ethnicity and socioeconomic status intersect to shape children's development and developmental contexts. Important chapters in this new release include the Implications of Intersecting Socioeconomic and Racial Identities for Academic Achievement and Well-being; The home environment of low-income Latino children; Challenges and opportunities; Profiles of race, ethnicity, and socioeconomic status; Implications for ethnic/racial identity, discrimination, and sleep; Youths' sociopolitical perceptions and mental health; Intersections between race, class, and gender; and much more. Rather than focusing on the additive effects of race, ethnicity, and SES, which is typical and a limitation in the developmental literature, the scholarship in this book considers how the factors and processes shaping the development of children of color can differ markedly across the socioeconomic continuum. This collection illustrates how applying an intersectional lens to developmental science can yield unique insights into the challenges confronting and assets buoying both minority and majority children's healthy development.

A Feminist Perspective on Human Trafficking of Women and Girls Nancy M. Sidun, Deborah L.

Hume, 2019-05-16 Focusing on the trafficking of women and girls from a feminist perspective, this book examines how social structures and gender influence human trafficking. While women and girls are not the only victims of trafficking, they tend to be disproportionately represented. Structural inequities, including poverty, gender-based violence, racism, class, and caste-based discrimination, and other forms of oppression and marginalization place some individuals at substantially greater risk to be trafficked. The contributors explore topics including trauma-informed assessment and therapy with survivors of human trafficking; issues facing children of trafficked women when they are reintegrated into their communities post-trafficking; the intersection of trafficking with racial and cultural oppression; critical aspects of international sex trafficking and commercial sexual exploitation of children. The book concludes with a discussion of how human trafficking intersects with both intracountry adoption and brokered marriages. This book was originally published as a special issue of Women Therapy.
