From Child Abuse to Permanency Planning, 1994 More than two million child abuse reports are filed annually on behalf of children in the United States Each of the reported children becomes a concern at least temporarily of the professional who files the report and each family is assessed by additional professionals A substantial number of children in these families will subsequently enter foster care Until now the relationships between the performance of our child welfare system and the growth and outcomes of foster care have not been understood In an effort to clarify them Barth and his colleagues have synthesized the results of their longitudinal study in California of the paths taken by children after the initial abuse report foster care a return to their homes or placement for adoption Because the outcomes of child welfare services in California have national significance this is far more than a regional study It provides a comprehensive picture of children s experiences in the child welfare system and a gauge of the effectiveness of that system The policy implications of the California study have bearing on major federal and state initiatives to prevent child abuse and reduce unnecessary foster and group home care      From Child Abuse to Foster Care Richard P. Combining advocacy and memoir with social and cultural history this book offers a comparative cross cultural survey of the whole history of adoption that is grounded in the author s personal experience      Widows and Orphans First S. J.

Kleinberg, 2010-10-01 The experiences of widows and their children during the Progressive Era and the New Deal depended on differences in local economies and values How did these widely varied experiences impact the origins of the welfare state S J Kleinberg delves into the question by comparing widows lives in three industrial cities with differing economic ethnic and racial bases Government in Fall River Massachusetts saw employment as a solution to widows poverty and as a result drastically limited public charity In Pittsburgh widows received sympathetic treatment Few jobs existed for them or their children indeed the jobs for men were concentrated in widowmaking industries like steel and railroading With a large African American population and a diverse economy that relied on inexpensive child and female labor Baltimore limited funds for public services African Americans adapted by establishing their own charitable institutions A fascinating comparative study Widows and Orphans First offers a one of a kind look at social welfare policy for widows and the role of children in society during a pivotal time in American history

Bowling Alone: Revised and Updated Robert D. Putnam, 2001-08-01 Once we bowled in leagues usually after work but no longer This seemingly small phenomenon symbolizes a significant social change that Robert Putnam has identified in this brilliant volume Bowling Alone which The Economist hailed as a prodigious achievement Drawing on vast new data that reveal Americans changing behavior Putnam shows how we have become increasingly disconnected from one another and how social structures whether they be PTA church or political parties have disintegrated Until the publication of this groundbreaking work no one had so deftly diagnosed the harm that these broken bonds have wreaked on our physical and civic health nor had anyone exalted their fundamental power in creating a society that is happy healthy and safe Like defining works from the past such as The Lonely Crowd and The Affluent Society and like the works of C Wright Mills and Betty Friedan Putnam s Bowling Alone has identified a central crisis at the heart of our society and suggests what we can do

Conflicting Paths Harvey J. Graff, 1995 We grow up so simple it just seems to happen and yet there are endless variations in the way we do it What part does culture play in the process How much do politics and economics have to do with it As the nation has matured have the ways people grow up changed too This book traces the many paths to adulthood that Americans have pursued over time Spanning more than two centuries of intense transformation in the lives of individuals and the life of a nation Conflicting Paths is an innovative history of growing up in America Harvey J Graff a distinguished social historian mines more than five hundred personal narratives for what they can tell us about the passage from childhood to maturity Drawing on diaries memoirs autobiographies and letters he builds a penetrating complex firsthand account of how childhood adolescence and youth have been experienced and understood as functions of familial and social relations as products of biology and physiology and as cultural and political constructs These first person testimonies cross the lines of time and space gender and class ethnicity age and race In these individual stories and the larger story they constitute Graff exposes the way social change including institutional developments and shifting attitudes expectations and policy and personal experience intertwine in the process of growing up Together these narratives form a challenging subtle guide to historical experiences and to the epochal remaking of growing up The most socially inclusive and historically extensive of any such research Graff s work constitutes an important chapter in the story of the family the formation of modern society and the complex interweaving of young people tradition and change

Fostering on the Farm Megan Birk,2015-06-15 From 1870 until after World War I reformers led an effort to place children from orphanages asylums and children s homes with farming families The farmers received free labor in return for providing room and board Reformers meanwhile believed children learned lessons in family life citizenry and work habits that institutions simply could not provide Drawing on institution records correspondence from children and placement families and state reports Megan Birk scrutinizes how the farm system developed and how the children involved may have become some of America s last indentured laborers Between 1850 and 1900 up to one third of farm homes contained children from outside the family Birk reveals how the nostalgia attached to misplaced perceptions about healthy family based labor masked the realities of abuse overwork and loveless upbringings endemic in the system She also considers how rural people cared for their own children while being bombarded with dependents from elsewhere Finally Birk traces how the ills associated with rural placement eventually forced reformers to transition to a system of paid foster care adoptions and family preservation
