Barari, 2004-07-31 The book is a fresh interpretation of Israeli foreign policy vis vis the peace process one that deems domestic political factors as the key to explain the shift within Israel from war to peace The main assumption is that peacemaking that entails territorial compromise is an issue that can only be completely comprehended by understanding the interaction of domestic factors such as inter party politics ideology personality and the politics of coalition Although the bulk of the book focuses on how internal inputs informed the peace process the book takes into account the external factors and how they impacted on the internal constellation of political forces in Israel Israel's Security Networks Gabriel Sheffer, Oren Barak, 2013-06-28 Provides a fresh perspective on Israeli civil security relations and politics introducing the concept of informal security networks in the area of national security The Political Psychology of Israeli Prime Ministers Yael S. Aronoff, 2014-05-29 This book examines leaders of the seemingly intractable conflict between Israel and its Palestinian neighbors It takes as an intellectual target of opportunity six Israeli prime ministers asking why some of them have persisted in some hard line positions but others have opted to become peacemakers This book argues that some leaders do change and above all it explains why and how such changes come about This book goes beyond arguing simply that leaders matter by analyzing how their particular belief systems and personalities can ultimately make a difference to their country's foreign policy especially toward a long standing enemy Although no hard liner can stand completely still in the face of important changes only those with ideologies that have specific components that act as obstacles to change and who have an orientation toward the past may need to be replaced for dramatic policy changes to take place
