Restructuring Caring Labour Discourse State Practice And Everyday Life:

Restructuring Caring Labour Sheila M. Neysmith, 2000 Restructuring Caring Labour is a collection of essays that together take two disparate areas economic restructuring and caring labour and attempts to map out how the macro processes of economic restructuring are experienced by women at the micro level in terms of the increased labour and costs that they carry in relation to their care of others children spouses aging parents and extended families alike Each of the pieces in this collection examines the changing social conditions that shape the different types of paid and unpaid work that women do As well the papers share an analytic framework to document how economic and social restructuring affects the responsibilities that women carry for caring for others The arguments made by the volume as a whole therefore are both original and groundbreaking The book is written from a feminist perspective and integrates race and class as well as gender

Valuing Care Work Cecilia Benoit, Helga Hallgrimsdottir, 2011-02-12 There are many forms of paid and unpaid labour encompassed in health care systems including home care for the elderly or disabled community health services and the care family members provide for loved ones Valuing Care Work is an international comparative study that examines economic organizations as well as intimate settings to show how personal service work is shaped by broader welfare state developments To trace the relationships between gender labour and equity in health care the essays in this volume analyse the rules and practices that shape care work The contributors highlight how national configurations of the welfare state shape the gendering of paid and unpaid intimate labour in a range of settings and discuss how the policies and practices associated with neoliberalism have focussed on efficiency and accountability to the detriment of other policy agendas including those that might further increase dignity and equity for both recipients and providers of paid and unpaid health care

When Care Work Goes Global Mary Romero, Valerie Preston, Wenona Giles, 2016-02-11 Women who migrate into domestic labour and care work are the single largest female occupational group migrating globally at present Their participation in global migration systems has been acknowledged but remains under theorized Specifically the impacts of women migrating into care work in the receiving as well as the sending societies are profound altering gendered aspects of both societies We know that migration systems link the women who migrate and the households and organizations that employ domestic and care workers but how do these migration systems work and more importantly what are their impacts on the sending as well as the receiving societies How do sending and receiving societies regulate women s migration for care work and how do these labour market exchanges take place How is reproductive labour changed in the receiving society when it is done by women who are subject to multifaceted othering racializing processes A must buy acquisition When Care Work Goes Global will be an extremely valuable addition for course adoption in migration labour and gender courses taught in Sociology Anthropology Geography Women s Studies Area Studies and International Development Studies

A Caring Society? MICHAEL D. FINE, 2018-07-09 In the twenty first century characterized by population aging family fragmentation and the entry of women into the paid workforce caring has become a major public issue This book offers a comparative analysis of the sociology philosophy and emergent practices of care in the context of the political economy of post industrial societies

Risk and Nursing Practice Paul Godin,2017-09-16 Risk and Nursing Practice introduces the reader to a range of sociological theory that has arisen about the risk society Theories about risk and society are specifically related to aspects of health care and nursing practice that have become highly thematic such as violence against nurses techniques of risk assessment and risk management

Transnational Migration and Lifelong Learning Shibao Guo,2013-09-13 Economic globalization modern transportation and advanced communication technologies have greatly enhanced the mobility of people across national boundaries The resulting demographic social and cultural changes create new opportunities for development as well as new challenges for lifelong learning Transnational Migration and Lifelong Learning examines the changing nature of lifelong learning in the current age of transnational migration The book brings together international scholars from a range of countries in a dialogue about the relationship between work learning mobility knowledge and citizenship in the context of globalization and migration It covers a wide range of topics including global perspectives and analyses of migration the impact of migration on lifelong learning processes of exclusion and inclusion in lifelong learning the tension between mobility knowledge and recognition and transnationalism learning communities and citizenship This book was originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of Lifelong Education

The Legal Tender of Gender Shelley A. M. Gavigan,Dorothy E Chunn,2010-02-15 Extensive welfare law and policy reforms characterised the making and unmaking of Keynesian states in the twentieth century This collection highlights the gendered nature of these regulatory shifts and specifically the roles played by women as reformers welfare workers and welfare recipients in the development of welfare states historically The contributors are leading feminist socio legal scholars from a range of disciplines in Canada the United States and Israel Collectively their analyses of women law and poverty speak to long standing and ongoing feminist concerns the importance of historically informed research the relevance of women s agency and resistance to the experience of inequality and injustice the specificity of the experience of poor women and poor mothers the implications of changes to social policy and the possibilities for social change Such analyses are particularly timely as the devastation of neo liberalism becomes increasingly obvious The current world crisis of capitalism is a defining moment for liberal states a global catastrophe that concomitantly creates a window of opportunity for critical scholars and activists to reframe debates about social welfare work and equality and to reinsert the discourse of social justice into the public consciousness and political agenda of liberal democracies

Gender and the Contours of Precarious Employment Leah F. Vosko,Martha MacDonald,Iain Campbell,2009-09-10 Precarious employment presents a challenge to the social economic and political stability of labour markets in industrialized societies and there is widespread consensus that its growth is contributing to a series of common social inequalities especially along the lines of gender and citizenship This collection aims to yield new ways of understanding the forces driving labour market insecurity Medicare's Histories Esyllt W. Jones, James Hanley, Delia Gavrus, 2022-05-27 Medicare is arguably Canada's most valued social program. As federally supported Medicare enters its second half century, Medicare's Histories brings together leading social and health historians to reflect on the origins and evolution of Medicare and the missed opportunities characterizing its past and present. Embedding Medicare in the diverse constituencies that have given it existence and meaning, contributors inquire into the strengths and weaknesses of publicly insured health care and critically examine Medicare's unfinished role in achieving greater health equity for all people in Canada, regardless of race, status, gender, class, age, and ability. Fundamental to the stories told in Medicare's Histories is the essential role played by communities of activists, critics, health professionals, First Nations patients, families, and survivors in driving demands for health reform, in identifying particular omissions and inequities exacerbated or even created by Medicare, and in responding to the realities of Medicare for those who work in and rely on it. Contributors to this volume show how Medicare has been shaped by politics in the broadest sense of that word: identities, professional organizations, and social movements in Canada and abroad. As COVID lays bare social inequities and the inadequacies of health care delivery and public health, this book shows what was excluded and what was and is possible in health care.

Labor Movement Harald Bauder, 2006-02-23 In Labor Movement, Bauder attacks the conventional view of international migration as a function of spatial economic inequalities and shows that social, cultural, legal, and institutional processes rather than the invisible hand of the market shape migration patterns and labor market outcomes. In empirical case studies from North America and Europe, Bauder applies his theoretical ideas to a variety of geographical contexts. The studies illustrate how different legal, social, and cultural strategies towards international migrants are deployed and coordinated, and how this complex web of regulatory labor market processes relates to international migration. Bauder also integrates social, cultural, and economic forms of capital and includes citizenship as a form of cultural or institutional capital for migrants, a welcome and novel contribution to social scientists' methods of examining immigration and labor markets.
