Day Archaeologists John H. Jameson, James Eogan, 2012-12-09 In recent years an important and encouraging development in the practice of archaeology and historical preservation has been the markedly increased number of collaborations among archaeologists educators preservation planners and government managers to explore new approaches to archaeological and heritage education and training to accommodate globalization and the realities of the 21st century worldwide But what is the collective experience of archaeologists and cultural heritage specialists in these arenas Should we be encouraged or discouraged by national and international trends In an attempt to answer these questions this volume examines and gives representational examples of the respective approaches and roles of government universities and the private sector in meeting the educational training needs and challenges of practicing archaeologists today Ideologies in Archaeology

Reinhard Bernbeck, Randall H. McGuire, 2011-11-01 Archaeologists have often used the term ideology to vaguely refer to a realm of ideas Scholars from Marx to Žižek have developed a sharper concept arguing that ideology works by representing or misrepresenting power relations through concealment enhancement or transformation of real social relations between groups Ideologies in Archaeology examines the role of ideology in this latter sense as it pertains to both the practice and the content of archaeological studies While ideas like reflexive archaeology and multivocality have generated some recent interest this book is the first work to address in any detail the mutual relationship between ideologies of the past and present ideological conditions producing archaeological knowledge Contributors to this volume focus on elements of life in past societies that went without saying and that concealed different forms of power as obvious and unquestionable From the use of burial rites as political theater in Iron Age Germany to the intersection of economics and elite power in Mississippian mound building the contributors uncover complex manipulations of power that have often gone unrecognized They show that Occam's razor the tendency to favor simpler explanations is sometimes just an excuse to avoid dealing with the historical world in its full complexity Jean Paul Demoule's concluding chapter echoes this sentiment and moreover brings a continental European perspective to the preceding case studies In addition to situating this volume in a wider history of archaeological currents Demoule identifies the institutional and cultural factors that may account for the current direction in North American archaeology He also offers a defense of archaeology in an era of scientific relativism which leads him to reflect on the responsibilities of archaeologists Includes contributions by Susan M Alt Bettina Arnold Uzi Baram Reinhard Bernbeck Matthew David Cochran Jean Paul Demoule Kurt A Jordan Susan Kus Vicente Lull Christopher N Matthews Randall H McGuire Rafael Mic Cristina Rihuete Herrada Paul Mullins Sue Novinger Susan Pollock Victor Raharijaona Roberto Risch Kathleen Sterling Ruth M Van Dyke and LouAnn Wurst     The Adaptation of History Laurence Raw,Defne Ersin

Rethinking Evolution in the Museum Monique Scott, 2007-11-19 Rethinking Evolution in the Museum explores the ways diverse natural history museum audiences imagine their evolutionary heritage In particular the book considers how the meanings constructed by audiences of museum exhibitions are a product of dynamic interplay between museum iconography and powerful images museum visitors bring with them to the museum In doing so the book illustrates how the preconceived images held by museum audiences about anthropology Africa and the museum itself strongly impact the human origins exhibition experience Although museological theory has come increasingly to recognize that museum audiences make meaning in exhibitions or make their own complex interpretations of museum exhibitions few scholars have explicitly asked how Rethinking Evolution in the Museum however provides a rare window into visitor perceptions at four world class museums the Natural History Museum and Horniman Museum in London the National Museums of Kenya in Nairobi and the American Museum of Natural History in New York Through rigorous and novel mixed methods quantitative and qualitative covering nearly 500 museum visitors this innovative study shows that audiences of human origins exhibitions interpret evolution exhibitions through a profoundly complex convergence of personal political intellectual emotional and cultural interpretive strategies This book also reveals that natural history museum visitors often respond to museum exhibitions similarly because they use common cultural tools picked up from globalized popular media circulating outside of the museum One tool of particular interest is the notion that human evolution has proceeded linearly from a bestial African prehistory to a civilized European present Despite critical growths in anthropological science and museum displays the outdated Victorian progress motif lingers persistently in popular media and the popular imagination Rethinking Evolution in the Museum sheds light on our relationship with natural history museums and will be crucial to those people interested in understanding the connection between the visitor the museum and media culture outside of the museum context Public History Thomas Cauvin,2016-05-20 Public History A Textbook of Practice is a guide to the many challenges historians face while teaching learning and practicing public history Historians can play a dynamic and essential role in contributing to public understanding of the past and those who work in historic preservation in museums and archives in government agencies as consultants as oral historians or who manage crowdsourcing projects need very specific skills This book links theory and practice and provides students and practitioners with the tools to do public history in a wide range of settings The text engages throughout with key issues such as public participation digital tools and media and the internationalization of public history Part One focuses on public history sources and offers an overview of the creation collection management and preservation of public history materials archives material culture oral materials or digital sources Chapters cover sites and institutions such as archival repositories and museums historic buildings and structures and different practices such as collection management preservation archives objects sounds moving images buildings sites and landscape oral history and genealogy Part Two deals with the different ways in which public historians can produce historical narratives through different media including exhibitions film writing and digital tools The last part explores the challenges and ethical issues that public historians will encounter when working with different communities and institutions Either in public history methods courses or as a resource for practicing public historians this book lays the groundwork for making meaningful connections between historical sources and popular audiences Archaeology and Heritage John Carman,2003-01-01 Unlike most textbooks on heritage which discuss the creation of heritage as a cultural phenomenon or offer practical guides to heritage practices Archaeology and Heritage takes a fresh approach by providing an introduction to themes in the field of heritage as it relates to the material legacy of our past A survey of current approaches to theorizing archaeological practice presents some ideas about how we understand and relate to the remains sites structures and buildings that have come to our present from the past The book is divided into seven chapters each preceded by a short interlude which considers the types of literature and ways of talking about heritage which characterize that approach For those not already acquainted with recent archaeological theory the book provides a brief introduction to current trends Each chapter is in turn divided into key points indicated by sub headings and these key points are reiterated at the end of each chapter and are followed by a list of suggested readings Heritage Interpretation Marion Blockley,Alison Hems,2013-01-11 An essential guide to present practice and policy concerning issues in heritage management Heritage Interpretation draws on the accumulated expertise and international reputation for excellence of the UK heritage industry to describe and analyze best practice in heritage interpretation The contributors all responsible for developing best practices come from a range of heritage organizations including English Heritage The National Trust Historic Scotland CADW and National Parks They draw on examples from throughout the UK from public art and twentieth century military remains to cathedrals and urban heritage and discuss the range of interpretive options available and how they can be appropriately tailored to specific places and audiences Providing practical guidance on interpretive techniques the book provides insights into the philosophies and thinking that underpins their adoption in particular contexts This clear and easy guide is an valuable addition to the reading list of any student of history or heritage studies
