Rethinking Philanthropic Effectiveness: Lessons From An International Network Of Foundation Experts Bertelsmann Foundation:

Rethinking Philanthropic Effectiveness Dirk Eilinghoff, 2005 While the philanthropic sector continues to grow demands for efficient innovative and effective use of philanthropic funding are increasing The International Network on Strategic Philanthropy INSP uses its international expertise to determine just which issues are key to effective philanthropy Over the last four years more than 60 philanthropy experts from 15 countries have exchanged ideas on issues such as evaluating philanthropic work the implications of globalization for the development of the philanthropic sector and the emergence of new forms of philanthropy Their discussions cover a wide range of developments from around the world Australia Belgium Brazil Canada France Germany Israel Italy Mexico Poland Portugal Switzerland Thailand the United Kingdom and the United States Rethinking Foundation Effectiveness provides a summary illustrating the results of these discussions and enables foundation managers and project teams to learn about and adapt their own activities to international best practice

Legitimacy of Philanthropic Foundations Kenneth Prewitt, Mattei Dogan, Steven Heydemann, Stefan Toepler, 2006-10-27 Though privately controlled foundations perform essential roles that serve society at large They spearhead some of the world's largest and most innovative initiatives in science health education and the arts fulfilling important needs that could not be addressed adequately in the marketplace or the public sector Still many people have little understanding of what foundations do and how they continue to earn public endorsement The Legitimacy of Philanthropic Foundations provides a thorough examination of why foundations exist and the varied purposes they serve in contemporary democratic societies The Legitimacy of Philanthropic Foundations looks at foundations in the United States and Europe to examine their relationship to the state the market and civil society Peter Frumkin argues that unlike elected officials who must often shy away from topics that could spark political opposition and corporate officers who must meet bottom line priorities foundations can independently tackle sensitive issues of public importance Kenneth Prewitt argues that foundations embody elements of classical liberalism such as individual autonomy and limited government interference in private matters and achieve legitimacy by putting private wealth to work for the public good Others argue that foundations achieve legitimacy by redistributing wealth from the pockets of rich philanthropists to the poor But Julian Wolpert finds that foundations do not redistribute money directly to the poor as much as many people believe Instead many foundations focus their efforts on education health and scientific research making investments that benefit society in the long term and focusing on farsighted issues that a myopic electorate would not have patience to permit its government to address Originating from private fortunes but working for the public good independently managed but subject to legal prescriptions philanthropic foundations occupy a unique space somewhere between the public and private sectors The Legitimacy of Philanthropic Foundations places foundations in a broad social and historical context improving our understanding of one of society's most influential and least understood organizational forms Philanthropy and Education E. Thümmler, N. Bögelein, A. Beller, H. Anheier, 2014-02-06 Philanthropic foundations play an increasingly important role in attempts to enhance the performance of school systems Based on case studies from Germany Switzerland and the US this book develops an innovative model of effective education philanthropy for successfully tackling problems in the complex field of education

Striving for Philanthropic Success Karsten Timmer, Bertelsmann Stiftung, 2001 The more foundations grow and engage in public tasks the more they will be held accountable for the social impact of their efforts Private investments will create new requirements for the quality and transparency of foundation work In acknowledgement of these developments the Bertelsmann Foundation brings together senior executives of leading private foundations and specialists on foundation activities from around the world to discuss evaluation and performance measurement in foundations Topics include the methods foundations use to evaluate their efforts foundations as centers of excellence in civil society interacting with other players convergence of operating and grant making philosophies and management structures for creating a learning organization Contributors include Paul Boateng minister of state Home Office London Siegmund Gabriel minister president of Lower Saxony Hanover Craig Kennedy president the German Marshall Fund of the United States Bruce Schearer president Synergos Institute New York Luc Tayart de Borms secretary general King Baudouin Foundation Brussels William S White president and CEO Charles Stewart Mott Foundation and Timothy E Wirth president United Nations Foundation
