Afro-Americans in the Far West Jack D. Forbes,1968 Freedom Time Gary Wilder,2015-02-14 Freedom Time reconsiders decolonization from the perspectives of Aim C saire Martinique and L opold S dar Senghor Senegal who beginning in 1945 promoted self determination without state sovereignty As politicians public intellectuals and poets they struggled to transform imperial France into a democratic federation with former colonies as autonomous members of a transcontinental polity In so doing they revitalized past but unrealized political projects and anticipated impossible futures by acting as if they had already arrived Refusing to reduce colonial emancipation to national independence they regarded decolonization as an opportunity to remake the world reconcile peoples and realize humanity s potential Emphasizing the link between politics and aesthetics Gary Wilder reads C saire and Senghor as pragmatic utopians situated humanists and concrete cosmopolitans whose postwar insights can illuminate current debates about self management postnational politics and planetary solidarity Freedom Time invites scholars to decolonize intellectual history and globalize critical theory to analyze the temporal dimensions of political life and to question the territorialist assumptions of contemporary historiography Histories of American Physical Anthropology in the Twentieth Century Michael A. Little, Kenneth A. R. Kennedy, 2009-12-23 Histories of American Physical Anthropology in the Twentieth Century chronicles the history of physical anthropology_or as it is now known biological anthropology_from its professional origins in the late 1800 up to its modern transformation in the late 1900s In this edited volume 13 contributors trace the development of people ideas traditions and organizations that contributed to the advancement of this branch of anthropology that focuses today on human variation and human evolution The Holocaust, Fascism and Memory D. Stone, 2013-02-22 From interpretations of the Holocaust to fascist thought and anti fascists responses this book tackles topics which are rarely studied in conjunction This is a unique collection of essays on a wide variety of subjects which contributes to understanding the roots and consequences of mid twentieth century Europe s great catastrophe Black Knowledges/Black Struggles Jason R. Ambrose, Sabine Bröck-Sallah, 2015 Black Knowledges Black Struggles Essays in Critical Epistemology explores the central but often critically neglected role of knowledge and epistemic formations within social movements for Black freedom and emancipation The collection examines the structural subjugation and condemnation of Black African and Afro mixed descent peoples globally within the past 500 years of trans Atlantic societies of Western modernity doing so in connection to the population s dehumanization and or invisibilization within various epistemic formations of the West In turn the collection foregrounds the extent to which the ending of this imposed subjugation condemnation has necessarily entailed critiques of challenges to and counter formulations against and beyond knowledge and epistemic formations that have worked to naturalize this condition within the West s various socio human formations The chapters in the collection engage primarily with knowledge formations and practices generated from within the discourse of race but also doing so in relation to other intersectional socio human discourses of Western modernity They engage as well the critiques challenges and counter formulations put forth by specific individuals schools movements and or institutions historic and contemporary of the Black world Through these examinations the contributors either implicitly point towards or explicitly take part in the formation of a new kind of critical but also emancipatory epistemology What emerges is a novel and more comprehensive view of what it means to be human a formulation that can aid in the unlocking and fashioning of species oriented ways of knowing and being much needed within the context of ending the continued overall global subjugation condemnation of Black peoples as a central part of ending the global problematique that confronts humankind as a whole The Oxford Handbook of Cultural Sociology Jeffrey C. Alexander, Ronald Jacobs, Philip Smith, 2012-01-26 Since sociologists returned to the study of culture in the past several decades a pursuit all but anathema for a generation cultural sociology has emerged as a vibrant field Edited by three leading cultural sociologists The Oxford

