- Can prevent cues from being poisoned in the first place:
 - Set up training situations to give the animal the best chance to succeed without adverse consequences or associations.
 - For instance, training your dog in a small area (e.g., inside your house, in a puppy pen), where it is safe for your dog to be off-leash, allows you to build a strong history of reinforcement before adding more freedom and distractions.
 - Working off-leash eliminates the possibility that an inadvertent leash correction could occur during the early training
