Racing To Regionalize:

Racing to the Top William R. Thompson, Leila Zakhirova, 2019 In the international political economy of the last two millennia there tends to be one state leading the world as the foremost producer of energy and new technology In Racing to the Top William R Thompson and Leila Zakhirova argue that the US and China like previous leading countries rely on energy transition or the development of alternative energy in order to make new technology relatively inexpensive to develop and to fuel While the US has historically held the lead its edge in the global energy economy appears to be eroding and as energy leadership diminishes so does the country's position in world politics Thompson and Zakhirova take a long view in order to show what will be necessary for a new power to emerge as the system leader then map a path forward for energy policy Informed by a deep knowledge of world history political economy and environmental technology this book is the first complete overview of energy transitions over the past thousand years Laws of the State of New York New York (State), 1934 Real NASCAR Daniel S. Session of the Legislature New York (State), 1984 Racing to the Bottom? Kathryn Harrison, 2011-11-01 The spectre of a race to the bottom is increasingly prominent in debates about globalization and also within federal systems where the mobility of both capital and individuals prompts fears of interjurisdictional competition with respect to taxes and environmental and welfare standards While there has been no shortage of either political rhetoric or academic theorizing on this subject empirical studies have been in shorter supply This volume seeks to fill that gap by asking Are Canadian provinces engaged in a race to the bottom and if so what are the consequences The contributors apply insights from economics and political science to several policy fields What emerges is a theoretical and empirical picture of interprovincial competition that shows it to be more complex than the popular image of a race to the bottom and that also contradicts predictions of an inexorable downward spiral This timely practical volume will be of interest to public policy practitioners as well as to students and scholars of economics and political science
