Lutherans and the Challenge of Religious Pluralism Frank W. Klos, C. Lynn Nakamura, Daniel F. Martensen, 1990

Mission Shaped by Promise Jukka A. Kääriäinen, 2012-10-03 Utilizing resources from Martin Luther and the Lutheran tradition this study offers an understanding of the gospel as promise as key to addressing the challenge of relating the mission Dei to a generous constructive approach toward the religious other In its construction of a Lutheran missiology it retrieves and reappropriates four resources from the Lutheran tradition the gospel as promise the law gospel distinction a theology of grace as promise of mercy fulfilled and a theology of the cross utilizing the hiddenness of God The law of God as accusing yet webbing humanity to its Creator the gospel as the comforting promise of mercy and the hiddenness of God as mystifying form the overarching framework within which the Lutheran missiology presented here seeks to engage the religious other by dialectically relating gospel proclamation and dialogue Such a view of mission shaped by promise offers the paradox of God being both revealed and hidden in the cross as a distinctive contribution to an interreligious dialogue centered on the ambiguity and hiddenness of God

Church and State John R. Stumme, Robert W. Tuttle, In an age marked by controversy over public support of religious schools federal encouragement of religious providers of social services and sexuality education the whole arena of church state relations appears in flux In this volume seven experts probe the meaning of religion in public life for Christians when the Protestant establishment has given way to pervasive religious pluralism and a growing secularism Working specifically out of Lutheran traditions the authors probe the deeper legal moral and religious questions at issue in the current debate They not only rethink classical sources about law and gospel and two kingdoms theory but also resurrect neglected resources for Christian civil resistance They then look to contemporary developments and show how functional interaction of church and state is compatible with their strong institutional separation Finally three chapters probe the most hotly contested First Amendment questions religious liberty education and land use

Norwegian Religious Pluralism Frederick Hale,1992 This is a historical study of religious transition in Norway and among Norwegian immigrants in the United States and southern Africa It traces the domestic and Anglo American factors which by 1900 had changed Norway from a society almost uniformly Lutheran by law and deeply rooted tradition into one in which many people had only tenuous ties to their established church while tens of thousands of their countrymen became members of nonconformist denominations These copiously documented findings challenge assumptions which have been axiomatic among historians of Norwegian immigration throughout the twentieth century They also undermine unproven generalizations about immigrant religiosity made by such prominent historians as Oscar Handlin and Timothy Smith and reproduced uncritically by many of their colleagues TSR 59 89 95 244pp 1992

Justification in a Post-Christian Society Carl-Henric Grenholm,Goran Gunner,2015-03-26 Since the Reformation in the sixteenth century Lutheran traditions have impacted culture and politics in many societies At the same time Lutheran belief has had an effect on personal faith morality and ethics Modern society however is quite different from that at the time of the Reformation How should we evaluate Lutheran tradition in today's Western multicultural and post-Christian society Is it possible to develop a Lutheran theological position that can be regarded as reasonable in a society that evidences a considerable weakening of the role of Christianity What are the challenges raised by cultural diversity for a Lutheran theology and ethics Is it possible to develop a Lutheran identity in a multicultural society and is there any fruitful Lutheran contribution to the coexistence of different religious and non-religious traditions in the future

Topographies of Tolerance and Intolerance Marjorie Elizabeth Plummer, Victoria Christman, 2018-08-07 Topographies of Tolerance and Intolerance challenges the narrative of a simple progression of tolerance and the establishment of confessional identity during the early modern period These essays explore the lived experiences of religious plurality providing insights into the developments and drawbacks of religious coexistence in this turbulent period The essays examine three main groups of actors the laity parish clergy and unacknowledged religious minorities in pre and post Westphalian Europe Throughout this period the laity navigated their own often fluid religious beliefs the expectations of conformity held by their religious and political leaders and the complex realities of life that involved interactions with co-religious and non-co-religious family neighbors and business associates on a daily basis Contributors are James Blakeley Amy Nelson Burnett Victoria Christman Geoffrey Dipple Timothy G Fehler Emily Fisher Gray Benjamin J Kaplan David M Luebke David Mayes Marjorie Elizabeth Plummer William Bradford Smith and Shira Weidenbaum

