Clinton, 1993 Clinton, William J., 1994-01-01 Public Papers of the Presidents of the United States The Horizontal Society Lawrence Meir Friedman, 1999-01-01 This book argues that modern technology has radically and irretrievably altered our sense of identity and hence our social political and legal life In traditional societies relationships and identities were strongly vertical there was a clear line of authority from top to bottom and identity was fixed by one's birth or social position But in modern society identity and authority have become much more horizontal people feel freer to choose who they are and to form relationships on a plane of equality The author examines how modern life centers on human identity seen in terms of race gender ethnicity and religion and how this new way of defining oneself affects politics social structure and the law He claims that our horizontal society is the product of the mass media in particular television which break down the isolation of traditional life and allow individuals to connect with like minded others across barriers of space and time As horizontal groups blossom loyalties and allegiances to smaller groups fragment what seemed to be the unity of the larger nation In addition the media's ability to spread a global mass culture causes a breakdown of cultural isolation that leads to more immigration and heavy pressure on the laws and institutions of citizenship and immigration A Register of the Presidents, Fellows, Demies, Instructors in Grammar and in Music, Chaplains, Clerks, Choristers, and Other Members of Saint Mary Magdalen College in the University of Oxford: The demies. v. 1-4; 1482-1857 John Rouse

In the Company of Men Nancy Mace, Mary Jane Ross, 2002-09

When Nancy Mace entered the Citadel, the United States government had just recently overturned the ruling that women were not allowed to enter the Corps of Cadets. Having grown up in a military family, Nancy was not unfamiliar with the harsh realities of military life. But upon entering those imposing gates, Nancy soon found out that she wasn't just fighting the tradition of the corps, but the culture and city that surrounded it. Steeped in tradition and lore, the grand bastion known as El Cid is considered one of the South's most infamous and controversial institutions. Built in 1842, it has turned out to be a unique brand of Southern man and now woman. This is the true account of one young woman's battle to be a part of the long gray line.

The Book of the Cat Frances Simpson, 1903 Haunted Presidents Charles A.

Stansfield, 2010 This book follows the nation's presidents chronologically from George Washington to Ronald Reagan with stories about their ghostly manifestations, their experiences with unexplained phenomena and odd encounters involving members of their families. A Register of the Presidents, Fellows, Demies, Instructors in Grammar and in Music, Chaplains, Clerks, Choristers, and Other Members of Saint Mary Magdalen College in the University of Oxford, from the Foundation of the College to the Present Time: The demies. v. 1-4; 1482-1857 Magdalen College (University of Oxford), 1879 Who Owns Football? David Hassan, Sean Hamil, 2013-09-13 The commercialization of sport since the 1990s has had a number of consequences. The market forces that have defined commercialization notably pay per view television whilst initially welcomed as important new sources of revenue have also had the unanticipated consequences of destabilizing many sporting competitions and institutions, undermining the financial future of clubs in their traditional role as key social and cultural institutions. This has been manifested in the paradox of chronic financial loss making amongst professional sports clubs in an era of exponential revenue growth, a trend exemplified by the experience of Italy's Serie A and the English Premier League, both cases examined in detail in this book. But at the same time, some traditional sporting organizations have sought with some success to chart a middle way, retaining traditional sporting movement objectives whilst also embracing a form of commercialism. The Gaelic Athletic Association in Ireland, the supporter-owned FC Barcelona football club and New Zealand rugby union offer illustrative examples of such strategies, examined in detail. This book explores the background to this clash of commercial and traditional sporting objectives and debates the consequences for wider sports governance. This book was published as a special issue of Soccer and Society. A Compilation of the Messages and Papers of the Presidents United States. President, 1922