Handbook of Cultural Sociology presents the full theoretical and methodological vitality of this critically significant new area. The Handbook gathers together works by authors confronting the crucial choices all cultural sociologists face today about analytic priorities, methods, topics, epistemologies, ideologies, and even modes of writing. It is a vital collection of preeminent thinkers studying the ways in which culture, society, politics, and economy interact in the world. Organized by empirical areas of study rather than particular theories or competing intellectual strands, the Handbook addresses power, politics, and states, economics, and organization, mass media, social movements, religion, aesthetics, knowledge, and health. Allowing the reader to observe tensions as well as convergences, the collection displays the value of cultural sociology not as a niche discipline but as a way to view and understand the many facets of contemporary society. The first of its kind, The Oxford Handbook of Cultural Sociology offers comprehensive and immediate access to the real developments and disagreements taking place in the field and deftly exemplifies how cultural sociology provides a new way of seeing and modeling social facts. The Reeducation of Race Sonali Thakkar, 2023-11-28 World War II produced a fundamental shift in modern racial discourse. In the postwar period, racism was situated for the first time at the center of international political life, and race's status as conceptual common sense and a justification for colonial rule was challenged with new intensity. In response to this crisis of race, the UN and UNESCO initiated a project of racial reeducation. This global antiracist campaign was framed by the persecution of Europe's Jews and anchored by UNESCO's epochal 1950 Statement on Race, which redefined the race concept and canonized the midcentury liberal antiracist consensus that continues to shape our present. In this book, Sonali Thakkar tells the story of how UNESCO's race project directly influenced anticolonial thought and made Jewish difference and the Holocaust enduring preoccupations for anticolonial and postcolonial writers. Drawing on UNESCO's rich archival resources and shifting between the scientific, social, scientific, literary, and cultural, Thakkar offers new readings of a varied collection of texts from the postcolonial Jewish and Black diasporic traditions. Anticolonial thought and postcolonial literature critically recast liberal scientific antiracism, Thakkar argues, and the concepts central to this new moral economy were the medium for postcolonialism's engagement with Jewishness. By recovering these connections, she shows how the midcentury crisis of racial meaning shaped the kinds of solidarities between racialized subjects that are thinkable today. American Democracy: 21

Human Races Prof. Stanley M. Garn, 2017-06-28 First published in 1961 this book provides a contemporary definition of race the distinction between geographical local and micro races as well as consideration of the major evolutionary mechanisms of race formation in man Author Professor Stanley M Garn was and remains a pivotal figure in the history of biological interpretations of race He considered racial classification based on physical traits to be imprecise and believed physical traits to be independent of each other making classification by the assumption that a population shares certain traits incorrect He also argued that racial classifications based on physical type seemingly elevated some physical traits to a racial status but glossed over others and concluded that racial classifications based on physical type can always be compartmentalized into smaller populations which share more physical traits in common Thus here in his book Human Races he used three gradations of racial classification which were increasingly more specific in scope geographical local and micro Human Races is an attempt to describe what race is and the mechanisms of racial differentiation in man It will I hope help to dispel the antiquated notions of three original races of the persistence of racial types and of the role of undirected chance in bringing about racial differences In their stead I trust will emerge the contemporary picture of man's genetic response to local selective factors the constantly changing nature of the natural populations we call races Author's Preface

Pure Society André Pichot, 2020-05-05 Amid the eulogies and celebrations commemorating the bicentenary of Charles Darwin's birth the darker side of evolutionary theory should not be forgotten In The Pure Society Andr Pichot one of France's foremost specialists in the history of science excavates the underside of the Darwinian legacy where the notions of race and heredity became powerful tools of malign political agendas and instruments of social oppression Pichot examines the relationship between science politics and ideology through an analysis of specific cases from Nazism and the concentration camps to the various eugenicist research programmes launched or financed by eminent scientific organizations Racist eugenic ideas were once prevalent among the scientific community despite a patent lack of supporting evidence As today's scientists and writers applaud the advance of science the egregious mistakes made along the way are too often forgotten Now with the mapping of the human genome and rapid advances in gene therapies Pichot warns that biologists are increasingly emboldened to venture into the realms of public policy and politics If moral philosophers abandon these fields it is all too possible that the lights of a misguided science will resurrect the dream of a pure society
