Health, Longevity and the Martial Arts Edmund A. Cruz, 2018-06-16 There are many exercise programs out there to choose from however choosing martial arts as that exercise venue is a big decision As in all sports dedication and discipline are required in your chosen sport to become good In choosing the martial arts as your pursuit that dedication and discipline is at a very high standard It becomes a lifetime devotion which is geared towards a code of honor a creed to follow and responsibility to carry your skills to a higher human level This book is not just about martial arts or about you making a survival choice regarding a self defense endeavor it is also about life and longevity as well as how to stay and maintain that state of physical well being This maintenance or balance formulates the essence of Taijiquan the philosophical concept for both its defense training and its health benefits I hope in reading this book it will help you to choose wisely What would happen if the masters of different martial art s academies join forces to devise one master form of martial arts This should include all the martial arts systems styles philosophies and functionalities and to embrace the hidden secrets of their individual styles and formulate one master super self defense universal system that is all incorporating and encompassing A structure in which entails the very essence of human survival This new system of martial arts would maintain the subsistence for the sacredness and protection of our evolutionary way This way is the continuation of the human species Longevity depends on maintaining your survival skills and survival skills depend on maintaining your health It is all tied together and there is no separation of these factors This book is about that to maintain and live a healthy and long life through the use of the martial arts format I called the union above The Yoda System

Habilitation, Health, and Agency Lawrence C. Becker, 2012-06-15 Lawrence C. Becker introduces an unconventional set of background ideas for future philosophical work on normative theories of basic justice The organizing concept is habilitation the process of equipping a person or thing with functional abilities or capacities The specific proposals drawn from the concept of habilitation are independent of any particular set of distributive principles The result is a framework for theory that includes a metric for the pursuit of basic justice but not a normative theory of it The basic idea is that receiving and providing habilitation is a lifelong necessity for human beings from their nearly helpless newborn state through their struggles to survive and thrive thereafter even into the most severe diminishments of old age This lifelong human necessity underlies all questions about basic justice and the possibilities for habilitation define the circumstances under which those questions arise Focusing on the circumstances of habilitation calls attention to the central role of physical and psychological health Without basic good health in both domains it is not possible to cope with the habilitative demands of one's physical and psychological endowments and one's physical and social environments And for human beings a particular aspect of human health effectively sums up these matters namely human agency the nature and extent of the ability to act effectively The book proposes specifically that normative theories of basic justice adopt the habilitation framework What then appears to follow is that the most plausible comprehensive metric for assessing progress toward basic justice will be the level and distribution of basic good health Moreover achieving robustly healthy agency will be the most plausible tactical target for making progress toward basic justice no matter what one's favored distributive principles might be
