Eudell, 2003-04-03 This comparative study examines the emancipation process in the British Caribbean particularly Jamaica during the 1830s and in the United States particularly South Carolina during the 1860s Analyzing the intellectual and ideological foundations of postslavery Anglo America Demetrius Eudell explores how former slaves former slaveholders and their societies central governments understood and discussed slavery emancipation and the transition between the two Eudell investigates the public policies which addressed issues of labor control access to land and the general social behaviors of former slaves used to execute emancipation In both regions government appointed officials special magistrates in Jamaica and agents of the Freedmen s Bureau in South Carolina were crucial in implementing these policies While many former slaves were fighting for the right to be paid for their labor and to own land many officials came to view their role as part of a new civilizing mission whose goal was to eradicate the psychic damage supposedly caused by slavery Eudell concludes by examining the 1865 Morant Bay rebellion in Jamaica and the retreat from Reconstruction in South Carolina part of the larger movement of Redemption that occurred in 1877 Both of these occurrences represented the incomplete victory of emancipation Eudell argues and should provoke scholarly questions regarding the persistent thesis of U S exceptionalism

Abraham Lincoln and Reconstruction Peyton McCrary, 2015-03-08 After victorious federal troops swept through southern Louisiana in 1862 the state became the testing ground for Abraham Lincoln s approach to reconstruction and thus the focal point for the debate over post war policy in Washington Peyton McCrary offers a comprehensive account of the social and political upheavals in Louisiana set against the background of a new interpretation of the revolutionary dimensions of the Civil War party system He compares the moderate Republican regime set up by Lincoln with the antebellum social and political system and contrasts it with the reactionary government established in 1865 under the aegis of Andrew Johnson and the Democratic Party The author also explores the social history of the contract labor system the evolution of the Freedmen s Bureau and the growing participation of blacks in the Louisiana Republican movement Drawing on extensive research in unpublished manuscripts party records and newspapers and using sophisticated quantitative analysis of electoral and legislative behavior Professor McCrary suggests a significant revision of earlier interpretations of Lincoln s reconstruction policies He finds that the real architect of the gradualist approach with which the President was publicly identified was his commanding general in Louisiana Nathaniel P Banks who was less open to the idea of Negro suffrage than was Lincoln himself Originally published in 1979 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905
