Re-presenting the Past Ann-Marie Gallagher, Cathy Lubelska, Louise Ryan, 2014-06-11 Feminist history continues to change the way history is written and in doing so changes our view of the past The authors of this collection explore how issues of sexuality class nationalism and colonialism informed the ways in which women were represented and continue to be represented in history They show the ways in which women have been excluded silenced and misrepresented in stories of the past and how women s lives have been distorted or simplified in conventional historical accounts Together they suggest fresh ways of approaching women s history and use examples of work in new areas of research such as women s health and leisure in order to demonstrate the effectiveness of the various methodologies being proposed Echoing Events Tina van der Vlies, 2022-12-12 Echoing Events questions the perpetuation actualization and canonization of national narratives in English and Dutch history textbooks wide reaching media that tendentially inspire a sense of meaning memory and thus also identity The longitudinal study begins in the 1920s when the League of Nations launched several initiatives to reduce strong nationalistic visions in textbooks and ends in the new millennium with the revival of national narratives in both countries The analysis shows how and why textbook authors have narrated different histories which vary in terms of context epoch and place as echoing events by using recurring plots and the same combinations of historical analogies This innovative and original study thus investigates from a new angle the resistance of national narratives to change Albion's People John Rule, 2014-06-11 This second volume of John Rule s major two volume portrait of Georgian England is a comprehensive and authoritative survey of eighteenth century society incorporating the exciting new research findings of recent years It deals in turn with the upper class middling sort and lower orders with popular education religion and culture with standards of living in town and country and with crime punishment and protest The book which is as rich and varied as the age it explores ends with an assessment of continuity and change across the century Climate: Present, Past and Future (Routledge Revivals) H. Miller,1997 In the middle of the eighteenth century English literature composition and rhetoric were introduced almost simultaneously into colleges throughout the British cultural provinces Professorships of rhetoric and belles lettres were established just as print was reaching a growing reading public and efforts were being made to standardize educated taste and usage The provinces saw English studies as a means to upward social mobility through cultural assimilation In the educational centers of England however the introduction of English represented a literacy crisis brought on by provincial institutions that had failed to maintain classical texts and learned languages Today as rhetoric and composition have become reestablished in the humanities in American colleges English studies are being broadly transformed by cultural studies community literacies and political controversies Once again English departments that are primarily departments of literature see these basic writing courses as a sign of a literacy crisis that is undermining the classics of literature The Formation of College English reexamines the civic concerns of rhetoric and the politics that have shaped and continue to shape college English Nationalism in the Age of the French Revolution Otto Dann,John Dinwiddie,1988-01-01 It has been almost a truism of European history that the French Revolution gave a great stimulus to the growth of modern nationalism This collection of original essays in English sets out to examine in detail for the first time in what ways and for what reasons the era of the Revolution did see major developments in this respect in various parts of Europe The Climate of Europe: Past, Present and Future H.
