Race Reality:

Race, Reality, and Realpolitik Jeffrey Sommers, 2015-11-11 The year 2015 marked the centennial of the 1915 United States occupation of Haiti and Haiti's resistance to that signal event in its history This study surveys the issues of economics race and realpolitik embedded in the political economy of U S interactions with Haiti that resulted in occupation It then interrogates what constitutes the state as it pertains to foreign policy along with an inspection of who benefits from empire This approach eschews tired dichotomies of whether or not the United States as a whole materially benefited from empire to instead simply look at who individually gained and what were the capacities of these beneficiaries to craft policy Next it delivers insights derived from a forensic analysis of Woodrow Wilson's perception of race and his decision to intervene in Haiti Attitudes enabling United States military leaders to implement a policy of occupation are provided through a study of Admiral William Caperton's role in the intervention The focus then telescopes out to inspect the role played by the press especially as booster for commercial opportunities In short the project answers the questions of why who and how American empire was undertaken through the case study of Haiti and its occupation in 1915     Reality TV Susan Murray, Laurie Ouellette, 2009 A collection of essays which provide a comprehensive picture of how and why the genre of reality television emerged what it means how it differs from earlier television programming and how it engages societies industries and individuals     Reality TV Jon Kraszewski, 2017-02-24 From early first wave programs such as Candid Camera An American Family and The Real World to the shows on our television screens and portable devices today reality television consistently takes us to cities such as New York Los Angeles and Boston to imagine the place of urbanity in American culture and society Jon Kraszewski offers the first extended account of this phenomenon as he makes the politics of urban space the center of his history and theory of reality television Kraszewski situates reality television in a larger economic transformation that started in the 1980s when America went from an industrial economy when cities were home to all classes to its post industrial economy as cities became key points in a web of global financing expelling all economic classes except the elite and the poor Reality television in the industrial era reworked social relationships based on class race and gender for liberatory purposes which resulted in an egalitarian ethos in the genre However reality television of the post industrial era attempts to convince viewers that cities still serve their interests even though most viewers find city life today economically untenable Each chapter uses a key theoretical concept from spatial theory such as power geometries diasporic nostalgia orientalism the imagination of social expulsions and the relationship between the country and the city to illuminate the way reality television engages this larger transformation of urban space in America     Reality TV June Deery, 2015-02-11 Reality TV has changed television and changed reality even if we are not among the millions who watch Written for a broad audience this accessible overview addresses questions such as How real is reality TV How do its programs represent gender sex class and race How does reality TV relate to politics to consumer society to surveillance What kind of ethics are on display Drawing on current media research and the author's own analysis this study encompasses the history and evolution of reality television its production of reflexive selves and ordinary celebrity its advertising and commercialization and its spearheading of new relations between television and social media To dismiss this programming as trivial is easy Deery demonstrates that reality television merits serious attention and her incisive analysis will interest students in media studies cultural studies politics sociology and anyone who is simply curious about this global phenomenon Reality TV Misha Kavka, 2012-02-15 This book is a study of the Reality TV format which in less than a decade has transformed network programming schedules branded satellite and digital stations become a favourite target for anti television campaigners and turned viewers into savvy r

Wyatt, Kristie Bunton, 2012-05-10 Reality television is continuing to grow both in numbers and in popularity The scholarship on reality TV is beginning to catch up but one of the most enduring questions about the genre Is it ethical has yet to be addressed in any systematic and comprehensive way Through investigating issues ranging from deception and privacy breaches to community building and democratization of TV The Ethics of Reality TV explores the ways in which reality TV may create both benefits and harms to society The edited collection features the work of leading scholars in the field of media ethics and provides a comprehensive assessment of the ethical effects of the genre      The Creolizing Subject Michael J. Monahan,2011 How does our understanding of the reality or lack thereof of race as a category of being affect our understanding of racism as a social phenomenon and vice versa This book focuses on the underlying assumptions that inform this view of race and racism arguing that it is ultimately bound up in a politics of purity an understanding of human agency and reality itself as requiring all or nothing categories with clear and unambiguous boundaries Monahan calls for the emergence of a creolizing subjectivity that would place such ambiguity at the center of our understanding of race      Understanding Race Rob DeSalle,Ian Tattersall,2022-07-07 Addresses

How Real Is Reality TV? David S. Escoffery,2014-12-03 American viewers are attracted to what they see as the non scripted unpredictable freshness of reality television But although the episodes may not be scripted the shows are constructed within a deliberately designed framework reflecting societal values The political economic and personal issues of reality TV are in many ways simply an exaggerated version of everyday life allowing us to identify perhaps more closely than we care to admit with the characters onscreen With 16 essays from scholars around the world this volume discusses the notion of representation in reality television It explores how both audiences and producers negotiate the gulf between representations and truth in reality shows such as Survivor The Apprentice Big Brother The Nanny American Idol Extreme Makeover Joe Millionaire and The Amazing Race Various identity categories and character types found in these shows are discussed and the accuracy of their television portrayal examined Dealing with the concept of reality audience reception gender roles minority portrayal and power issues the book provides an in depth look at what we see or think we see in reality TV Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here      Race or Ethnicity? Jorge J. E. Gracia,2018-07-05 What is race What is ethnicity Should we think of them as identities Can they be effectively individuated How are they related How do the relations between them influence pressing issues concerned with social identity gender racism assimilation exploitation justice the law and public policy And how are the answers to these questions affected by the Black and Latino experience in the United States From the Preface This collection of new essays explores the relation between race and ethnicity and its social and political implications Although much work has been done on the philosophy of race in the past century in the United States the concept of ethnicity has only recently awoken the interest of American philosophers and the relations between race and ethnicity remain largely unexamined The discussion is divided into two parts dealing on the one hand with the nature and the relation between race and ethnicity and on the other with the social consequences of the complex relations between them Part I explores in particular the debated topic of racial and ethnic identities Does it make sense to speak of racial and ethnic identities and especially of black and Latino identities And if it does make sense how should these identities be conceptualized and how are they related to gender Part II examines how race and ethnicity have influenced the lot of some social groups in significant ways How do racially defined institutions deal with racial assimilation How do different conceptions of race and ethnicity influence public policy and various forms of racism How can exploited racial and ethnic groups be effectively recognized And what is the role of affect in social justice as dispensed by the courts
