Mixed International Arbitration Studies In Arbitration Between States And Private Persons:

Mixed International Arbitration Stephen J. Toope, 1993-01-01 This book focuses on the process of arbitration between States and private persons On the basis of an examination of this process particularly the manner through which tribunals are created and by which they render judgment the author assesses the role of the parties the relative importance of their interests the sources of law and the role of the adjudicator Part one is an exploration of some central difficulties both theoretical and practical that arise in mixed international arbitration In the forefront of these is the question of the applicable law and particularly the question of the delocalisation of both the procedural and the substantive law Part two contains extensive studies of the three most important regimes of mixed international arbitration currently in operation the International Chamber of Commerce the World Bank Centre for the Settlement of Investment Disputes and the Iran US Claims Tribunal

International Contracts and National Economic Regulation: Dispute Resolution Through International Commercial Arbitration Mahmood Bagheri, 2000-12-06 The growth of national economic regulation and the process of globalisation increasingly expose international transactions to an array of regulations from different jurisdictions These developments often contribute to widespread international contractual failures when parties claim the incompatibility of their contractual obligations with regulatory laws The author challenges conventional means of dispute resolution and argues for an interdisciplinary approach whereby disciplines such as international economic law conflict of laws contract law and economic regulations are functionally united to resolve international and multifaceted regulatory disputes He identifies the normative foundation of contract law as an important determinant in this process contending that contract law is essentially neutral and underpinned by the concept of corrective justice while economic regulations are mainly prompted by distributive justice Applying this corrective distributive justice dichotomy to international contracts the author critically assesses major conflict of laws approaches such as proper law the Rome Convention and governmental interest analysis which could disregard either public interest or private rights The author taking these theories into account proposes an alternative two dimensional interest analysis approach He tests the viability of this approach with reference to arbitral awards and court decisions in various jurisdictions and concludes that it uniquely fits into the structure of international commercial arbitration In adopting this approach arbitrators would take into account both corrective and distributive justice and to the extent that corrective justice prevails would be able to avert a total failure of the contract

The Settlement of International Disputes Nii Lante Wallace-Bruce, 2023-09-20 The first part of this book deals with the general principles relating to international disputes settlement It starts by looking at the nature of an international dispute in contemporary international law and by discussing the principles governing the ascertainment of the existence of an international dispute It then moves on to a consideration of the diplomatic means of an international dispute settlement The book not only focuses on the peaceful means but also considers other means in particular countermeasures A separate chapter is devoted to the International Court of Justice enabling in depth treatment of the issues The book critically analyses the cases in which Australia and New Zealand have been involved first as applicants and then as respondents thereby assessing the contributions made by these two countries to the development of the law relating to international disputes settlement ,

Carbonneau on International Arbitration Thomas E. Carbonneau, 2011-01-01 The chapters of this volume represent the majority of Professor Carbonneau's scholarly writings on the subject of international commercial arbitration They reflect his interest over the course of thirty years of law teaching in international litigation comparative law and of course international arbitration Some of the chapters are of a recent vintage while others were written a decade or two ago Whatever their date of production the chapters have a continuing professional interest Each addresses some of the major issues of trans border arbitration law A number of chapters emphasize the importance of courts in developing and maintaining a legal culture that is hospitable to arbitration The work of the courts has been instrumental to the reception of arbitration in the United States and in several European jurisdictions The courts can make or break arbitration by upholding arbitration agreements and enforcing arbitral awards Other chapters underscore that arbitration can operate as a complete legal system It not only provides workable trial procedures but arbitrators can also create law in their rulings With the addition of an internal arbitral appellate mechanism arbitrations can function with almost absolute independence The world law on arbitrations seems to favor the a national and a juridical operation of the arbitral process A few of the chapters recognize that arbitration is being increasingly employed to resolve political or mixed political and commercial disputes Investment arbitration and BITs are the most recent expression of this development it had been apparent in WTO and NAFTA dispute resolution The Iran U S Claims Tribunal presented the first great occasion for assessing the vocation of arbitration in a mixed dispute situation While arbitration has made significant inroads in this area political sovereignty remains resistant to the imposition of limitations In many less visible political cases determinations are nonetheless made and rendered enforceable The concluding chapters address more specific developments in the field of ICA A number of cases point to the strong perhaps overweening support of the judiciary for arbitration The courts in some jurisdictions support arbitration unequivocally and are bent upon a single outcome no matter the impact on doctrine Lawyer presence in the arbitral process has lead to increased formalization in some proceedings The judicialization of arbitration tilts the process toward the protection of rights and hinders its ability to function effectively and reach finality Lawyers can readily misunderstand and undermine the gravamen of arbitration The concluding chapters also establish that the UK Arbitration Act 1996 is one of the world s outstanding arbitration statutes It rivals and bests the UNCITRAL Model Law on ICA and is the equal of the French codified law on arbitration Finally the express text of the New York Arbitration Convention appears to have been altered significantly by court practice The possible limitations of national law have been neutralized and the provisions of the Convention articulate a truly trans border regulation of the enforcement of awards In sum the chapters in this book reflect the author s lifetime work in the area of international arbitration and are required reading for all those practicing in the field law students arbitrators academics and practicing lawyers

