Competition Law and Regulation of the EU Electronic Communications Sector Liyang Hou, 2012-09-01 This book brings satisfying definition and clarity to this field at last Exploring the substantive differences between competition law and sector specific regulation after the methodological integration it presents the first detailed analysis of the many hundreds of notifications and Commission letters generated under the Article 7 procedure identifying the most relevant cases dealing with market definition market power and remedies It compares these decisions with relevant competition law cases and highlights elements with a bearing on sector specific regulation It also offers hugely valuable guidance through the vast amount of documents in the Commission's CIRCA database Topics and issues raised include the following definition of product markets delineation of geographic markets including sub national different practices in relation to assessing single market power and collective market power and competition problems such as refusal to deal margin squeeze non price discrimination and excessive pricing There can be little doubt that this is the new reference point for researchers and practitioners in this domain By systematically categorizing the concepts and legal criteria and building a solid theoretical framework on the intersection of competition law and sector specific regulation the author has created a resource that is sure to be welcomed by all those involved in regulation of electronic communications markets and network industries in general academic scholars telecommunications regulators at the EU and Member State levels competition authorities law firms specializing in IT communications law practitioners in IT and telecommunications companies and consultants in the sector The book will also prove very useful for scholars and practitioners in other parts of the world interested in comparing the EU system with their own

Satellite Regulation in Europe Stéphan Le Goueff, 2021-10-25 Commercial satellite activities have undergone enormous growth in the last decades and so has the complexity of the legal framework within which these activities have to be carried out Because of the international character of satellite activities this legal framework has often been established on an international or regional level through institutions such as the European Union the International Telecommunications Union the World Trade Organisation and the European Conference of Postal and Telecommunications Administrations It is not an easy task to obtain a complete picture of this legal framework For this reason it was considered opportune to assemble all relevant legal texts and materials established by these institutions into one book As telecommunications is currently the most important commercial application of satellites it should come as no surprise to anyone that the main part of the book is dedicated to this application simply because of the fact that the legal framework is furthest developed However relevant texts and materials for the three other commercial satellite activities broadcasting remote sensing and navigation have also been included This book is a very valuable tool for all those involved in the European satellite business or for those who want to get involved in it whether they are lawyers or non lawyers everyone is affected by the laws and regulations governing this field and everyone should be aware of the limitations these laws and regulations might impose

Competition Law and Regulation in European

Telecommunications Pierre Larouche,2000-05-24 Using numerous practical examples this book examines the evolution of EC telecommunications law following the achievement of liberalisation the main policy goal of the 1990s After reviewing the development of regulation in the run up to liberalisation the author identifies the methods used to direct the liberalisation process and tests their validity in the post liberalisation context A critical analysis is made of the claim that competition law will offer sufficient means to regulate the sector in the future Particular emphasis is given to the way in which EC Competition Law changed in the 1990s using the essential facilities doctrine an expansive non discrimination principle and the policing of cross subsidisation to tackle what were then thought of as regulatory matters Also examined within the work is the procedural and institutional interplay between competition law and telecommunications regulation In conclusion Larouche explores the limits of competition law and puts forward a long term case for sector specific regulation with a precise mandate to ensure that the telecommunications sector as a whole fulfils its role as a foundation for economic and social activity

Subcommittee on National Security Policy and Scientific Developments,1970 Defence Industrial Cooperation in the European Union Daniel Fiott,2019-03-28 This book provides an empirical understanding of how EU level defence industrial cooperation functions in practice Using the Liberal Intergovernmental theoretical model the book argues that while national economic preferences are an essential factor of government interests they only explain part of the dynamic that leads to the development of defence industrial policy at EU level Moving beyond a simple adumbration of economic preferences it shows how the EU's institutional framework and corpus of law are used by governments to reaffirm their position as the ultimate arbiter and promoter of national economic preferences in the defence industrial sector To this end the work asks why and how EU member state governments European defence firms and EU institutions developed EU level defence industrial policy between 2003 and 2009 The book also analyses significant policy developments including the establishment of a European Defence Agency and two EU Directives on equipment transfers and defence procurement This book will be of much interest to students of EU policy defence studies security studies and International Relations in general

Telecommunications for Europe 1995 C. Berben, P. Scott, 1995 This volume explores the development of high performance information and communication systems in the years 1991 to 1994 It features some of the key decisions which will shape the telecommunications landscape in Europe in the future

The New Laws of Outer Space Ugo Pagallo, 2024-11-14 This book maps out the moral legal and societal issues brought forth by the use of autonomous systems such as AI and smart robots in outer space Humanity is on the brink of a new space era in which projects for permanent human colonies on the Moon and space missions with autonomous AI systems will soon become a reality Principles and provisions of international space law fall increasingly short in tackling this scenario Experts and institutions have recommended improvements to the legal framework such as new international agreements or policies that would not require any amendment to conventional law Most of the time such proposals and recommendations overlook the challenges posed by technology and how autonomous and intelligent systems in outer space require moral and legal standards of their own This book argues that the traditional focus on satellite communications space related services and the appropriability of celestial resources needs to be integrated by new laws of outer space regulating cybersecurity law and environmental law data governance and consumer protection The new laws of outer space will increasingly concern the development of new standards for the behaviour and decision making of AI systems and smart robots with and without humans aboard deep space missions and in next generation colonies What laws shall govern us out there in a new terra incognita This is the question that the book sets out to answer
