Davis,2012-04-06 The emergence of the double bill in the 1930s created a divide between A pictures and B pictures as theaters typically screened packages featuring one of each With the former considered more prestigious because of their larger budgets and more popular actors the lower budgeted Bs served largely as a support mechanism to A films of the major studios most of which also owned the theater chains in which movies were shown When a 1948 U S Supreme Court antitrust ruling severed ownership of theaters from the studios the B movie soon became a different entity in the wake of profound changes to the corporate organization and production methods of the major Hollywood studios In The Battle for the Bs Blair Davis analyzes how B films were produced distributed and exhibited in the 1950s and demonstrates the possibilities that existed for low budget filmmaking at a time when many in Hollywood had abandoned the Bs Made by newly formed independent companies 1950s B movies took advantage of changing demographic patterns to fashion innovative marketing approaches They established such genre cycles as science fiction and teen oriented films think Destination Moon and I Was a Teenage Werewolf well before the major studios and also contributed to the emergence of the movement now known as underground cinema Although frequently proving to be multimillion dollar box office draws by the end of the decade the Bs existed in opposition to the cinematic mainstream in the 1950s and created a legacy that was passed on to independent filmmakers in the decades to come
