Porter, Déirdre Smith, 2012-01-01 Practitioners scholars and teacher education students alike can celebrate reading Exploring Inclusive Educational Practices through Professional Inquiry This rich array of case scenarios both illuminates and elaborates the meaning of inclusion in today's schools and tomorrow's visions Twenty five stories from parents teachers school principals and specialists highlight the kind of experiential knowledge that won't be found in typical research reports and district documents about inclusive education What happens to real people students and their families doesn't always resemble policies that can look so good on paper This book makes a wonderful contribution to better understandings of the challenges of inclusion as well as the commitments positioned alongside values in order to meet those challenges There are brave and spirited people in these pages not the least of whom are the children themselves Professor Luanna H Meyer PhD Director Jessie Hetherington Centre for Educational Research Victoria University New Zealand This is a book on inclusive education that leaves you with hope and ideas for action It takes a very difficult and highly charged topic and demonstrates that it is possible to see both the trees and the forest Michael Fullan Professor Emeritus OISE University of Toronto We are reminded in the commentaries parents share in this book of how their passionate commitment to good education and their ideas make inclusion work The case study approach reveals the critical importance of their and many other perspectives in finding solutions to what are so often dismissed as irresolvable dilemmas They aren't and this book models exactly the kinds of conversations we need in schools across the country to challenge all of us to stay the course It's a must read for anyone who wants to make diversity and inclusion a reality in public education today Michael Bach Executive Vice President Canadian Association for Community Living Inclusion in Urban Educational Environments Denise E.

Armstrong, Brenda J. McMahon, 2006-06-01 This book is motivated by our experiences in working with students and their families in urban communities We are particularly concerned about the urgent imperative to address the endemic educational and societal challenges that pervade the lives of urban students particularly those who live in poverty are of minority and immigrant backgrounds and are otherwise marginalized within the current educational discourses and practices In spite of the fact that over the last 3 decades policy makers educators and communities across the globe have called for in depth structural changes this is rarely evidenced in the discourses practices and structures within academic and practitioner spheres This reluctance despite articulations to the contrary can be directly linked to normative theoretical and practical perspectives that are defined by assumptions that constrain urban students within restrictive boundaries These narrow outsider worldviews based on notions of what ought to be combined with ignorance of the realities of students lives focus on deviance and deficits They blind prospective change agents to the strengths and richness that students bring and they delimit the transformative potential of social justice praxis within urban environments The resulting discourse in the form of deficit beliefs thoughts actions and dialogues shapes urban research theory and practice We contend that in order to counteract the debilitating impacts of these harmful constructions of urban and social justice it is important to clarify this terminology
