nation building programme Terence Chong argues that this diverse theatre community not only comes into regular conflict with the state but often collaborates with it depending on the rewards at stake not to mention the assortment of intra communal conflicts as different practitioners and groups vie for the same resources It goes on to explore how new forms of theatre especially English language avant garde theatre represented resistance to such government cultural control how the government often exerts its power behind the scenes to preserve its moral legitimacy and conversely how middle class theatre practitioners resistance to state power is strongly influenced by class and cultural capital Based on extensive original research including interviews with theatre directors and other theatre professionals the book provides a wealth of information on theatre in Singapore overall and not just on theatre state relations Climates. the lives of a particular group of Southeast Asians Most of the people whose biographies are included here have settled down in the ten countries that constitute the region Each of them has either self identified as Chinese or is comfortable to be known as someone of Chinese ancestry There are also those who were born in China or elsewhere who came here to work and do business including seeking help from others who have ethnic Chinese connections With the political and economic conditions of the region in a great state of flux for the past two centuries it is impossible to find consistency in the naming process Confucius had stressed that correct names make for the best relationships In this case Professor Leo Suryadinata has been pursuing for decades the elusive goal of finding the right name to give to the large numbers of people who have in one way or another made their homes in or made some difference to Southeast Asia I believe that when he and his colleagues selected the biographies to be included here they have taken a big step towards the rectification of identities for many leading personalities In so doing he has done us all a great service Professor Wang Gungwu National University of Singapore

Singapore National Bibliography, 1991 Contemporary Arts as Political Practice in Singapore Wernmei Yong Ade, Lim Lee Ching, 2017-01-10 This timely collection examines the contemporary arts as political practice offering critical insight into some of the more controversial talking points that have shaped Singapore's identity as a nation Focusing on the role played by contemporary arts in shaping Singapore's political landscape as the country celebrated 50 years of independence in 2015 the authors consider how politics is often perceived as that which limits the flourishing of the arts Contending that all art is political and that all art form is a form of political practice this collection examines ways in which the practice of art in Singapore redraws the boundaries that conventionally separate arts from politics It critically examines the tenuous relationship between the arts and politics and offers a timely reevaluation of the relationship between the arts and politics In doing so it opens a dialogue between artistic practice and political practice that reinforces the mutuality of both rather than their exclusivity and redefines the concept of the political to demonstrate that political involvement is not a simple matter of partisan politics but has an inherently aesthetic dimension and aesthetics an inherently political one
