International Commercial Arbitration and the Arbitrator's Contract Emilia Onyema, 2010-04-05 This book examines the formation nature and effect of the arbitrators contract addressing topics such as the appointment challenge removal and duties and rights of arbitrators disputing parties and arbitration institutions The arguments made in the book are based on a semi autonomous theory of the juridical nature of international arbitration and a contractual theory of the legal nature of these relationships From these premises the book analyses the formation of the arbitrator s contract in both ad hoc and institutional references It also examines the institution s contract with the disputing parties and its effect on the arbitrator s contract under institutional references The book draws from national arbitration laws and institutional rules in various jurisdictions to give a global view of the issues examined in it The arbitrator s contract is analysed from a global perspective of arbitral law and practice with insights from various jurisdictions in Africa Asia Europe North and South America The primary focus of the book is an analysis of the formation of the arbitrator's contract and the terms of this contract and the institution's contract. The primary question of the consequences if any of the breaches of the terms of these contracts and its impact on the exclusion or limitation of liability of arbitrators and institutions is also analysed with the conclusion that since these transactions are contractual and the terms can be categorised as in any normal contract then normal contractual remedies can be applied to the breaches of these terms. This book contributes to the empirical understanding of how arbitrators make their decisions on the substance of commercial disputes arising from international construction projects. It is based on in-depth interviews with 28 international construction arbitrators and on the analysis of dozens of international construction arbitration awards. The combined experience of those who participated in the author's research amounted to hundreds of international construction arbitrations. 300 cases in addition to several hundred international commercial arbitrations. It presents the results of the first and largest research to be undertaken in this area and it will be useful to arbitration practitioners and scholars and to the wider audience of dispute resolution students, practitioners and theorists. In turn, the book examines to what extent international arbitrators apply the law as the substantive norm providing an explanation for that and then offers insights into whether arbitrators in fact lean towards commercial and transnational norms to construe the parties' contract before discussing to what extent international arbitrators take into account fairness considerations to reach their decisions on the merits of the parties' claims. The book also examines to what extent international arbitrators apply mandatory rules of foreign law. Lastly, it provides insight into the effect of arbitrators' background characteristics on their decisions. Written for arbitration practitioners, arbitrators and legal counsel and scholars, the book will be useful for both experienced arbitrators and those starting their arbitration career or studying for their arbitration qualification. It will also be useful for project professionals involved in contract management and dispute resolution.
