Preventing violence against women and girls Ellis, Jane, Thiara, Ravi K., 2014-10-22 The need for children and young people to learn about violence against women and girls (VAWG) has been voiced since the late 1980s. This is the first ever book on educational work to prevent VAWG, providing the most comprehensive contribution to our knowledge and understanding in this area. By bringing together international examples of research and practice, the book offers insight into the underpinning theoretical debates and key lessons for practice, addressing the complexities and challenges of developing, implementing and evaluating educational work to prevent VAWG. This multidisciplinary book will be of interest to educationalists, VAWG and child welfare practitioners, policy makers, researchers and students Documents Council of Europe: Parliamentary Assembly, 2006-01-27 Protecting Vulnerable Groups Francesca Ippolito, Sara Iglesias Sánchez, 2015-04-30 The concept of vulnerability has not been unequivocally interpreted either in regional or in universal international legal instruments. This book analyses the work of the EU and the Council of Europe in ascertaining a clear framework or a set of criteria suitable to determine those who should be considered vulnerable and disadvantaged. It also explores the measures required to protect their human rights. Key questions can be answered by analysing the different methods used to determine the levels of protection offered by the two European systems. These questions include whether the Convention and the case law of the Strasbourg Court, the monitoring mechanisms of the Council of Europe, EU law and the case law of the European Court of Justice enhance the protection of vulnerable groups and expand the protection of their rights or alternatively whether they are mainly used to fill in relatively minor gaps or occasional lapses in national rights guarantees. The analysis also shows the extent to which these two European systems provide analogous or indeed divergent standards and how any such divergence might be problematic in light of the EU accession to the European Convention on Human Rights Yearbook of the European Convention on Human Rights/Annuaire de la convention européenne des droits de l'homme, Volume 46 (2003) Council of Europe/Conseil de l'Europe, 2004-08-07 This volume of the Yearbook

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN Vitulia Ivone, Stefania Negri, 2019-12-05 Violence against women is one of the most widespread pervasive and serious violations of human rights affecting every country or area of the globe Domestic violence against women and girls commonly known as intimate partner violence or family violence concerns any form of physical psychological sexual or economic abuse perpetrated by partners and relatives It encompasses multiple and varied acts and behaviors ranging from emotional and verbal abuse to femicide aiming at affirming power and control over women and their lives Although combating this form of violence is especially challenging in the context of private settings domestic violence is no longer treated as a private matter Decades of mobilization and sensitization of societies and institutions strongly supported by the restless action of women's movements have contributed to making violence against women a priority on the national and international agendas Indeed the road to the adoption of international binding instruments and national legislation on domestic violence has been long and twisted Nonetheless today women are protected against violence by some landmark legal instruments adopted at the global regional and national levels This book aims to offer a systematic overview of the legal protection afforded to women and girls against domestic violence and other relevant forms of violence and discrimination while also critically assessing the state of the law at international regional and domestic levels Special focus is placed on the European and Italian legal frameworkS

Member States' Joint Participation in International Agreements Nicolas Levrat, Yuliya Kaspiarovich, Christine Kaddous, Ramses A Wessel, 2022-02-24 EU law has developed a unique and complex system under which the Union and its Member States can both act under international law separately jointly or in parallel International law was not set up to deal with such complex and hybrid arrangements which raise questions under both international and EU law This book assesses how EU law has been adapted to cope with the constraints of international law in situations in which the EU and its Member States act jointly in relations with other States and international organisations In an innovative scholarly approach reflecting this duality each chapter is jointly written by a team of two authors The various contributions offer new insights into the tension that continues to exist between EU and international law obligations in relation to the joint participation of the EU and its Member States in international agreements Laws and policies to contrast and prevent Gender-Based

Violence Against Women Stellamarina Donato, 2023-10-10 What stage of development are women s rights as human rights By specifically regarding the prevention and elimination of all forms of Violence Against Women the book focuses on two European Mediterranean countries Italy and Spain The book first considers the chronological description and analysis of the main international documents those belonging to the United Nations apparatus followed by the analysis of the sources on Gender Based Violence Against Women GBVAW of the Council of Europe and the European Union The analysis of international documents guarantees an initial overview of the debate on GBVAW following a top down approach from the UN to the national level Successively the focus is on both national sources as well as the level of government responsiveness in terms of policies on GBVAW in Italy and Spain while also comparing the cases The book adopts multimethod research based on qualitative text analysis an examination of the level of national Government Responsiveness to GBVAW and a series of in depth interviews with targeted individuals The final aim of this book is to understand how international UN and regional CoE EU documents on GBVAW along with the categories and expressions used within the documents have contributed to different policies in countering GBVAW in Italy and Spain while also highlighting the reasons why the two countries responded differently Within a comprehensive international scenario this book intends to create space for debate on possible future EU policies aimed at contrasting GBVAW

Interfaith Networks and Development

Ezra Chitando,Ishanesu Sextus Gusha,2022-03-15 Although there is growing interest in the role of religion in meeting the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals SDGs Agenda 2030 very few studies have focused on the contributions of interfaith networks Most of the contemporary publications on religion and development focus on single religions or faith based organizations This volume addresses the lacuna in the available scholarship by undertaking detailed analyses of how interfaith networks in diverse African contexts contribute to development Chapters in this volume engage in theoretical debates on interfaith networks and development while describing concrete fresh case studies on how particular interfaith networks are contributing towards the meeting of the SDGs in specific contexts Thus the volume describes older and newer interfaith networks and analyses their achievements and challenges Contributors focus on SDGs that include peacebuilding gender youth the environment as well as overviews of interfaith initiatives in different African contexts

Human Rights Law and Evidence-Based Policy

Rosemary Byrne,Han Entzinger,2019-12-06 The EU Fundamental Rights Agency FRA was established to provide evidence based policy advice to EU institutions and Member States By blending social science research with traditional normative work it aims to influence human rights policy processes through new ways of framing empirical realities The contributors to this volume critically examine the experience of the Agency in its first decade exploring FRA s historical political and legal foundations and its evolving record across major strands of EU fundamental rights Central themes arising from these chapters include consideration of how the Agency manages the tension between a mandate to advise and the more traditional approach of human rights bodies to monitor and how its research impacts the delicate equilibrium between these two contesting roles FRA s experience as the first embedded human rights agency is also highlighted suggesting a role for alternative and less oppositional orientations for human rights research While authors observe the benefits of the technocratic approach to human rights research that is a hallmark of FRA s evidence based policy advice they also note its constraints FRA's policy work requires a continued awareness of political realities in Brussels Member States and civil society. Consequently, the complex process of determining the Agency's research agenda reflects the strategic priorities of key actors. This is an important factor in the Agency's role in the EU human rights landscape. This pioneering position of the Agency should invite reflection on new forms of institutionalized human rights research for the future. Research
