Loss and Grief Bernard Schoenberg,1970 Hospice Education Program for Nurses: Participant manual ,1981

Pain Management in Rehabilitation Dr. Martin Grabois, MD,Dr. Trilok Monga, MD,2002-09-01 Pain is a common symptom of many diseases and is often referred for a physical medicine and rehabilitation consultation Despite the availability of information on the pathophysiology assessment and management of acute musculoskeletal pain chronic pain still remains an unsolved problem for many patients Pathophysiology in these patients often remains obscure assessment difficult and management frustrating These issues become magnified when pain acute or chronic complicates a primary disabling disease such as spinal cord injury cerebrovascular accident or multiple sclerosis To date the physiatric management of these complex syndromes has not been dealt with in a comprehensive fashion especially with regard to the relationship of pain functional status and quality of life in these patients Pain Management in Rehabilitation provides a single source that synthesizes information about the diagnosis and management of various pain syndromes in patients with primary disabling diseases It discusses pain as it relates to various disease processes from the perspective of both rehabilitation specialists and primary care providers It describes pain syndromes their assessment and management in some of the most common impairments seen in a rehabilitation setting Relevant literature is reviewed with emphasis on assessment and physiatric management This valuable text is an unparalleled guide to the successful management of pain in persons with a primary disabling disease with the goal of preventing physiological and functional decline and the improvement of functional abilities which in turn lead to enhanced psychosocial functioning and quality of life Coping With Loss Susan Nolen-Hoeksema,Judith Larson,Judith M. Larson,2013-01-11 Coping With Loss describes the many ways in which people cope with the death of someone they love Most earlier books on bereavement have fallen into two categories distillations of the clinical experience of individual therapists or collections of chapters reporting the results of empirical studies Each category is valuable but has tended to serve a narrow group of readers practitioners with particular theoretical orientations or researchers in quest of the latest findings Coauthored by a leading research psychologist and an experienced therapist who specializes in bereavement education and intervention this book is different The authors weave together the strands of theory research and clinical wisdom into a seamless and readable narrative While they discuss previous work they also present new data never before published from one of the largest studies of bereaved people ever conducted the Bereavement Coping Project Unlike most studies to date which focused on only one type of bereaved group usually widows or widowers the Bereavement Coping Project examined the experiences of several different groups during the first 18 months after the death The groups included those who had lost a spouse a parent an adult sibling or a child and those who had lost their significant other to cancer or cardiovascular disease on one hand as opposed to the stigmatized disease of AIDS on the other The book begins with a critical overview of theories of bereavement succeeding chapters explore in depth the impact of specific types of loss the impact of particular coping strategies on recovery the impact of social supports and religion and the special cases of children and of people who seem to grow and change for the better after a loss A final chapter considers implications for intervention with bereaved people Each chapter is richly illuminated with real life examples throughout and ends with a section called Voices in which bereaved people describe their various attempts to cope in their own words Insightful and informative Grief and the Healing Arts Sandra L. Bertman,2018-02-06 For nearly three decades Sandra Bertman has been exploring the power of the arts and belief symbols metaphors stories to alleviate psychological and spiritual pain not only of patients grieving family members and affected communities but also of the nurses clergy and physicians who minister to them Her training sessions and clinical interventions are based on the premise that bringing out the creative potential inherent in each of us is just as relevant perhaps more so as psychiatric theory and treatment models since grief and loss are an integral part of life Thus this work was compiled to illuminate the many facets that link grief counseling and creativity The multiple strategies suggested in these essays will help practitioners enlarge their repertoire of hands on skills and foster introspection and empathy in readers Living With Grief Kenneth J. Doka,2019-01-22 While we often discuss how we grieve rarely do we consider the places where we grieve Yet whether at work at school at worship or at home grief not only affects our moods and motivation but our ability to function and our relationships as well This book considers the ways that grief influences us in varied settings offering humane and practical suggestions to organizations such as workplaces schools or places of worship as to how they can assist grievers in their midst struggling with illness and loss First published in 1999 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Materials for Cancer Nursing Education: a Catalogue Koba Associates,1975 Over 500 references to books journal articles pamphlets and audiovisuals to be used by educators of nurses involved with cancer patients Directed toward nursing activity rather than to the disease itself Citations arranged under broad headings e g Handling the child as a cancer patient Entry gives bibliographical information brief summary and when available intended audience Author producer title and subject indexes A Comprehensive Bibliography of the Thanatology Literature Martin L. Christ, Kalman Flomenhaft, 2012-12-06 The past decade has brought extraordinary gains in the outlook for children stricken with cancer Though cancer remains a leading cause of death for children and young adults more victims of childhood cancer today will survive than will die The therapeutic advances and the optimism they instill have prompted researchers and clinicians to analyze the impact of cancer upon young patients and their families and to devise more effective intervention strategies Hope and survival juxtaposed with the continuing high mortality associated with certain forms of the illness add new challenges to management of the psychosocial aspects of cancer To respond to these challenges we need research as rigorous as that which continues to make inroads in treating the physical illness This specific concern for the needs of children suffering from cancer and their families has paralleled an increasing sensitivity on the part of the medical community and the public at large to the limitations of specialized high technology health care practices More Words on Aging, Supplement, 1971 United States.
