counterinsurgency was a serious component of security policy during the Cold War and along with counterterrorism has been the greatest security challenge after September 11 2001 In The Soul of Armies Austin Long compares and contrasts counterinsurgency operations during the Cold War and in recent years by three organizations the US Army the US Marine Corps and the British Army Long argues that the formative experiences of these three organizations as they professionalized in the nineteenth century has produced distinctive organizational cultures that shape operations Combining archival research on counterinsurgency campaigns in Vietnam and Kenya with the author's personal experience as a civilian advisor to the military in Iraq and Afghanistan The Soul of Armies demonstrates that the US Army has persistently conducted counterinsurgency operations in a very different way from either the US Marine Corps or the British Army These differences in conduct have serious consequences affecting the likelihood of success the potential for civilian casualties and collateral damage and the ability to effectively support host nation governments Long concludes counterinsurgency operations are at best only a partial explanation for success or failure

White Flag? Michael Ashcroft, Isabel Oakeshott, 2018-10-02

FOREWORD BY GENERAL SIR MIKE JACKSON After the pain of Iraq and Afghanistan it is hard to imagine the UK being drawn into another war Defence chiefs warn that there is a real prospect of future conflict but they have struggled to persuade most politicians to take them seriously Our leaders have concluded there are no votes in defence and have progressively run down the armed forces Today the army is at its smallest since the Napoleonic Wars the RAF is less than half its size twenty five years ago and the Royal Navy will struggle to muster the ships and weapons required to protect our new aircraft carriers Is there really a risk of war Is our military less capable and if so what could that mean for our future

White Flag explains what has happened to our armed forces in recent years and asks whether their decline endangers our safety and prosperity
