Samuels, 2018-04-02 This work maps out the anthropological genealogies that have made cultural heritage an area of vibrant research and practice within anthropology today Infinite Mobilization Peter Sloterdijk, 2020-04-22 The core of what we refer to as the project of modernity is the idea that human beings have the power to bring the world under their control and hence it is based on a kinetic utopia the movement of the world as a whole reflects the implementation of our plans for it But as soon as the kinetic utopia of modernity is exposed its seemingly stable foundation cracks open and new problems appear things don t happen according to plan because as we actualize our plans we set in motion other things that we didn t want as unintended side effects We watch with mounting unease as the self perpetuating side effects of modern progress overshadow our plans as a foreign movement breaks off from the very core of the modern project supposedly guided by reason and slips away from us spinning out of control What looked like a steady march towards freedom turns out to be a slide into an uncontrollable and catastrophic syndrome of perpetual mobilization And precisely because so much comes about through our actions these developments turn out to have explosive consequences for our self understanding as we begin to realize that so far from bringing the world under our control we are instead the agents of our own destruction In this brilliant and insightful book Sloterdijk lays out the elements of a new critical theory of modernity understood as a critique of political kinetics shifting the focus of critical theory from production to mobilization and shedding new light on a world facing the growing risk of humanly induced catastrophe     Media Policy and Nation Building V. S. Findlay,2023-07 In the years between 1940 and 2000 the American Far West went from being a relative backwater of the United States to a considerably more developed modern and prosperous region one capable of influencing not just the nation but the world By the dawn of the twenty first century the population of the West had multiplied more than four times since 1940 and western states had transitioned from rural to urban becoming the most urbanized section of the country Massive investment both private and public in the western economy had produced regional prosperity and the tourism industry had undergone massive expansion altering the ways Americans identified with the West In The Mobilized American West 1940 2000 John M Findlay presents a historical overview of the American West in its decades of modern development During the years of U S mobilization for World War II and the Cold War the West remained a significant distinct region even as its development accelerated rapidly and in many ways it became better integrated into the rest of the country By examining events and trends that occurred in the West Findlay argues that a distinctive region wide political culture developed in the western states from a commitment to direct democracy the role played by the federal government in owning and managing such a large amount of land and the way different groups of westerners identified with and defined the region While illustrating western distinctiveness Findlay also aims to show how in its sustaining mobilization for war the region became tethered to the entire nation more than ever before but on its own terms Findlay presents an innovative approach to viewing the American West as a region distinctive of the United States one that occasionally stood ahead of at odds with and even in defiance of the nation

Chinese Assertiveness, Ideational Mobilization, and the Rise of Xi Jinping Friso M.S. Stevens, 2025-05-06 This book examines the historical domestic and leadership drivers behind the repositioning of China toward center stage after 2008 In the years of global turmoil that followed the 2008 global financial crisis China's foreign policy of the late Hu Jintao years came to be viewed in Western discourse as increasingly assertive Displaying a certain cognitive dissonance China however vehemently rejects this viewpoint Especially after Xi Jinping rose to power in 2012 it is clear that China has abandoned its long held foreign policy doctrine of keeping a low profile Analyzing how language has been produced and reproduced over time this book explains the shift to a more assertive China by examining the intervening ideas about China's desired place in East Asia's regional order The Chinese Communist Party propaganda offers compelling evidence that there is much greater continuity between the Hu and Xi eras than is exhibited in the current literature Moreover the book traces the deeper ideational sources of Chinese assertiveness back to the New Left movement and the Patriotic Education Campaign of the 1990s Agency for the turn in the late 2000s and the selection of the compromise candidate Xi is attributed to the choices past leaders made with some Party elders ruling from behind the curtain This book will be of much interest to students of Chinese politics and foreign policy East Asian International Relations and Security Studies      Rethinking Greenland and the Arctic in the Era of Climate Change Frank Sejersen, 2015-06-05 This ground breaking book investigates how Arctic indigenous communities deal with the challenges of climate change and how they strive to develop self determination Adopting an anthropological focus on Greenland's vision to boost extractive industries and transform society the book examines how indigenous communities engage with climate change and development discourses It applies a critical and comparative approach integrating both local perspectives and adaptation research from Canada and Greenland to make the case for recasting the way the Arctic and Inuit are approached conceptually and politically The emphasis on indigenous peoples as future makers and right holders paves the way for a new understanding of the concept of indigenous knowledge and a more sensitive appreciation of predicaments and dynamics in the Arctic This book will be of interest to post graduate students and researchers in environmental studies development studies and area studies
