methodologies and sources of data to describe current patterns trends and problems in household consumption in the United States and other countries and to show how information about household consumption is used. This text is designed for upper division courses in consumption economics consumer science and family resource management.
