Faith in Markets Joseph P. Slaughter, 2023-11-14 In the first half of the nineteenth century the United States saw both a series of Protestant religious revivals and the dramatic expansion of the marketplace Although today conservative Protestantism is associated with laissez faire capitalism many of the nineteenth century believers who experienced these transformations offered different competing visions of the link between commerce and Christianity Joseph P Slaughter offers a new account of the interplay between religion and capitalism in American history by telling the stories of the Protestant entrepreneurs who established businesses to serve as agents of cultural and economic reform Faith in Markets examines three Christian business enterprises and the visions of a Christian marketplace they represented Shaped by Pietist Calvinist and Arminian theologies each offered different answers to the question of what a moral Christian market should look like George Rapp Associates operated sophisticated textile factories as the business side of the model community the Harmony Society which practiced communal living in pursuit of a harmonious workforce The Pioneer Stage Coach Line provided transportation services only six days a week to keep Sunday sacred attempting to reform society by outcompeting less pious businesses The publisher Harper Brothers sought to elevate American culture through commerce by producing virtuous products like lavishly illustrated Bibles Drawing on a wide range of sources Faith in Markets explores how the founders and owners of these enterprises infused their faith into their businesses and in turn how distinctly religious businesses shaped American capitalism and society

The Living Church ,1951 Resources in Education ,1998 The Vocational Quest Helen Connell,Nicholas Lowe,Malcolm Skilbeck,Kirsten Tait,2002-02-07 Government attempts in recent years to create a national system of vocational education and training have marked a profound shift both in educational policy and in underlying concepts of what education is for Relations between schools and the working world are changing all the time and the implementation of ideas of vocationalism has forced a blurring of the time honoured boundaries between educations concerned with concepts and training or with skills The challenge now is to define how the schools can give young people the foundations for life in a working world in which they are likely to have to change jobs and where work will fill a smaller proportion of their lives The Vocational Quest maps the evolution of vocationalism in Britain in historical terms and examines how the particular forms that have come into being in the last few years compare with developments in other parts of the world including Continental Europe Japan the United States Australia and New Zealand It argues for new forms of communication and partnership between formal education and training and the wider community in which values will be shared and no one partner will win at the expense of others