Religious Pluralism and Lutheran Theology Paul Rajashekar, 1988 Lutheran Identity and Political Theology Carl-Henric Grenholm, Goran Gunner, 2015-03-26 Lutheran tradition has in various ways influenced attitudes to work the economy the state education and health care One reason that Lutheran theology has been interpreted in various ways is that it is always influenced by surrounding social and cultural contexts In a society where the church has lost a great deal of its cultural impact and authority and where there is a plurality of religious convictions the question of Lutheran identity has never been more urgent However this question is also raised in the Global South where Lutheran churches need to find their identity in a relationship with several other religions Here this relationship is developed from a minority perspective Is it possible to develop a Lutheran political theology that gives adequate contributions to issues concerning social and economic justice What is the role of women in church and society around the world Is it possible to interpret Lutheran theology in such a way that it includes liberating perspectives These are some of the questions and issues discussed in this book

The Challenge of Religious Pluralism Ken Jung, 2002 The Church Event Vitor Westhelle, 2010 Westhelle advances a new model of church grounded in Trinitarian thought social anthropology and biblical reflection He then shows how this notion of church well positions Christian communities to deal with the public sphere religious pluralism globalization and communal prayer Religious Diversity and Education. Nordic Perspectives Geir Skeie, 2009 In the last ten years or so religious plurality has become higher on the agenda for religious education research in the Nordic countries This attention to religious plurality partly reflects processes of globalisation that include both physical migration and communication of ideas and is seen across the world making it smaller. It also reflects the preoccupation of governments with social cohesion and as part of this intercultural education. In the curricula of the Nordic countries this is manifested in different ways setting also the agenda for parts of educational research. This book addresses issues related to the increasing religious plurality in the Nordic countries. These issues are a challenge to many religious groups including historically dominant Lutheran national churches both nationally and locally. They have also led to a reorientation in religious education research in the last decade. A rich variety of research perspectives are presented under three headings: Theoretical and methodical perspectives, The world of the students, Teachers and textbooks. Nordic religious education research here proves to be internationally oriented in terms of theoretical perspectives whilst also contributing to the debate through important empirical studies. Examples of issues covered in the book are unintended learning, dialogue, gender, life interpretation, spirituality, identity and values. In different ways all the contributions in this book shed light on the common theme of diversity and are based on a will to include diverse perspectives both on the actors and the material of the classroom as well as on the life world of young people. The researchers represent different generations and different theoretical and methodological perspectives.

Living Together as Lutherans Hugh George Anderson, Herbert W. Chilstrom, Mark S. Hanson, 2008. On the occasion of the twentieth anniversary of the formation of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America the first three ELCA presiding bishops address the challenges facing a maturing church and explore the resources the Lutheran tradition has to offer in the face of those challenges: resources that include Scripture, tradition and the concept of the church. In an introduction to the bishops' comments church historian Susan Wilds McArver, Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary, provides a historical perspective on the first two decades of a church that has faced both the dilemmas common to all North American denominations living in the twenty-first century even as it has faced issues uniquely its own as part of the Lutheran experience. Taken together they provide a look back as well as a look forward for faithful followers of Christ who share a common identity as Lutherans in the ELCA. BOOK JACKET Religious Pluralism in Africa

Hance A. O. Mwakabana, 1996 Contemporary Challenges for Religious and Spiritual Education Arniika

Kuusisto, Terry Lovat, 2017-10-02. From being on the margins of scholarly debate for much of the past century and a half, religion is being recognized once again as an area of concern for scholars, politicians and public policy makers and thus the role of religious and spiritual education has taken on a new importance. Apart from its socio-political ramifications the place of religiousness and spirituality in the make-up of individuals has been given renewed prominence through updated brain science and neuroscientists regularly refer to elements of this brain science in terms such as spiritual intelligence and even mystical consciousness. This book explores many of the new directions being taken in the field of religious and spiritual education as new developments challenge the priorities of formal education and open up new avenues for incorporating religion and spirituality into the modern curriculum. It asks whether the educational aims of teachers should be focused on specifically personal development or whether religious education should be used to develop understanding of more global and social issues such as citizenship conflict and ethics The book also addresses neuroscientific insights which suggest a need to engage with cognition and emotion in order to create a rich learning environment something to which a particularly contested subject area like religion and spirituality is well placed to contribute This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Beliefs Values Religion in the 21st Century Lisbet Christoffersen, Margit

Warburg, 2016-04-08 In spite of the debate about secularization or de secularization the existential bodily need for religion is basically the same as always What have been changed are the horizons within which religions are interpreted and the relationships within which religions are integrated This book explores how religions continue to challenge secular democracy and science and how religions are themselves being challenged by secular values and practices All traditions whether religious or secular experience a struggle over authority and this struggle seems to intensify with globalization as it has brought people around the world in closer contact with each other In this book internationally leading scholars from sociology law political science religious studies theology and the religion and science debate take stock of the current interdisciplinary research on religion and open new perspectives at the cutting edge of the debate on religion in the 21st century
