Serum ferritin concentrations for the assessment of iron status in individuals and populations ,2020-12-14

Nutrition and Health in Developing Countries Richard David Semba,Martin W. Bloem,2001-04-25 The Nutrition and Health series of books have as an overriding mission to provide health professionals with texts that are considered essential because each includes 1 a synthesis of the state of the science 2 timely in depth reviews by the leading researchers in their respective fields 3 extensive up to date fully annotated reference lists 4 a detailed index 5 relevant tables and figures 6 identification of paradigm shifts and the consequences 7 virtually no overlap of information between chapters but targeted inter chapter referrals 8 suggestions of areas for future research and 9 balanced data driven answers to patient health professionals questions which are based upon the totality of evidence rather than the findings of any single study The series volumes are not the outcome of a symposium Rather each editor has the potential to examine a chosen area with a broad perspective both in subject matter as well as in the choice of chapter authors The international perspective especially with regard to public health initiatives is emphasized where appropriate The editors whose trainings are both research and practice oriented have the opportunity to develop a primary objective for their book define the scope and focus and then invite the leading authorities from around the world to be part of their initiative The authors are encouraged to provide an overview of the field discuss their own research and relate the research findings to potential human health consequences

Iron as Therapeutic Targets in Human Diseases Paolo Arosio,Maura Poli,Raffaella Gozzelino,2020-02-11 Iron is an essential element for almost all organisms a cofactor playing a crucial role in a number of vital functions including oxygen transport DNA synthesis and respiration However its ability to exchange electrons renders excess iron potentially toxic since it is capable of catalyzing the formation of highly poisonous free radicals As a consequence iron homeostasis is tightly controlled by sophisticated mechanisms that have been partially elucidated Because of its biological importance numerous disorders have been recently linked to the deregulation of iron homeostasis which include not only the typical disorders of iron overload and deficiency but also cancer and neurodegenerative diseases This leads iron metabolism to become an interesting therapeutic target for novel pharmacological treatments against these diseases Several therapies are currently under development for hematological disorders while other are being considered for different pathologies The therapeutic targeting under study includes the hepcidin ferroportin axis for the regulation of systemic iron homeostasis complex cytosolic machineries for the regulation of the intracellular iron status and its association with oxidative damage and reagents exploiting proteins of iron metabolism such as ferritin and transferrin receptor A promising potential target is a recently described form of programmed cell death named ferroptosis in which the role of iron is essential but not completely clarified This Special Issue has the aim to summarize the state of the art and the latest findings published in the iron field as well as to elucidate future directions

Anemia in Women Joan Gomez,2002 Many women are unaware that they have anemia Its symptoms fatigue weakness shortness of breath headaches and poor concentration are often attributed to stress rather than iron deficiency Using case studies Joan Gomez discusses the prevention and treatment of anemia during childhood adolescence and menopause
