Department of Labor), 1966 Annual Report of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society to the Legislature of the State of New York American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, 1922 Historic Preservation, 1996 Annual Report of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society to the Legislature of New York American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, 1910 Hampton National Historic Site Ann Milkovich McKee, Hampton National Historic Site, 2007 Hampton National Historic Site in Towson Maryland was established in 1948 to preserve the surviving 63 acres of the vast empire built by the Ridgely family beginning in the 18th century In its heyday the estate covered 25 000 noncontiguous acres and included agricultural fields orchards livestock quarries mills and ironworks Today visitors flock to the magnificent Georgian mansion farm manager's house slave quarters dairy agricultural buildings formal gardens and family cemetery The story of Hampton National Historic Site extends beyond its buildings and setting to the people who lived and worked on the estate during the 200plus years of Ridgely ownership including the indentured servants the enslaved and the paid workforce The legacy of Hampton National Historic Site is illustrated here through rich primary source material that was generated for and by the Ridgelys including written documentation historic images and physical artifacts Standards for Preservation and Rehabilitation Stephen J. Kelley, 1996 Collects some 30 papers dealing with philosophical methodological and technical standards in building preservation The first section of papers present a general view of preservation The second section offers papers which discuss the different approaches to preservation practice The third section Crafting Preservation Criteria John H. Sprinkle, Jr., 2014-03-05 In 1966 American historic preservation was transformed by the passage of the National Historic Preservation Act which created a National Register of Historic Places Now comprising more than 14 million historic properties across the country the National Register is the official federal list of places in the United States thought to be worthy of preservation One of the fundamental principles of the National Register is that every property is evaluated according to a standard set of criteria that provide the framework for understanding why a property is significant in American history The origins of these criteria are important because they provide the threshold for consideration by a broad range of federal preservation programs from planning for continued adaptive use to eligibility for grants and inclusion in heritage tourism and educational programs Crafting Preservation Criteria sets out these preservation criteria for students explaining how they got added to the equation and elucidating the test cases that allowed for their use From artworks to churches from the fifty year rule to the historic scene students will learn how places have been historically evaluated to be placed on the National Register and how the criteria evolved over time Mastering Tradition James B. Garrison, 2004 The first comprehensive illustrated survey of John Russell Historic Preservation: Volume 16: Number 1, 1994 Giving Preservation a History Max Page, Randall Mason, 2004 Table of contents Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009, 2009 Scott-Grant Estate, Washington, D.C. United States. Mason, Max Page, 2019-10-21 In this volume some of the leading figures in the field have been brought together to write on the roots of the historic preservation movement in the United States ranging from New York to Santa Fe Charleston to Chicago Giving Preservation a History explores the long history of historic preservation how preservation movements have taken a leading role in shaping American urban space and development how historic preservation battles have reflected broader social forces and what the changing nature of historic preservation means for efforts to preserve national urban and local heritage The second edition adds several new essays addressing key developing areas in the field by major new voices The new essays represent the broadening range of scholarship on historic preservation generated since the publication of the first edition taking better account of the role of cultural diversity and difference within the field while exploring the connections between preservation and allied concerns such as environmental sustainability LGBTQ and nonwhite identity and economic development Protecting Suburban America Denise Lawrence-Zuniga, 2016-04-21 Protecting Suburban America explores the dynamics and conflicts inherent in preserving historic twentieth century suburban landscapes in America Bridging architecture anthropology planning and urban studies its unique approach combines a study of historic preservation with multi sited ethnographic fieldwork to shed fascinating light on issues of heritage preservation gentrification class ethnicity and contested values in suburbia These are subjects which reach far beyond the setting of the book s focus in California to touch on topical debates in cities suburbia and gentrifying neighborhoods worldwide At the heart of the book is a detailed comparative ethnography of preservation practices and the changing landscapes of five suburban cities where affluent homeowners have begun to restore their early twentieth century houses in neighborhoods once suffering from decline Not every neighbor however shares the same aesthetic values and complex dynamics can arise The study compares experiences in five different cities and in different long term immigrant and gentrifying populations Themes revealed include homeowner restoration practices aesthetic contestations local advocacy and public policy alongside an exploration of the social construction of the historic restoration process and how homeowners construct historical meaning in their homes and neighbourhoods These are themes with consequences for national and global settings of interest wherever contested preservation aesthetics and regulations are reshaping older residential neighbourhoods and their social dynamics

Historic Preservation Michael A. Tomlan, 2014-11-21 This well illustrated book offers an up to date synthesis of the field of historic preservation cast as a social campaign concerned with the condition treatment and use of the legacy of existing properties in the United States Drawing on a wide range of research experience and scholarship over the last fifty years it allows us to re think past and current ideas in preservation challenging readers to explore how their own interests lie within the cognitive framework of the activities taking place with people who care Who is involved is explored first in such a way as to explore why before examining what is deemed important After that the questions of when and how to proceed are given attention The major topics are introduced in an historical review through the mid 1980s after which the broad intellectual basis and fundamental legal framework is provided The economic shifts associated with major demographic changes are explored in tandem with responses of the preservation community A chapter is dedicated to the financial challenges and sources of revenue available in typical preservation projects and another chapter focuses on the manner in which seeing recording and interpreting information provides the context for an appropriate vision for the future In this regard it is made clear that not all green design alternatives are preservation sensitive The advocacy battles during the last few decades provide a number of short stories of the ethical battles regarding below ground and above ground historic resources and the eighth chapter attempts to explain why religion has been long held at arm s length in publicly supported preservation efforts when in fact it holds more potential to regenerate existing sites than any governmental program Historic and Archeological Preservation United States.