Beyond Human Rights Anne Peters,2016-10-27 Beyond

Human Rights previously published in German and now available in English is a historical and doctrinal study about the legal status of individuals in international law      The Rational Design of International Institutions Barbara Koremenos, Charles Lipson, Duncan Snidal, 2003-12-08 International institutions vary widely in terms of key institutional features such as membership scope and flexibility In this 2004 book Barbara Koremenos Charles Lipson and Duncan Snidal argue that this is so because international actors are goal seeking agents who make specific institutional design choices to solve the particular cooperation problems they face in different issue areas Using a Rational Design approach they explore five features of institutions membership scope centralization control and flexibility and explain their variation in terms of four independent variables that characterize different cooperation problems distribution number of actors enforcement and uncertainty The contributors to the volume then evaluate a set of conjectures in specific issue areas ranging from security organizations to trade structures to rules of war to international aviation Alexander Wendt appraises the entire Rational Design model of evaluating international organizations and the authors respond in a conclusion that sets forth both the advantages and disadvantages of such an approach      Treaty Interpretation in Investment Arbitration J Romesh

International Arbitration and the Permanent Court of Arbitration Manuel Indlekofer, 2013-08-01. The modern tendency to restrict international arbitration to matters of commerce and investment is succumbing to a renewed recognition of the original impetus for dispute resolution by arbitration, i.e. matters of public international law, most importantly the settlement of disputes that pose a threat of international conflict. Recent developments suggest a renaissance of public international arbitration, most clearly manifested in the present flourishing of the Permanent Court of Arbitration (PCA), the oldest existing dispute settlement institution in international law. As the calls for the development of new and more appropriate methods for dispute settlement in international law increased during the 1990s, the PCA undertook a structural reform and is today a vital forum for dispute settlement with scores of arbitrations currently pending under its auspices. This book, the most comprehensive study of the institution to date, covering its history, its present status and its future prospects, proves the PCA's contemporary relevance within the international dispute settlement framework. Among aspects of the PCA's work covered are the following: how public international arbitration functions in comparison to other means available for dispute settlement in international law; the PCA's historical contributions to the current dispute settlement framework; arbitrations between a state and a non-state actor that are in whole or in part governed by public international law; the fields in which public international arbitration plays a revived role; the PCA's present day institutional framework and its current activities; the prospects for public international arbitration and the PCA in the dispute settlement framework of the twenty-first century; and proposals to increase the PCA's activities in future and to sustain and enhance the institution's ongoing revitalization. A very useful Practitioner's Guide provides an overview of the PCA's various services and the best means of accessing them, along with a summary of the key provisions of the new PCA Arbitration Rules 2012. For lawyers who are involved in dispute resolution proceedings, there can be little doubt about the PCA's relevance. This book is at once an academic work indispensable for scholars of the institution and a practical guide that will be a required addition to the libraries of counsel, arbitrators and others involved in dispute resolution proceedings conducted at the PCA.
