Whiting,2010-06-01 Recent studies have increasingly downplayed and in a few cases even wholly denied the influence of Martin Luther s theology of Law and Gospel on early English evangelicals such as William Tyndale The impact of a late medieval Augustinian renaissance Erasmian Humanism the Reformed tradition and Lollardy have all but eclipsed the more central role once attributed to Luther Whiting reexamines these claims with a thorough reevaluation of Luther s theology of Law and Gospel in its historical context spanning twenty five years something entirely lacking in all previous studies Based on extensive research in the primary sources with acute attention to the larger historical narrative and in dialogue with secondary scholarship Whiting argues that scholars have often oversimplified Luther s theology of Law and Gospel and have thus wrongly diminished his very significant even principal influence upon first generation evangelicals William Tyndale John Frith and Robert Barnes during the English Reformation of the 1520s and 30s The Reformation: Oxford Bibliographies Online Research Guide Oxford University Press,2010-06-01 This ebook is a selective guide designed to help scholars and students of Islamic studies find reliable sources of information by directing them to the best available scholarly materials in whatever form or format they appear from books chapters and journal articles to online archives electronic data sets and blogs Written by a leading international authority on the subject the ebook provides bibliographic information supported by direct recommendations about which sources to consult and editorial commentary to make it clear how the cited sources are interrelated related This ebook is a static version of an article from Oxford Bibliographies Online Renaissance and Reformation a dynamic continuously updated online resource designed to provide authoritative guidance through scholarship and other materials relevant to the study of European history and culture between the 14th and 17th centuries Oxford Bibliographies Online covers most subject disciplines within the social science and humanities for more information visit www.oxfordbibliographies.com Voices of the Reformation John A. First Things, 2002-06. Two Reformers Caryn D. Riswold, 2007-07-15. By them we have been carried away out of our own land as into a Babylonian captivity and despoiled of all our precious possessions. Martin Luther, 1520. Their goal is our deracination, which is detachment from one's background as from homeland, customs, traditions. Thus women and other Elemental creatures on this planet are rendered homeless, cut off from knowledge of our Race's customs and traditions. Mary Daly, 1984. What is this land, this world of which these two theologians are speaking? Why do the two statements above sound similar in the authors' longing for a true home for our own land? And who is this 'them' who carries us away and cuts us off? Could it be possible that Martin Luther and Mary Daly, different in almost every way, are saying something similar? Why do these key figures in the Christian theological tradition, who come from different times, places, and politics, engage in such a parallel task? How is this possible? This book examines a series of surprising parallels between two key reforming figures in the Christian theological tradition and suggests that the two are in fact engaged in the same task: political theology. Applying a new label to familiar theologians enables readers to see both of them as well as their reformations in a new light. The sixteenth-century Reformation and second-wave feminism are viewed through the pioneering work of Luther and Daly here to further establish the political content and consequence of these theologians.
