The Oxford Handbook of Environmental Criminology Gerben Bruinsma, Shane D. Johnson, 2018 The study of how the environment local geography and physical locations influence crime has a long history that stretches across many research traditions These include the neighborhood effects approach developed in the 1920s the criminology of place and a newer approach that attends to the perception of crime in communities Aided by new technologies and improved data reporting in recent decades research in environmental criminology has developed rapidly within each of these approaches Yet research in the subfield remains fragmented and competing theories are rarely examined together The Oxford Handbook of Environmental Criminology takes a unique approach and synthesizes the contributions of existing methods to better integrate the subfield as a whole Gerben J N Bruinsma and Shane D Johnson have assembled a cast of top scholars to provide an in depth source for understanding how and why physical setting can influence the emergence of crime affect the environment and impact individual or group behavior The contributors address how changes in the environment global connectivity and technology provide more criminal opportunities and new ways of committing old crimes They also explore how crimes committed in countries with distinct cultural practices like China and West Africa might lead to different spatial patterns of crime This is a state of the art

compendium on environmental criminology that reflects the diverse research and theory developed across the western world

Securing Public Transportation Systems Florian Brauner, 2016-08-08 Florian Brauner addresses the risk reduction effects of security measures SecMe as well as economic and social effects using terrorist threats in public transportation as use case SecMe increase the level of security but cause interferences and restrictions for customers e.g. privacy This study identifies the interferences and analyzes the acceptance with an empirical survey of customers A composite indicator for the acceptance of different SecMe is developed and integrated into a risk management framework for multi criteria decision analysis achieving the right balance of risk reduction costs and social acceptance

Making Public Places Safer Brandon C. Welsh, David P. Farrington, 2009-11-04 The United Kingdom has more than 4.2 million public closed circuit television CCTV cameras one for every fourteen citizens Across the United States hundreds of video surveillance systems are being installed in town centers public transportation facilities and schools at a cost exceeding 100 million annually And now other Western countries have begun to experiment with CCTV to prevent crime in public places In light of this expansion and the associated public expenditure as well as pressing concerns about privacy rights there is an acute need for an evidence based approach to inform policy and practice Drawing on the highest quality research criminologists Brandon C Welsh and David P Farrington assess the effectiveness and social costs of not only CCTV but also of other important surveillance methods to prevent crime in public space such as improved street lighting security guards place managers and defensible space Importantly the book goes beyond the question of Does it work and examines the specific conditions and contexts under which these surveillance methods may have an effect on crime as well as the mechanisms that bring about a reduction in crime At a time when cities need cost effective methods to fight crime and the public gradually awakens to the burdens of sacrificing their privacy and civil rights for security Welsh and Farrington provide this timely and reliable guide to the most effective and non invasive uses of surveillance to make public places safer from crime

GIS and Evidence-Based Policy Making Stephen Wise, Max Craglia, 2007-12-28 Although much has been written on evidence based policy making this is the first volume to address the potential of GIS in this arena GIS and Evidence Based Policy Making covers the development of new methodological approaches emphasizing the identification of spatial patterns in social phenomena It examines organizational issues including the Evidence-Based Counterterrorism Policy Cynthia Lum, Leslie W. Kennedy, 2011-11-06 In the past eight years there has been a massive increase in government spending on counterterrorism intervention development and implementation Given this increase there are two evidence based policy questions that are important to address Is there evidence that any of these programs are effective in other words can they be shown to be linked to reducing terrorism terrorist recruiting or to improving the response and management of terrorist events Do these interventions have secondary or collateral effects that may be costly harmful illegal beneficial or otherwise As Lum and Kennedy discovered in an evaluation research on counterterrorism interventions only a minuscule number of empirical studies of terrorism exist and there is an almost complete absence of evaluation research on counter terrorism strategies This is startling given the enormous increases in the development and use of counter terrorism programs as well as spending on counter terrorism activity Even more disconcerting was the nature of the evaluations we did find some programs were shown to either have no discernible effect on terrorism or lead to increases in terrorism The emphasis of the need for empirical research in evaluating interventions and informing policy cannot be overstated and is the primary goal of Evidence Based Counterterrorism Policy

International Handbook of Penology and Criminal Justice Shlomo Giora Shoham, Ori Beck, Martin Kett, 2007-10-08

At the outset of the twenty first century more than 9 million people are held in custody in over 200 countries around the world from the essay Prisons and Jails by Ron King The first comparative study of this increasingly integral social subject International Handbook of Penology and Criminal Justice provides a comprehensive and balanced review Problem-Oriented Policing Michael Scott, Ronald Clarke, 2020-03-19 Problem Oriented Policing Successful Case Studies is the first systematic and rigorous collection of effective problem oriented policing projects It includes more than twenty case studies from among the thousands of projects submitted for the Herman Goldstein Award for Excellence in Problem Oriented Policing The volume describes in detail the case studies and explains the wider significance of each for effective efficient and equitable policing This book explores a wide range of problems that fall under five general categories gang violence violence against women vulnerable people disorderly places and theft robbery and burglary The case studies tell stories of how police in collaboration with others successfully tackled real world policing problems fairly and effectively The authors have also drawn out of the case studies the cross cutting themes and issues they illustrate The authors prove that the concept can work bring to life the context in which police and communities addressed these vexing problems and ideally will inspire future problem oriented police work that builds on these reported successes Written in a clear and direct style this book will appeal to students and scholars of policing criminology and social studies police practitioners and crime analysts and all those who are interested in learning more about the reality of police problem solving The Handbook of Criminological Theory Alex R.
